The thing I cannot understand is "philosophy." The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, said we could not tell about philosophy. Why, I can tell about philosophy; I know the philosophy of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, and I know the shade of differences of that philosophy from the philosophy of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, or the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. O'Brien, who has, I think, a different philosophy from that of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy. We know people when we talk to them, we know people when we see them, and when we associate with them; we get to know the philosophy they have; we get to know the kind of thing they advocate; we get to know their turn of mind. If I had not that sort of philosophical viewpoint toward my associates on the other side for the past half dozen years, I don't know how I could ever have lived with them, with the political views they have held in the past half dozen years. So I say to you we want an amendment which seeks to check, which seeks to prohibit, which seeks to rid ourselves of that group that advocates and teaches, but would never get caught out in front of the movement. That is not the place they go. We know they are not going to get caught in the front line trenches of any movement to overthrow the government of the United States. They are going to get underneath; they are going to hide under the Stars and Stripes, they are going to hide under the Constitution of the United States and they are going to have that kind of things on the rostrum while they underneath slyly work upon the feelings of the people. That is what we want to reach.

Maybe this language does seem a bit vague to the gentleman from Allegheny, but I know with his technical and legal mind, he knows that an overt act as defined by the dictionary must be an open act with criminal intent. But a man may advocate and may teach or promote without committing an overt act such as would be contemplated under the law. I cannot for the life of me understand the tenderness of my friends on the other side. I can only say that if the tenderness is as prevalent, if it exists as we fear in the legislature, then I think there is something vitally wrong with the philosophy of my friends on the other side, and I think they ought to give serious consideration to the things that have been going on not only in this country, but everywhere. In New York there is a great community of people of German extraction who absolutely believe in the Hitler policy, who advocate that policy, who teach that policy, who suppress anyone who does not believe as they believe. It is almost unthinkable that it could exist, some 40,000 people in the heart of a great American city, but those things are existing today, and the only way we can get at it is to go behind the overt acts, to the person who teaches, the person who advocates and the person who promulgates. I will say for my Republican colleagues that we will vote against the amendments offered by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I am sorry that we do not have the time to go deeply into this matter and make a speech, but I might call to the gentleman's attention that we are writing laws, not making speeches. I can make a speech as to the philosophy or as to the state of mind of many people, but certainly no one would say in a free country that we can begin to legislate against a person's philosophy. That never has been done, it cannot be done today, and when we are writing laws we must first of all write those laws in conformity with the Constitution. Secondly, a law must be capable of a fair interpretation by the tribunal whose duty it is to interpret those laws. I agree with everything the gentleman has said, and if I had time to make a speech, I would make a speech also, but I do not believe it is apropos to this legislation confronting us today. After all, the gentleman is a lawyer and he knows that people cannot be convicted of a crime, and should not be denied employment simply because they have a state of mind different from his. My state of mind is different from his state of mind, and we all might be called un-American in some instances. Certainly that is not the intent of the Constitution when it gives the Legislature the sole authority to pass legislation. As I said before, we have two objects in view in passing any legislation, and only two; we must pass legislation in conformity with the Constitution and we must pass legislation that is clear and can be interpreted. Besides that we have no purpose in passing any legislation.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I was very much amused by the statement of the gentleman from Delaware when he said that in living six years with some of the Members of the House, especially on this side,—and he mentioned the gentleman from Allegheny and two from Philadelphia, that he knew their philosophy and he could certainly speak with some authority on that.

I want to say in answer to the gentleman from Delaware that if he knows my philosophy, he knows that I am not for House Bill 413 as it came out of committee ---

Mr. BAKER. Mr. Speaker, I believe that the amendments are before the House, and not the speech of the gentleman from Delaware. I would like to have the gentleman from Philadelphia talk on those amendments.

The SPEAKER. The question before the House is on the amendments offered by the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner. The gentleman will proceed in order.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I am confining my remarks to the amendments offered by the gentleman from Delaware. I would say to the gentleman from Delaware that if he knew Mr. Levy's philosophy he would know that Mr. Levy is not for House Bill 413 as it came out of the Committee. Rather I would say I am for House Bill 413 as it has been offered to be amended by the gentleman from Allegheny and I say to the gentleman from Delaware, who has differed with me on numerous occasions, that his amendments are conscientious; they come from the heart,—I have no scruples with him personally. I know that when he offers them he offers them in a sense of sincerity regarding his own philosophy, but I only want to say to the gentleman from Delaware and to clear the air that I do not believe we have a Communist in the House, and certainly—Mr. Speaker, I deserve a little courtesy. I have never yelled across from one side of this Hall to another while another member was making an address, and I don't like it.

Now, I would say, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, even though I have the greatest respect for the amendments offered by the gentleman from Delaware I nevertheless cannot agree with them. I think they are too vague, they are too indefinite, because as the gentleman from Allegheny made mention, we are not making speeches; we are making laws. I as a member of this Assembly am not going to vote against one hundred thousand employes in order to catch two Communists,—I am not going to do it, and I don't think any person who loves his country wants to legislate that way. I detest Communism and I hate it. I was proud of our Under-Secretary of the State department the other day in his statement on the Russian-German outbreak on the other side. When he said, "This right,"—speaking of the rights granted us by the American form of government, the right of freedom to worship God as our conscience dictates,—"has been denied to their people by both the Nazi and Soviet Governments. To the people of the United States this and other principles and doctrines of Communistic dictatorship are as intolerable, and as alien to their own beliefs, as are the principles and doctrines of Nazi dictatorship." The Under-Secretary continued by saying "Neither kind of imposed overlordship can or will have any support or any sway in the mode of life or in the system of government of the American people."

I say to the gentleman from Delaware, I subscribe wholeheartedly to the statement by the Under-Secretary of the State Department, and I believe he does. I do not like Communism; I love America just as he does, but, members of this House, I am not going to legislate in order to jeopardize the position of hundreds of employes in the state, who by House Bill 413 without the proper amendments would be placed at the mercy and jeopardy of any fool who wishes to take advantage of the prerogative given by the act of this Assembly. I say to the gentleman from Delaware, yes, it is true, we have different philosophies. I do not agree with the Governor on many occasions. I would say to the gentleman from Delaware, if I were to point out any subversive activity in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, I would look to the Secretary of Public Assistance today with his statement in the Press of a few days ago. If you men read the Press, you will notice that the Secretary of Public Assistance has decreed that on July 17th, every person between the age of 20 and 40 will be denied relief that is able bodied and capable of going to work. If there is one decree, one statement of policy that violates the Act of Assembly in the 1937 Public Assistance Law, that is it. I call him subversive, and I don't hear any indictment in the Press against him. I think that is just as subversive as other acts, and yet I am willing to vote to outlaw any subversive doctrines, but I am not going to vote against a lot of innocent children on this Hill, who might be placed in a position of having their philosophy or their doctrine set up by a man, who, in all probability is not responsible. Just because an employe may have a different philosophy, doctrine, or principle from that of his employer is no reason to fire him from the State Department or any other employment.

I say to the gentleman from Delaware in all sincerity, if he has studied the act carefully, and I know he will, or does, or did, I say to him the language is too broad. We are making a law here, gentleman, a law that will be, if passed, the law of the Commonwealth. I say let us not fight Fascism or Communism by inculcating Fascism or Communism. Let us fight it with democracy, let us fight it the American way. Our laws have never betrayed us yet, and I say the only way to fight them is to write into the law the types of teaching that the gentleman wants to get away from,—and I agree with him, but I say it is the wrong way to do it, and I ask the Members to vote down these amendments.

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. TURNER. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman,—and I am reading a copy of his amendment "Or by any authority or institution receiving or supported by public funds, or persons engaging in un-American activities." I would like to ask the gentleman from Delaware just who is to decide what is un-American activity.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I presume that under any discharge it would be the superior officer, and the right of appeal being there, it would more than likely end up by a determination in the courts.

Mr. SHEPARD. That is all, Mr. Speaker. Of course I have no brief for Communism. Someone has called me a Red. I do not think that by any stretch of the imagination anybody who looked at me could call me Red. I am not interested in my right to be Red; what I am interested in is my right to be black, and according to some people's reputation I would be called un-American because I am black.

The Daughters of the American Revolution denied Marian Anderson the right to sing in Constitution Hall in Washington, D. C. To forbid her to sing because she is black would be un-American. The Bok Award Committee in Philadelphia gave her the highest honor that could be conferred on a person in Philadelphia. Temple University honored her with an honorary degree.

Now, the philosophy of these two groups of people differs by a long sea mile. Now, who is going to determine? What I am afraid of is that I might fall into the hands of people who have an entirely different philosophy and be penalized on that account. Consequently I think these amendments are entirely too vague in recognition of the rights of minority people who may suffer under an autocratic bureaucracy or some bureau head who has different ideas as to just what is un-American. I do hope and believe that the members of this House, both Democrats and Republicans, will oppose the Turner amendments. I believe the gentleman is sincere, I believe he is interested in preserving Americanism but his amendments are too broad and cover too many different kinds of views and I think they ought to be limited, and limited by the amendments offered by Mr. Brown. Please do not trample my right to be what I am.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would not for one moment hold any brief for anyone who would change the Reverend Marshall Shepard from what he is. Whatever he is, he is. You may be able to define it, and I may be able to define it, but nevertheless I wouldn't change him for anything. If I thought that by any amendment I might introduce in this House I would take away any whit from the rubicund and cheerful and tonsorial perfection of the gentleman from Philadelphia, or in any way interrupt his slumbers, or to cause him to feel a greater pinch in his shoes, whatever he thinks of me, I would certainly withdraw my amendment and move the adoption of those of the gentleman from Allegheny.

I said something about philosophy and I said something about the differences in philosophy. I was not at that time referring to any particular philosophy which the gentleman from Philadelphia Mr. Levy might hold, if he holds any. I was merely stating that I knew there was a difference between the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown and the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. O'Brien, and the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, that by my association I knew something, I thought, of their mental approach to a subject, but I wonder what the gentleman from Philadelphia Mr. Levy wants us to think. Here is an article from a Philadelphia paper the other day, speaking about a meeting of the Philadelphia local teachers who were ousted by the A. F. of L. because the A. F. of L. said they were Communists. This article said "members of the ousted local at their meeting heard State Representatives J. Harold Levy, Democratic, Philadelphia, condemn bills pending in the Legislature which would dismiss state employes and remove from relief persons advocating 'philosophies providing for the overthrow of the government'. He called the bills 'reactionary'."

I am wondering what the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy wants us to think of that when we read it in the newspapers.

Mr. CORRIGAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know whether the word "philosophy" is mentioned in these amendments offered by the gentleman from Delaware.

The SPEAKER. The word "philosophy" appears in the amendment offered by the gentleman from Delaware in that it is contained in the lines to be stricken out.

Mr. MELCHIORRE. Mr. Speaker, I think that the House has been debating on this long enough. We have had both sides of it discussed at length, and for that reason I move the previous question.

The motion was seconded by Messrs. Corrigan, Baker, Cochran, Burns, Lesko, O'Mullen, Mihm, Ellwood B. Welsh, Kolankiewicz, DiGenova, Hersch, O'Connor, Sarraf, Maxwell, Breth, Reynolds, McLane, Woodring, Shaffer, Monks and others.

On the question,

Shall the main question be now put?

The SPEAKER. The "noes" appear to have it.

Whereupon, a division was called for one hundred and nine Members voting in the affirmative and fifteen in the negative, the question was determined in the affirmative and the motion was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments offered by the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Woodside and Mr. Turner and were as follows:

So the question was determined in the negative and the amendment was not agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments offered by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown?

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to support the amendments offered by the gentleman from Allegheny,

Mr. Brown, for exactly the same reason that I have opposed the amendment offered by the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, had not the previous question been moved.

Not having been provided by mother nature with so kindly a protective scheme as to make me less easily understood with respect to being labeled a Red, I am very much desirous of seeing that the rights, the fundamental rights and liberties which have been guaranteed us in our Bill of Rights and in our Constitution be maintained, and I suggest that the maintenance of these rights is not that we agree that they be enforced when the enforcement thereof is favorable to us, but the test is their enforcement when it may appear to us that their enforcement benefits and protects someone whom we personally do not like.

So I would suggest, Mr. Speaker, that we read these amendments and the entire context of the bill, relative particularly to section 7 of Article I of the Bill of Rights in our Constitution of Pennsylvania, which records the freedom of the press and the freedom of speech, and therein, Mr. Speaker, I read the following:

"The free communication of thoughts and opinions is one of the invaluable traits of man and every citizen may freely speak, write and print on any subject, being responsible for the abuse of that liberty."

Then the Constitution goes on to discuss the question of libel with respect to the abuse of that liberty. On page 33 of our Pennsylvania Manual in section 26 of Article I, I read under the general heading of "exceptions from the General Powers of Government" the following:

"To guard against transgressions of the high powers which we have delegated, we declare that everything in this article is excepted out of the general powers of government and shall forever remain inviolate."

Now, Mr. Speaker, it is because I believe in the Bill of Rights and in the Constitution that I favor these amendments offered by Mr. Brown, because I believe that these amendments will accomplish, in case a person is accused, a fair hearing before the authorities hiring or employing that particular person, and in case the person is dismissed after a hearing it will guarantee to the person so dismissed a fair opportunity to appeal to the court of Common Pleas wherein whose jurisdiction the person resides, the court which is best able to determine the various questions that will be brought before it for solution.

I say, Mr. Speaker, when you deal here with these fundamental rights in which I believe and we all believe and on which the entire future of our form of government is so dependent, we should proceed cautiously, with diligence and with study, and I believe the amendments of Mr. Brown are amendments which are calculated to make the act more enforceable because they clarify the act; they clarify those things which would be left hanging in mid air; they do not say to some judge who may have ideas of his own: "Go out and follow the prejudices and the passions of a particular community." They rather say to the judge before whom the case will be tried: "Consider the action and the entire matter in the light of our past history and in the light of our past traditions" I am sure if these amendments are adopted it will work to the benefit of all concerned.

I feel Mr. Speaker, that the Members on the other side of the House who are particularly anxious to correct these various subversive tendencies of which they speak, will by passing a bill which can be administered practically enable such subversive activities to be rooted out of our Commonwealth.

Mr. MELCHIORRE. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question.

The motion was seconded by Baker, Maxwell, Sarraf, Cochran, Williams, Monks, Rausch, McDermott, Vogt, O'Mullen, Kolankiewicz, Polaski, Hersch, DiGenova, Breth, Malloy, Reynolds, Tarr, McLane, McFall, Presley N. Jones and others.

On the question,

Shall the main question be now put?

It was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments offered by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown?

On the question,

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, desire to withdraw his amendments to the title?

ing out the words "of persons whose philosophy proposes the" and inserting in lieu thereof: "or by any authority or any institution receiving public funds, of persons who hereafter advocate and actively participate in a movement proposing a."

Amend title, page 1, lines 5 to 7 of title, by striking out the following: "declaring inoperative any con-" in line 5, and all of lines 6 and 7, and inserting in lieu thereof: "providing for dismissals under existing laws, and permitting appeals to courts of common pleas in cases not covered by civil service or tenure laws."

The amendments were agreed to.

The title was agreed to as amended.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, while the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy was speaking, I committed inadvertently a breach of parliamentary etiquette. He mentioned that he did not believe there were any Communists in the Hall. I agree with him, as far as the membership is concerned there are no Communists in the Hall but there are some Communists on the floor of the House, not among the membership of the House. However, I was out of place in stating it the way I did. It was due to my deep feeling in regard to this matter of Americanism. I apologize to the gentleman from Philadelphia for making the remarks I did and also to the membership of the House.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I desire to make a brief statement.

The PRESIDENT. If there is no objection, the gentleman from Philadelphia may proceed.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, during the present session of the Legislature, there were several voices raised anent the location of the proposed Veterans' Hospital for Pennsylvania. Naturally, Senators representing populous areas of this great Commonwealth urged that the proposed hospital be located in their vicinity. It is not my intention to throw an additional apple of discord into this august body, but I feel that I will be remiss in my duty if I will not direct the attention of the membership of the Senate to certain statistical reasons that impel me to insist upon the location of the proposed Veterans' Hospital in the metropolitan area of Philadelphia.

It is not my intention to shower accolades of praise and approval on Congressman Michael Joseph Bradley of Philadelphia, but it is a known fact that he spent years in studying all the data pertaining to the location of the proposed Veterans' Hospital, and is probably the best-informed person in Pennsylvania on this subject and matters cognate thereto. Repeatedly, Congressman Bradley raised his voice before the Federal Hospitalization

Board regarding the location of the proposed Veterans Hospital in Pennsylvania, urging that same be located in the Philadelphia metropolitan area. In support of his position, Congressman Bradley marshalled valuable and reliable statistics. These statistics can be found in the Appendix to the Congressional Record of April 30, 1941 on Pages A2146 and A2147. I quote from the statement made by Congressman Bradley before a subcommittee of the Federal Board of Hospitalization on January 16, 1941:

"I represent a district in Philadelphia. I want to say at the outset, I don't wish to take the position that the hospital should be located absolutely within the confines of Philadelphia; however, I do feel that the area now served by the naval hospital in Pennsylvania, in the area of Philadelphia, the eastern part of Pennsylvania, is where this new hospital should be located. As you well know, the Veterans' Administration is providing beds for about 500 to 600 patients in Philadelphia. With the present expansion, the building up of our Navy, and so forth, it is fair to assume that in the future the Navy is going to have greater need for the hospital in the city of Philadelphia and for that reason we have to provide adequate facilities for the veterans in the eastern part of the State of Pennsylvania. I don't think that in other parts of the state the needs at present are as great as in the eastern part of the state.

"The official figures of the Veterans' Administration indicate that the center of population affected by the present congested hospital situation is in the metropolitan area of Philadelphia. In the fiscal year 1938 there were 4,585 patients received in the naval hospital in Philadelphia. Of that number 4,042 came from the Philadelphia area, indicating that there were only about 500 some odd cases from the Harrisburg or the Scranton territory. In the fiscal year 1939 there were 4,447 patients in the naval hospital in Philadelphia, of which 4,075 came from the Philadelphia area. So far for the fiscal year 1940, from July to December, there were 2,426 patients in the naval hospital, of which 2,054 came from the Philadelphia area.

"In the eastern part of Pennsylvania there are 200,000 potential cases of veterans of which about 140,000 to 150,000 are located in the Philadelphia area. We have in Philadelphia perhaps the greatest medical center in the world. One of the chief causes of complaint at the present time is that the veterans are denied the services of the most eminent physicians and specialists in the United States. If the hospital is located too far from the metropolitan area of Philadelphia, we will continue to be without the services of these men who are willing to volunteer their services for $1 a year. To my way of thinking there would be no justification for locating this hospital anywhere except in eastern Pennsylvania and at a site that would be as near to the city of Philadelphia as would be possible and at the same time provide for certain environments which would be desirable.

"I think that the Board should take into consideration the number of patients who have been given treatment during the past 3 or 4 years and where they are located, and the hospital should be in a place where it would be accessible to the largest number of men and where transportation facilities would be easily provided, not only for the purpose of taking the men to the hospital but also for visitors; and I say that if the hospital should be erected in central Pennsylvania, we in eastern Pennsylvania will be back to the Veterans' Administration next year for a facility in the eastern part of the state, which we are entitled to, because we cannot agree that there will be any justification, even for the purpose of a so-called soldiers' home, in locating this institution or this facility in any part of the state where it would not serve the area where the greatest number of veterans now are and for whom adequate hospital facilities have not been provided. I submit to the Board the figures, which are the official figures of the Veterans' Administration, showing the resident location of the men who have been receiving hospitalization for the last 3 years."

I feel that I am voicing the sentiments of all my colleagues from Philadelphia in stating that we are in full accord with the position of Congressman Bradley, which is based upon scientific research and is dictated by inescapable logic.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I desire permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Blair will proceed.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, a week or so ago it came to my attention that one of the large chemical industries in Pennsylvania, located near Philadelphia, contemplates expanding, and for the reason that there might be a possibility of air raids they are seriously considering locating that industry out of Pennsylvania.

The remarks of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Stiefel, cause me to mention that fact and it would seem to me to be unwise to locate any more veterans' hospitals at points where, if we are to become engaged in this war, they might be bombed. I think it would be much wiser that such institutions be located in the central part of the state.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 1071, (House Bill No. 1380), on third reading, entitled:

An Act to further amend the Act approved the eighteenth day of July one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (P. go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 1096, on third reading, entitled:

An Act to further amend section one of the act, approved the thirteenth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and seven (P. L. 640), entitled "An act to provide revenue by levying a tax upon the shares of stock of companies incorporated under the provisions of section twenty-nine of an act, entitled 'An act to provide for the incorporation and regulation of certain corporations,' approved April twenty-ninth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four, and the supplements thereto; for the insurance of owners of real estate, mortgages, and others interested in real estate, from loss by reason of defective titles, liens and encumbrances; and of companies entitled to the benefits of, and of companies having any of the powers of, companies entitled to the benefits of an act, entitled 'An act conferring upon certain fidelity, insurance, safety deposit, trust, and savings companies the powers and privileges of companies incorporated under the provisions of section twenty-nine of an act, entitled "An act to provide for the incorporation and regulation of certain corporations," approved April twenty-ninth, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four, and of the supplements thereto,' approved June twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, commonly known as title insurance or trust companies," by basing the tax upon the book value of the shares; continuing the increased rate of tax for a further limited period of time and reducing the rate of tax after such limited period of time go over in its order. I shall also make the same request with respect to Senate Bill 1097.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Lackawanna.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Lackawanna permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. COLEMAN. Gladly, Mr. President.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I desire to ask the gentleman from Lackawanna the reason for requesting that Senate Bill No. 1096 go over in its order.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, because of the tremendous demand made upon the time and energy of the minority membership of the Senate, we have not had a chance to properly study the bill and we desire that it go over in its order for another day so that we may have an opportunity to make a microscopic examination of its contents.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I would like to call to the attention of the Senate the fact that this is a Senate bill and that time marches on. If we do not get these bills over to the House they will not have a chance of passing. I wish to impress upon the Senate that this is good legislation and I would like to suggest to the gentleman from Lackawanna that these bills were prepared, at the suggestion of the Department of Revenue, to make the statutory law coincide with the practice in the Department of Revenue. The Department of Revenue is confronted with a large number of appeals filed before them and it costs them thousands of dollars to handle these appeals and when the appeals are finally settled and adjudicated by agreements they are always predicated on the book value of banks and trust companies, and these two bills, Senate Bills Nos. 1096 and 1097, were introduced in order to permit the department to settle the accounts of those banks and trust companies on the book value. These bills have been very carefully considered by the committee and they have been very carefully considered by the Department of Revenue, and they have been approved both by the committee and by the Department of Revenue.

According to a statement by the Department of Revenue, if these two bills are passed and enacted into law, it will save the Department thousands of dollars a year in the handling of these cases and it will also save the banks and trust companies throughout Pennsylvania thousand of dollars every year, because it will eliminate the need for those silly appeals, which are always determined on the book value.

Mr. President, I do object to the request of the gentleman from Lackawanna and I would urge upon the members of the Senate that they pass these bills today so that we can get them over to the House, and have them considered and if possible get them passed. This will mean a saving of money to the Commonwealth. It does not mean a change in practice at all because it merely makes statutory the present departmental practice, and there is absolutely no danger as far as the adjudication of compromise claims is concerned, because all the bank reports are carefully audited by bank examiners. As the gentleman from Lackawanna knows full well, it behooves any bank in Pennsylvania, whether it be a regular bank or trust company, to put its best foot forward, and these two bills are of vital interest not only to the banking interests but to the Department of Revenue, and it was due to the fact that they were so carefully scrutinized in committee that they appeared so late on the Calendar and I would urge the gentleman from Lackawanna to cooperate with us in this instance in having these two bills passed. The Department wants to save the money, the banks in Pennsylvania want to save the money and the banks in Lackawanna County want to save the money.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, one of the cardinal principles of a member of the General Assembly is that when he is in doubt about a particular bill he generally votes "no." While I appreciate the very illuminating explanation of the gentleman from Allegheny—I believe the bill has some merit—we desire at least another day to further study it.

My suggestion to the gentleman from Allegheny is, if he is fearful of not having enough legislative days to pass these bills, there is a bill which I think transcends in importance this particular bill which I understand will be made a special order of business on Monday afternoon at four o'clock. I refer to the bill regulating municipal authorities. If we intend to adjourn next Wednesday or Thursday and they feel a bill of such importance can still have enough legislative days to pass the House, if made a special order of business Monday, I see no particular objection to permitting this bill to go over for at least another day, to permit myself and the attorneys of the Democratic side an opportunity to study every phase of this bill. If not, Mr. President, those of us on the minority side shall have to vote "no" on the bill.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Somerset.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Somerset permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. EALY. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I desire to inquire of the gentleman from Somerset whether the Senate will be in session tomorrow.

Mr. EALY. I am unable to answer the question, Mr. President. My present information is that we will be in session, but probably with a reduced membership.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I agree with the gentleman from Lackawanna, Mr. Coleman, that I do not like to make issues out of bills and fly the flag of urgency in the face of courtesy, but these bills are important and I want to say to the gentleman from Lackawanna—not speaking particularly as a champion of these bills, because I do not represent any banks or banking interests or the Department of Revenue—that banks in my district have asked me to assist putting these bills through so that they will not be obliged to go through the silly compromise settlements year after year, when tax claims are adjudicated on the basis of their book value. The department has followed that practice for years and this merely legalizes the practice and makes it statutory. The gentleman from Lackawanna knows full well if we leave this bill go until Monday we can not expect the House to bounce the bill through on the say so of the Senate. We know that they have a practice in the House that no bill comes out of any committee in the House unless and until the rules committee approves it, and if this bill should be hung up for one legislative day in the House it will never be passed, because the current rumor on the Hill is that we are going to adjourn sine die before the fourth of July. I appreciate that rumors on Capitol Hill are just as prolific as in the army and they all spring from the same source but, Mr. President, I do insist that this bill be disposed of today, because I believe the Department of Revenue and the committee which considered this bill are entitled to have a determination of the issue.

The bill has been on the Calendar for some time and was in committee for some time; I do not know whether the gentleman from Lackawanna was a member of the committee that considered this bill, but I do know I was present when the bills were considered and they were carefully considered and I think that they are entitled to be determined today.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I wish to enlighten the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker. I just came over from the House, and while this may not be authentic, a number of the House leaders informed me that they had planned a midnight session tonight, but that plan had been eliminated and they now are definitely sure that we will be here two more weeks. If that should be the case, I suggest that the bill go over in order temporarily until we find out definitely whether or not the House will be in session for two more weeks. If we are, there will be sufficient time to act upon this bill Monday.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I have no objection to this bill going over in order temporarily, but I do object to it going over in order until tomorrow. If the gentleman from Lackawanna desires that it go over in order temporarily, of course, I will not object to that. If we are going to be in session until Christmas, that, of course, raises one issue, but if we are going to adjourn so that the members of the Senate can shoot off their firecrackers at their homes, that raises a separate issue.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

Mr. EALY. It being understood, Mr. President, that is agreed to with the right to call this bill up later in the day.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 1097, on third reading, entitled:

An Act to further amend section one of the act, approved the fifteenth day of July, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-seven (P. L. 292) entitled "An act to provide revenue by taxation," by redefining the base for taxation of shares of stock of banks and savings institutions, and by increasing the rate of tax for a further limited period of time go over in its order temporarily with the right to call it up later in the day.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, this is known as the Club Law Bill, and I intend to move that the vote by which it passed second reading be reconsidered so as to put the bill back on the second reading Calendar, in order to facilitate the adoption of amendments, so that it can be on final passage early next week, if possible. I want to get it into position to be passed, in other words.

Mr. EALY. Does the gentleman from Westmoreland have amendments he desires to offer?

Mr. DENT. That is the difficulty, Mr. President, we are trying to get amendments worked out so that they will be satisfactory to all concerned. We do not want to lose a day in the passage of the bill.

Mr. EALY. Does the gentleman from Westmoreland have any objection to the bill going over in order?

Mr. DENT. If it is on second reading, we can introduce amendments, but I am fearful that if it is on third reading on Monday and we ask unanimous consent to introduce amendments someone will object and say "no," and then I would have to move that the vote by which it passed second reading be reconsidered and if I did not get enough votes, we might lose the bill.

Mr. EALY. Does the gentleman from Westmoreland have his amendments prepared now?

Mr. DENT. No, Mr. President, we have not as yet agreed on the brackets.

be postponed for the present.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, I object to Senate Bill No. 890, being placed on the postponed Calendar— I have no objection to it going over in order until Monday.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, if there is going to be a session tomorrow, if the bill goes over in order, it will come up again tomorrow. You see, Mr. President, I would like to have the weekend in order to study the bill, because there are so many complications and contradictions that it will require considerable study.

Mr. WATKINS. I withdraw my objection, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, the gentleman from Philadelphia will have all the opportunity in the world to study this bill over the weekend, by leaving it exactly where it is today. You do not have to put it on the postponed Calendar at all; there is no necessity whatsoever for that.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, in case I want to offer amendments, I do not want to put the Senate to the inconvenience of having to reconsider the vote. I pledge my word I will call it from the postponed Calendar on Monday.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, the bill is not going to be called up on second reading. What is the difference whether it stays on second reading, without being on the postponed Calendar, or on the second reading postponed Calendar? There is no physical difference.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, if there is to be a session tomorrow it will come up again on second reading, and then on Monday it will be on third reading.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I promise the gentleman from Philadelphia, that I will not call it up tomorrow if he is not ready for it.

The PRESIDENT. What action has been taken as the result of the conference?

The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Stiefel, requested that Senate Bill 890, (House Bill 139), be placed on the postponed Calendar and there was objection. Does the Chair understand now it is to go on the postponed Calendar? The Chair's only interest is to keep the record clear, so that if Al. Smith wants to examine it, he may do so.

MOTION WITHDRAWN

M. STIEFEL. Mr. President, in reference to my colleague from Westmoreland, I am going to withdraw my motion providing it will not come up for second reading before Monday.

Mr. DENT. That is perfectly all right, Mr. President. And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent

INTERROGATION

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Somerset, Mr. Ealy.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Somerset permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. EALY. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Somerset tell me whether he is going to consider other bills now on second reading?

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I have a list here of bills which various Senators have asked me to call up.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Somerset object if I call up a bill from the second reading Calendar at this time?

Mr. EALY. I presume not, unless some other Senator raises an objection. What is the number of the bill the gentleman from Luzerne desires to call up?

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, at this time I should like to call up for consideration, on page 29 of the Calendar, Senate Bill No. 1270, (House Bill No. 1661), on second reading.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I intend to call up Senate Bill No. 1270, in order that it may pass second reading, if the Senator will bear with me. As I said previously, the purpose it not to pass all these bills on second reading, in order that we will not have too many bills on the third reading Calendar on Monday to study, but we had intended to call up for consideration the bill to which the gentleman from Luzerne has referred.

SENATE BILL No. 1191, (HOUSE BILL No. 361), ON SECOND READING CALLED UP

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I now call up Senate Bill No. 1191, (House Bill No. 361), on second reading, page 21 of the Calendar.

SENATE BILL No. 1236, (HOUSE BILL No. 1585), ON SECOND READING CALLED UP

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I now call up Senate Bill No. 1236, (House Bill No. 1585), on second reading, page 24 of the Calendar.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I second the motion.
 The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,
 The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,
 The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 1236, (House Bill No. 1585), entitled:

An Act authorizing political subdivisions to accept in full payment of municipal claims, taxes, penalties, interest and costs such amount as may be fixed for the discharge thereof in proceedings under the National Bankruptcy Act.

And said bill having been read at length the second time,

On the question,
 Will the Senate agree to the bill?
 Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I desire to offer the following amendments:

Amend Sec. 2, page 3, lines 7 to 11, both inclusive, by striking out the following: "but shall be determined by such court" in line 7, all of lines 8, 9 and 10, and the following "forced collection against such corporation" in line 11, and inserting in lieu thereof: "but shall not be less than the total amount which the tax levying body of such political subdivision is willing to accept in compromise of such claims in order to avoid the delay and expense of litigation to collect the same under such circumstances"; amend Sec. 3, page 4, lines 13 to 17, both inclusive, by striking out the following: "but" in line 13, all of lines 14, 15 and 16, and the following in line 17: "by enforced collection against such person"

On the question,
 Will the Senate agree to the amendments?
 Mr. KEPHART. I object, Mr. President.
 Mr. EALY. Mr. President, some of the Senators want to voice their opposition to these amendments. I do not know whether they care to express their opposition on the floor or not.

I wonder if the gentleman from Westmoreland would not withdraw the amendments and discuss them with the Senators who have objections.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I think the proper place to do that would be right here on the floor I am satisfied to do that.

Mr. KEPHART. I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DENT. Yes, Mr. President, I will.

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, just what is the purpose of the amendments presented by the gentleman from Westmoreland.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, the purpose of these amendments is to put into the proper sphere that agency of government which is entitled to be in that particular sphere. In other words, a tax levying body certainly ought to sit down and agree on or work out the amount of compromise that will be accepted.

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, may I ask the gentleman from Westmoreland whether he realizes that under the bill as it is, it simply empowers the tax levying body to accept a plan of reorganization and a settlement the Court thinks is fair?

Mr. DENT. That is right, Mr. President, but the bill originally does something more than that; it allows the court to act as the agency which sets the amount of compromise. Under the Dent Bill of 1938, if you will remember, that bill set up a tax levying authority setting the amount, and the court approved. In this way you have the court establishing the amount and the tax levying body approving it.

Mr. KEPHART. I think that is correct, Mr. President, and therefore the tax levying body is protected, and I will ask my colleagues to vote against the amendments.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I do not believe that is entirely the picture. The tax levying body certainly is protected because it has the right to say, "yes, we accept" or, "no, we do not accept the compromise set by the Court." Where in any law or any statute that we have, does the Court become a tax setting body or a tax levying body or a tax compromising body? Under the present system of government the Court should only approve any compromise that is made by the tax levying body and not put the tax levying body in a position where the Court can let them approve what the Court has done.

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, this bill relates only to corporations that are in bankruptcy under 77-B and which plans reorganization.

Mr. DENT. That is correct, Mr. President.

Mr. KEPHART. Under such circumstances, Mr. President, the creditors have to get together and the Court formulates a plan or has a plan formulated and submitted for approval. That is about all that is done here with regard to taxes.

Mr. DENT. I am perfectly satisfied, Mr. President, but I am just trying to point out that the proper thing to be done here is to allow the tax levying body to set the amount and allow the Court to agree or disagree on the amount set. If you want to reverse the situation and let the Court set the amount, and the tax levying body agree or disagree, that is perfectly all right, but I would like to have the amendment voted upon one way or the other.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I ask that the amendments be read again by the clerk, the Dent amendments. The amendments were again read by the Clerk.

MOTION TO ADOPT AMENDMENTS

Mr. DENT. I move, Mr. President, adoption of the amendments.

Mr. COX. I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I do not think this will change one vote, but I feel this bill is so important I want to make this further observation: under this bill, Mr. President, the Court is in no way under any obligation whatsoever to take into consideration the budget or the budgetary problems of the taxing authorities, it may set up a compromise amount, that may disrupt the entire budget of the taxing authority.

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, may I say in answer to the gentleman from Westmoreland that the taxing authority does not have to accept the compromise, and in further answer, that the compromise the Court submits must be fair, what the Court thinks is fair.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. DENT. Roll call, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, before the vote is announced I would just like to add to what has been said, that I introduced a bill to control the activities of the judiciary, and in that bill is an instrument to remove the judiciary from just the same things as this bill now permits, placing them back in a position where the Court is called upon to act as adjudicator in a dispute over taxes, and it is going to throw the Court back in to contact with corporations and those bodies which wish to be relieved of taxes. It will be just one more item to permit the judiciary to smear itself up.

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, in reply to that may I say this bill only applies to the District Courts of the United States; they have sole jurisdiction over bankruptcy matters. The Judges of those Courts are appointed for life, unless they are impeached, and it does not have anything to do with the State Courts.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, that is exactly the danger point in this whole situation: Here is a man who is not responsible to the electorate of any given district, and yet he steps in and says, "this is the amount that I, as the Court, sets," and you can say all you want about the taxing authority having the right to refuse the amount set, but you know and I know that if the Court says, "this is the amount," that is what the taxing authority will take. That is the safety feature I want to include in this bill, to allow the taxing authority, which is responsible to the people of the district, to say "we accept this amount in compromise." They are responsible. As this bill now is, some judge who is appointed for life can darn well fix up a very fat compromise for himself, and you know this would not be the only bill under which some judges have gone to jail.

Mr. EALY. Of course, Mr. President, all this is out of order; I hope it will not continue too long.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is aware all this debate is out of order, but the Chair is tolerating it so long as he does not have the tally slip before him.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I desire to change my vote from "no" to "aye," having voted under a misapprehension.

The PRESIDENT. The vote of the gentleman from Blair will be so recorded.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. DENT, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—12

Barr,	Dent,	Lanlus,	Ruth,
Coleman,	Frey,	Mallery,	Stiefel,
Cox,	Haluska,	Mundy,	Watkins,

NAYS—23

Becker,	Ealy,	Kephart,	Tyler,

So the question was determined in the negative.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

And said bill having been read at length the second time.

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. DEITRICK. Mr. President, this is a bill that is very important to all the anthracite counties, particularly to my county of Northumberland. I was desirous of having this bill go over on second reading so that, should we desire to try to place any amendments in it, we would have the right to do so.

Mr. President, I would like to take this opportunity to interrogate the President Pro Tempore.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Somerset permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. EALY. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. DEITRICK. Mr. President, I desire to ask the gentleman from Somerset in the event I should offer amendments to this bill on third reading, whether he would oppose them or whether he personally would vote for them.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I have no particular feeling about this bill. The gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Mundy, was one of the Senators who asked that it pass second reading. I am not very familiar with the bill myself.

Mr. DEITRICK. Mr. President, I have no objection to having the bill pass second reading, if I can have some assurance that, should I offer amendments, they would be at least considered on third reading.

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, I am very much interested in this bill, because it is interest to my county, which is an anthracite county, and I dislike to say I would object to it going over in order; I would like to see it pass second reading. I would say personally I would not object to any amendments being offered, but I may vote against the amendments after they are offered.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Northumberland.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Northumberland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DEITRICK. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Northumberland advise the Senate, and those of us who are tremendously interested in this bill, the nature of the amendments he proposes.

Mr. DEITRICK. Mr. President, at this time I would not be able to state that, I would like to study the bill a little bit more than I have studied it; perhaps by Monday I would be more in position to offer amendments. Personally, of course, I am not asking any Senators to commit themselves as to whether they would vote for the amendments or not, as I realize that is absurd, but I ask our present Floor Leader if he would be willing to let me at least offer the amendments on Monday.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I think perhaps the bill should go over in order, because I can not control, on third reading, as to whether there would be objection to amendments or not. If the gentleman who asked that this bill pass second reading will withdraw that request, I am satisfied that it go over in order.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, this is one of the most important bills that has been introduced this year, not only affecting the anthracite area, but affecting the entire State of Pennsylvania, and it more or less has an effect throughout the country itself under the present defense program, and I do not see any reason in the world why this bill should be passed over in order. Under parliamentary rules the gentleman from Northumberland certainly has a right to offer amendments on third reading, and the Republican side of the House certainly has sufficient votes over, there to place the amendments into the bill if they care to.

I am very anxious that this bill have second reading today, and I understood and felt that the gentleman from Northumberland has no objection to it having second reading today.

Mr. EALY. Of course, Mr. President, any one may object to introduction of amendments on third reading, but in any event the vote by which it passed second reading would have to be reconsidered; that is the only thing I had in mind.

Mr. TALLMAN. Mr. President, as I understand the request of the gentleman from Northumberland, in effect it amounts to that he would be satisfied if he had assurance from the gentleman from Luzerne, Dr. Mundy, and the gentleman from Lackawanna, Mr. Coleman, that they would agree not to object to the introduction of amendments by the gentleman from Northumberland on third reading. He is not asking us to vote for them after they are introduced, but merely wants the right to offer them, and I think that is a reasonable request, and one that can very readily be acceded to, in order to clear up this difficulty, and still have the bill on third reading.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I would like to make a practical suggestion, if I may. I suggest that this bill pass second reading, and then it is my intention to move to have the bill made a special order of business on Monday afternoon at 3:45, at which time I am sure none of us are going to prevent the gentleman from Northumberland from introducing amendments, without committing ourselves to the support of such amendments. I suggest that we make the bill a special order of business in order that we may get the bill passed and signed by the Governor. In the event that the wisdom of the Senate dictates that the amendments offered by the gentleman from Northumberland are good, and they are adopted by the Senate, we will save some time rather than have it done in the session held Monday afternoon.

Mr. President, I suggest the bill pass second reading now, after which I shall make a motion.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Lackawanna.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Lackawanna permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. COLEMAN. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I desire to ask the gentleman from Lackawanna whether he would raise objection to the offering of amendments on third reading.

Mr. COLEMAN. No, Mr. President.

Mr. EALY. I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Luzerne.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Luzerne permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MUNDY. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I desire to ask the gentleman from Luzerne whether he would offer objection to the presentation of amendments on third reading?

Mr. MUNDY. I will offer no objections to the presentation of amendments on third reading, Mr. President.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I do not know whether we should proceed to make this a special order of business for 3:45 Monday, as we can not tell exactly what matters may come up. I would interpose no objection to it being considered at our Monday session, but if it be made a special order of business for 3:45 that would give us only fifteen minutes for preliminaries. I feel that the gentleman from Lackawanna should not insist that any special time be set for consideration of this bill.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I make that motion for the very reason that we are now in the stage of the game that the time of sessions and the time of recesses are tremendously uncertain. If we convene at 3:30 on Monday as we have adopted a resolution to do, all that we need to get out of the way is the prayer and the reading of the Journal of the preceding session and then we can immediately take up consideration of this bill. I do not want to go into the question, Mr. President, of the importance of this bill at this time. I propose to discuss the bill and the anthracite situation pretty generally when it gets to third reading. If the gentleman from Northumberland will agree to have the bill pass second reading today, I should like to make a motion that it shall be made a special order of business on Monday at 3:45.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I suggest to the gentleman from Lackawanna that he make it at a little later hour, either 4:30 or 4:45.

Mr. COLEMAN. I yield to the suggestion of the gentleman from Somerset, Mr. President.

POINT OF INFORMATION

Mr. COLEMAN. I rise to a point of information, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Lackawanna will state his point of information.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I should like to inquire as to the exact status of the bill. Has the bill passed second reading?

The PRESIDENT. Not as yet.

Mr. COLEMAN. Then, Mr. President, I suggest the bill be read for the second time.

Mr. EALY. After the discussion we have had I believe it safe that the bill pass second reading, Mr. President. And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

SPECIAL ORDER OF BUSINESS

Mr. COLEMAN. I now move, Mr. President, that Senate Bill No. 1270, (House Bill No. 1661), be made a special order of business for Monday, June 30, 1941, at 4:45 p. m.

Mr. MUNDY. I second the motion, Mr. President.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE SENATE

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Lackawanna may proceed.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, last year, complying with the provision of the United States Constitution, the census of the population of the United States was taken. The figures showed in many sections of the country that there was a definite migration from the urban to the rural sections. Many cities in the nation gained, while others suffered losses of population. The figures showed that Pennsylvania did not keep abreast with other states in the increase of population.

For a number of years we have had 34 Congressmen representing this great Commonwealth in the national law-making body. Under the census figures of 1940, we are only entitled to 33. This places upon the Legislature of Pennsylvania an obligation to apportion the Congressional Districts to conform with the population figures. Several bills were introduced with that thought in view. It was quite natural that with a Legislature politically divided, both parties would sponsor bills designed to give their particular party an advantage in the apportionment.

This bill, which is undoubtedly one of the most important in this session of the General Assembly, is now in the hands of a Conference Committee. Latest reports indicate that the conferees appear to be hopelessly deadlocked in their efforts to adjust the differences between the House and the Senate. I have grave fears that this session may adjourn without taking action on this most important measure, thus forcing the 33 Congressmen to which Pennsylvania is entitled to run at large in the state. I propose to do everything I possibly can to prevent such an eventuality. It is my firm conviction if this Legislature adjourns without having met its obligation, that it will be the worst blow struck at our Democratic form of government in the history of this great Commonwealth.

What would happen in the event that these Congressmen were elected at large is beyond comprehension. It is quite conceivable that all of the Congressmen would come from the urban centers of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh and thus leave a vast rural population, which constitutes a good-sized portion of the taxpayers of this Commonwealth, without a voice in the national law-making body.

In my six years in the Legislature, I have consistently fought against a powerful militant and well-organized minority imposing their will on an apathetic majority.

This Conference Committee must settle their differences and subordinate their fealty to any particular party in the interest of the people of this great state. I have never heard of any difference existing between men, especially when stubbornness kept them apart, that could not be adjusted by the application of common sense. I have no intention of placing the responsibility on either the leaders of the Democratic or Republican party. Suffice to say that I do not believe that the people of this great state will countenance such action on the part of the Legislature.

It is not improbable that if Congressmen are elected at large, those of us from the northern tier of the state seeking some matter requiring the intervention of a Congressman will have to contact some member of the body from Philadelphia or Pittsburgh.

I am making this pleas for action on the part of the Conference Committee in time to impress upon them the tremendously important assignment given them by the people of the State of Pennsylvania. This matter must be approached in a conciliatory fashion, with both parties making concessions to prevent such an occurrence. There still remains enough time for the Conference Committee to get together and approach the problem honestly and conscientiously.

This Legislature must not adjourn until provision has been made to elect Congressmen, as we have in the past, from Congressional Districts set up in accordance with laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I can readily agree with most of the remarks of the gentleman from Lackawanna, and I want to assure him that I will not vote for adjournment until we have a bill apportioning the state into congressional districts.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President and members of the Senate, while it might not be my duty to answer the remarks of the gentleman from Lackawanna, I might say for the benefit and information of those present that we have already had, I think, six different meetings, which were well attended by the members of this Conference Committee, and we are doing everything within our power to get together and come finally before this body with a report from that Conference Committee that will be satisfactory to most of the members.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. THOMAS, from the Committee on County Government reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 1036, (House Bill No. 1526), entitled:

An Act to amend section two hundred seven of the act approved the twenty-fourth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one (P. L. 1206), entitled "An act concerning townships of the first class; amending, revising, consolidating and changing the law relating thereto," further prescribing method by which second class townships may be classified as first class townships; and providing for the costs and holding of special elections for that purpose.

SENATE BILL No. 700, (HOUSE BILL No. 99), ON SECOND READING CALLED UP

Mr. BECKER. Mr. President, I now call up Senate Bill No. 700, (House Bill No. 99), on second reading.

Mr. CRIDER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Almighty God, help us to believe, in these dark times, that the Holy One who died on a cross and rose again is still in the midst of men, working the will of God and slowly but surely making God's ways triumphant. Help us to know assuredly that we are never alone as we fight valiantly the good fight of an ever living faith. Give us strength, we beseech Thee, in our struggle against unequal odds to establish a new world of justice and love.

Calm the raging waters of hate, war, and bloodshed and bring understanding to all nations. May the time speedily come when nation will sit down with nation in an endeavor to solve all problems which will eventually lead to a greater prosperity and happiness throughout the world.

Search Thou our hearts and help each of us to cast out prejudice, race hatred, revengefulness, and ill-will. Make us worthy of Thy recognition. We ask this in Thy name. Amen.

CONFERENCE REPORT ON SENATE BILL No. 588

Mr. AUKER presented the report of the Committee of Conference on the part of the House on Senate Bill No. 588.

The report was read by the Clerk.

The SPEAKER. This being a Senate Bill the report will be printed by the Senate, and placed in the files of the Members of the House.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. SARGE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker. Several weeks ago, I made a speech on the floor of this House, appealing to the Honorable Kenneth Harkins and his Committee on Education, to bring out House Bill 396, introduced by the Honorable Ellwood J. Turner, former Speaker of the House, on February 12th and referred to said Committee on February 17th.

This is the bill which would amend the Teachers' Tenure Act so that School Boards would have the right to fire teachers of subversive and un-American philosophies in the schools of our Commonwealth. The Chairman of the Educational Committee in his reply to my remarks, attempted adroitly to befog and cover up the real issue, by reading editorials and diverting the attention of the House to the controversy over the use of Dr. Rugg's questionable text books in our schools.

I know that several substitute bills along this line have been presented to the different committees such as the Cordier-Kenehan Bills. These bills are all right in their purpose but I still think that we should have a definite amendment to the Teachers Tenure Act which would permit the school boards to fire teachers of subversive and un-American philosophies. Some of the latter bills are all right in their general purpose and perhaps are a gesture in the right direction, but this is no time for gestures. What we want is definite, specific authority in this important matter.

I now wish to reiterate and repeat my plea to the Educational Committee to bring out House Bill 396. As previously stated, this bill has a specific and direct and definite purpose aside from any discussion of Dr. Rugg's text books.

Certainly, after the deluge of newspaper editorials demanding the passage of this bill and after the interest shown by the patriotic organizations of our State, topped now by the appeal of the Democratic leader of the City of Philadelphia, Mr. Kelly, to the members of his own party, to bring out these anti-Communist bills, certainly there can be no doubt of the popular demand for this kind of legislation.

In an editorial in the Philadelphia Inquirer, the Chairman of the Educational Committee was quoted as having said, "The members of the Educational Committee can bring these bills out, if they so desire." Therefore, I now say to him that I have consulted with a number of the members of the Educational Committee and each one of them with whom I have spoken has voiced their desire for this kind of legislation.

Dr. Haas, Superintendent of Public Instruction, has publicly voiced his demand and desire for this amendment to the Teachers Tenure Law. A federation of teachers has expelled their entire local, because its membership included teachers who are alleged fellow travelers.

The C.I.O. with the assistance and approval of the Roosevelt Administration is putting on a drive to purge its organization of Communists. And yet, notwithstanding all of this public clamor, notwithstanding the patriotic demand of men and women in all walks of life, that our defense plants and above all, our schools, should be purged from this iniquitous "red poison," the Democratic controlled Committees of this House have defiantly and stubbornly refused to accede to these patriotic demands. Therefore, much as I dislike so doing, I now feel compelled to put this direct and definite question to Mr. Harkins, the Chairman of the Educational Committee and to the Democratic members of that committee: Do you want "Reds" in the schools of Pennsylvania?

In my speech of a few weeks ago, I said, that when a bill was introduced and sponsored by a gentleman who is a former Speaker of this House and by a gentleman who has had the experience and legislative background of Ellwood Turner, it should be brought out on the floor of the House as a matter of courtesy. I also stated that if the situation were reversed and the bill were sponsored by the present Speaker of the House, I would certainly, if I were on the Committee, pay the present Speaker of the House the courtesy of voting to bring out his bill. As a matter of fact, I believe that Mr. Turner would be glad to let a Democrat's name be put on this bill if that will help to bring it out on the floor of the House.

As an American citizen, I am deeply interested in this matter. I have a special and particular interest, by reason of the fact that when I was Exalted Ruler of the B. P. O. E. in 1938 and '39, the major activity of this patriotic organization was the combating of subversive and un-American philosophies and I now quote you a letter from this and other patriotic organizations of Lebanon:

June 14, 1941.

Dear Mr. Sarge;

Lebanon Lodge of Elks takes this opportunity of commending you on your efforts in the Pennsylvania House of Representatives to get House Bill No. 396 out of committee.

Keeping in mind the Americanization Program you conducted during your reign as Exalted Ruler of the Lebanon Lodge of Elks in 1938-39, these efforts are in line with your general program.

As an Elks Lodge, interested in keeping the American ideals, we heartily endorse this program to modify the teachers tenure act so schools will have the right to fire teachers on account of subversive philosophies. We believe this bill should be passed so teachers can be stopped from teaching students these un-American philosophies.

Very truly yours,

S. D. EVANS

Lebanon Lodge of Elks,

Lt. A. B. Gloninger Camp, No. 91, United Spanish War Veterans, Lebanon, Pennsylvania

My dear Sir:

The local Spanish-American camp heartily endorses your action in efforts to pass certain bills at Harrisburg—such as barring the Reds from Pennsylvania politics and the dismissal of certain school teachers who by their activity teach isms other than Americanism would that we had more men who had the courage of their convictions. Keep up the good work.

Very respectfully,

JNO. T. FERTIG, Adj.

Dear Legislator:

As a member of the Americanization Committee of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 23, Lebanon, Pa., I wish to be placed on record as being in favor of House Bill 396 and its companion bill in the Senate. I understand that these bills would help to protect the children in the public schools from Anti-American movements injected by teachers who are not teaching true American ideals.

Please use every effort at your command to get these bills before the proper bodies and voted upon in a favorable manner.

Thanking you for your kindness,

I am

Very truly yours,

FREDERICK S. FRANTZ
Funeral Director.

Wm. H. Bollman Post No. 158
American Legion
Lebanon, Pennsylvania

June 16, 1941.

Dear Sir:

On behalf of the William H. Bollman Post No. 158, American Legion, Department of Pennsylvania at Lebanon, Pennsylvania, I am writing to you in regard to the status of various bills introduced in the State Assembly in reference to public teachers connected with the Communist Party or teaching un-American theories of government. I understand that there is a bill in the House Committee (H. B. 396), making it possible for school boards to dismiss public school teachers who are teaching un-American theories of government. Also, a Senate Bill that is likewise before the House Committee on similar lines. As the head of the local Post, consisting of American citizens who have fought, and in many instances suffered greivous injuries, in order to preserve our American institutions, and form of government, I am urging and respectfully insisting that you exert your vote and influence to bring before the House and secure the passage of these bills which will enable our authorities to deal with the menace of the Communistic propagandist who operates under the guise of an educator. Our best efforts for armed defense of our nation will be of no avail, if we permit the minds of our youth to be poisoned from within. You and your colleagues have sworn to uphold the Constitution of the United States and State of Pennsylvania. I suggest that this is the time and the opportunity to make your oath mean something.

Respectfully submitted,

STEPHEN R. STEELEY, Commander.

Mr. Speaker, I wish it understood that it is my desire to be entirely impersonal in my anxiety about this important matter. I have many friends of the Democratic side of the House and I have a high regard for the Chairman of the Educational Committee and for the Democratic members of that Committee, but in a crisis such as America faces today, I can not conceive of such a mental quirk or queer philosophy that would make anyone so determined and so obstinate as to refuse to comply with such a reasonable and such a patriotic request on the part of the people of Pennsylvania, to bring this Bill out in the floor of the House and let the members of the legislature decide whether or not we want to give the School Boards the right to fire disloyal teachers.

I say to the Chairman of the Educational Committee and to the Democratic members thereon, that President Franklin D. Roosevelt has stated that neither Hitler nor Stalin nor their minions believe in a Supreme Being.

And I ask the Chairman of this Educational Committee, and the Democratic members thereon, do you realize what a real danger there is, to have even a few teachers in our public schools give your children and mine the fundamentals of a system that would (1) destroy the churches of God in America; (2) that would tear God's image from the hearts of our people; and (3) that would have our children trample over the American Flag to salute with fists upraised, the "red" flag of revolution?

The opposition has used the old worn out theory of witch hunting, trying to make us believe that the purpose of these bills was to give rise to witch hunting. Let us not forget that it was this same cry, coupled with Fifth Column activities that started the undermining of France and caused her ruin! And now some people are trying to confuse the issue by the recent development in the war situation which has allied Russia with England. I quote you from an editorial in the June 23rd issue of the Lebanon Daily News, entitled "When Thieves Fall Out Just Men Get Their Due."

"Just because the Comrades find themselves unwillingly lined up with — of all people — Winston Churchill, it is no reason for Uncle Sam to relax in his drive to clean them out of key positions in America.

"For until Hitler pulled his latest double cross, the Reds were perfectly willing to stage acts of sabotage in both England and America. Let us not be fooled by Communists bearing gifts. Don't be mistaken, they aren't fighting to make the world safe for democracy or capitalism. They are just a bunch of mocracy or capitalism. They are just a bunch of croaching upon their home territory."

I also call your attention to the statement made on Sunday afternoon by Prime Minister Churchill in which he said that he reiterates everything that he said in the past 25 years against Communism. In other words, the fact that Russia is now fighting against Germany is no reason for refusing to pass House Bill 396.

Naturally, the teachers of Local 192, suspended by the American Federation of Teachers on grounds of Communistic sympathies are against it. Mr. Weinstein, Secretary of a C.I.O. local is against it, according to the newspapers. So are Stalin and Hitler, and what else would you expect?

Mr. Speaker, I want a specific amendment to the Teachers Tenure Law that will definitely give School Boards the right to fire subversive teachers from the public school system. The people of Pennsylvania are entitled to such a law. It won't hurt a single loyal American teacher.

Let's get together and lick this system of ferocious barbarism in the schools of Pennsylvania. Let's assure the people of Pennsylvania that the anarchistic and atheistic doctrines of Stalin shall not be taught in the schools of Pennsylvania.

In conclusion, Mr. Speaker, as I stand here and as I see the picture of the gentleman on the right reading the Declaration of Independence, as I see the picture of Thaddeus Stevens the father of the public school system in America, and as I see on the wall at the rear Washington at Valley Forge, and as I look upon the inscription on the ceiling overhead, "Ye Shall Know The Truth and The Truth Shall Make You Free," and as I think of the man who said, "Suffer little children to come unto me for of such is the kigdom of Heaven," and "Blessed is the nation that has the Lord in thought."

Again I say to the Democratic party, that the refusal of this Legislature to pass this anti-Communistic legislation will leave a stench in the nostrils of all the Christian people in this great Commonwealth, and your refusal to cooperate in this matter will go down in history as the greatest political bungling ever perpetrated in the hall of this Legislature. In fact, gentlemen, it will be nothing short of a catastrophic cataclysm.

MEMBERS EXPRESS THANKS

Mr. WOLF. Mr. Speaker, yesterday afternoon there was handed to me a copy of a resolution which had been read in this House the preceding day. It was a resolution of congratulation.

Mr. Speaker, on behalf of Mrs. Wolf and myself I wish to express to the Members from Berks County my sincere appreciation for having had this resolution prepared. I wish to express my sincere appreciation and thanks to you, Mr. Speaker, for having it read, and to the Members of the House for having it adopted. It is something that will be long remembered and appreciated so in conclusion I say to you, Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, I thank you.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. HARKINS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I desire to answer the gentleman from Lebanon, Mr. Sarge, and in doing so I believe I can also make an answer to an editorial which appeared in the Pittsburgh Post Gazette on Thursday morning, June 19, 1941 regarding the same situation.

I note with pleasure, Mr. Speaker, that the gentleman from Lebanon, Mr. Sarge informed the Members that he has at least a high if not the highest regard for me personally, and I can return the same compliment to the gentleman from Lebanon. We personally are the best of friends. It is true that while I think we both desire to obtain the same general objectives, we look at the problem through different eyes, and Mr. Speaker, that is not strange, that is not unusual. What a peculiar world this would be if all of us from different sections of the state of Pennsylvania saw the same problems that concerned us in exactly the same way? We would all come down here as Members of one party, perchance, instead of Members of the two parties that do exist in strength today.

Mr. Speaker, I note that the gentleman quoted the motto inscribed on the ceiling of the Hall "And ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." I say that is exactly what I want to have maintained in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

I am not opposed to any of these bills which have been introduced by the Republican members of the House because they have been introduced by Republicans. There are men who sit on the other side of the House who today know and who will say to you that they received fair and considerate treatment from me as Chairman of the Committee of which I am Chairman. They will tell you that they received fair treatment on their individual bills. But this is not a local matter, this is a matter which goes to the fundamental principles of our government.

It is easy enough to wrap ourselves around with the flag and to assume that all leadership and that all knowledge rests within our own individual brain, and that our judgment is absolute. But, Mr. Speaker, that is not the case as far as I am concerned in this particular matter, because in my judgment it is the considered judgment of the committee that the particular bills referred to do not accomplish the aims which they purport to accomplish.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I have heard considerable from Members of the House concerning Communistic teachers. I say if there is a superintendent or supervising principal in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania who has under his guidance or his direction teachers who are teaching subversive principals, that superintendent or supervising principal ought to resign. I have heard no complaints from supervising principals or from superintendents about these teachers. I have seen agitation in the newspapers, I have heard it from a few particular individuals, but, Mr. Speaker, what has been attempted is not to dismiss teachers because of what they have done, but rather it is for what some members of the school boards or what some people of the community think the teachers think.

It is the same question that is wrapped up in the amendments that we debated and discussed yesterday afternoon.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I said a moment ago that I would like to answer the editorial that appears in the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette. I would have written a letter to that particular newspaper had I believed that the reactionary newspaper dictatorship which guides its editorial policy would have been fair enough to have given a proportionate amount of space and publicity to my answer that was accorded to its editorial.

In the editorial, the same thesis that the gentleman from Lebanon advanced was promulgated, namely that every bill that was introduced in committee should be reported to this floor for action. I would not have any objection to that, Mr. Speaker, personally. I think that that would be a better way of getting good laws. I think however, that we might be here much longer than we have been so far if that were to occur.

I am not sure however, that the particular newspaper which advocates that doctrine would be so anxious to have the bills which regularly are introduced in every session to limit newspaper legal advertising, brought out for discussion. In other words, it is a situation where you damn the person who keeps in committee, or who may be on a committee which retains a bill in which you have a particular interest. With the two thousand or more bills that have been introduced here, under our system it is our common knowledge that all bills should not be reported out, and it has not been the practice so to do.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I don't know whether anyone here has questioned my patriotism, I have not so understood it so far. I think the gentleman from Lebanon said he was a member of a patriotic order, the order of Elks. I too happen to be a member of that order, and I believe in the principles of that order, but nowhere have I found that the principles of that order dictate any bills such as have been under discussion in this particular session.

I believe in the Bill of Rights, in the Declaration of Independence and in the Constitution of the Commonwealth and of the United States of America.

When I took my oath as a member of this Assembly in January of this year, I swore for the fourth time in as many sessions thus, "I do solemnly swear that I will support, obey and defend the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of this Commonwealth, and that I will discharge the duties of my office with fidelity" When I became a member of the Bar of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, I took a similar oath. These words have impressed themselves on me and Mr. Speaker, it is with a full knowledge of their meaning that I believe in them and believe in other sections of the Constitution as well.

Take for example Section 7 of Article I of the State Constitution, regarding Freedom of the Press which states, "The printing press shall be free to every person who may undertake to examine the proceedings of the legislature or any branch of government, and no law shall ever be made to restrain the right thereof. The free communication of thoughts and opinions is one of the invaluable rights of man and every citizen may freely speak, write and print on any subject, being responsible for the abuse of that liberty"

I would recommend that the editor of the Post-Gazette read and study Section 7 of Article I of the Constitution because there are many people who would restrict the rights of the press and limit freedom which it enjoys today.

Even though I believe the editorial policy above referred to suffers greatly from a combination of near-sighted partisanship, lack of care, in the examination of the proceedings of this House and a desire to selfishly serve reactionary principles which carried to their conclusion would prevent real freedom of speech, and of the press; nevertheless, I believe that freedom of speech is necessary even though abused by some incompetent editors.

The agitation for modification of the Teachers Tenure Act at this session has taken a novel turn. This year it takes the form of the inclusion of the words, "subversive or un-American teaching" as a cause for dismissal. I object, Mr. Speaker, to any newspaper or any member questioning directly or indirectly my loyalty or patriotic motives when I say that in my opinion we have today on the statute books sufficient law to dismiss any teacher who teaches subversive or un-American doctrines. The plain answer is that the people who are only directing their attacks at teachers are members of the Republican Party, who are unable to understand that teachers have been removed from political control by the Democratic Teachers Tenure Act of 1937. It is an admitted fact that the large majority of the school boards of the State are Republican controlled and I say that any instructor who inadvertently made a complimentary statement about a Democratic office holder or the principles of the Democratic Party would be subject to dismissal as "subversive."

Teachers of Pennsylvania awake yourselves to the subterfuge and "subversive" activity of the Republican Party which would return you to the group of people who must register as the politicians of the school board dictate and who must have no opinion on any subject lest it offend a board member.

It has been stated on the floor of the House by the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, that "the Democrats are trying to protect a small group of teachers who are trying to bend the wills and minds of the children in our schools." I say that the Democrats are trying to protect the children so that competent teachers honestly interpreting the Bill of Rights, the Constitution and the other fundamental principles of our government will not be forced to defend themselves from vicious attacks led by Republican controlled school boards, hungry for jobs and by pseudo patriots either unacquainted with the Constitution or willing to deny its protection to minority groups.

The gentleman from Delaware suggested last week that he has been aware of this problem for many years. In 1937 when discussing the tenure act he spoke in similar vein of his desire to include the cause of sedition as a reason for dismissal. However, when the gentleman from Delaware as Speaker of the House in 1939 session was the most important man in the Commonwealth, did he amend the Tenure Act? The answer is the gentleman did not. And if the remarks of the gentleman from Delaware made in March 1937 are read it is apparent that his philosophy has undergone no basic change.

Again in that debate as in his statement of last week the gentleman from Delaware states that it is allright to curb the freedom of speech of some of the teachers in order to avoid the teaching of dangerous doctrines. The gentleman from Delaware said as is recorded on page 2067 of Volume 21 No. 37, on March 31, 1937 in speaking on the question of subversive teaching.

"I want to say to you that as far as I am concerned I am willing to infringe somewhat upon the freedom of speech of some of these people, if that be necessary, in order that we may not here have people who are undermining, boring and sapping into this government of ours, and into our schools, in order to teach doctrines that are subversive to our Democratic form of government that we have under our Constitution."

Now, Mr. Speaker, any weakening of or attack on or denial of free speech is a denial of the entire principle and likewise a denial of the Constitution. For who is going to judge how far the right of free speech should be curtailed and who should curtail it? It is like the eggshell, which though fragile is yet solid and perfect, but once cracked ever so slightly is completely broken and ruined.

Let me call your attention to something which I think is subversive. On November 3, 1938, Arthur H. James, then a judge of the Superior Court of Pennsylvania, in an effort to be elected Governor of this Commonwealth, sent a letter addressed to the Teachers of Pennsylvania in which he stated he favored certain principles, two of which are as follows:

Item (1) Sufficient appropriations to meet the subsidy requirements the present educational laws on the statute books.

Item (2) The basic requirements of the Edmonds Act, including increments for teachers of fourth-class school districts.

These two campaign pledges the Governor has tried to evade; does this not seem to you to shake the confidence of the fourth-class district teachers in the highest official in our State? And to make it more outrageous each of these fourth-class district teachers knows that the Governor who thus sees fit to break his promise of increments since they are not included in his budget, drew his full salary as a judge while he actually spent his time campaigning at the public expense for the Governorship. I ask you, what can be more subversive than that? What greater indictment of our Democratic system has any of us ever seen?

Mr. Speaker and fellow-members, I believe that when we teach the boys and girls to revere and respect and pay tribute to Old Glory we should honestly try to teach them the greatness of our Republic and that our actions should conform to our words. The beauty of the Stars and Stripes should not be dimmed by the broken pledges of those in high public office.

Our boys and girls in our schools should be taught to scorn those who would undermine their faith in democracy by the cheap way of making campaign pledges only to break them; to bring to public judgment dishonest public officials and those who would subvert the peoples will by such incompetence and intrigue as has been shown to exist in the Philadelphia Republican controlled registration Commission.

As that great orator Daniel Webster said, "Let our object be our country, our whole country, and nothing but our country," but let us also remember that he said "Liberty exists in proportion to wholesome restraint." The course that I urge is that of wholesale restraint not one of rash and impetuous hysteria. Webster also declared that "God grants liberty only to those who love it and are always ready to guard and defend it." The best way to guard and defend our liberties is to view with deliberation and calmness these propositions to take from the people rights reserved by the people to themselves in the Bill of Rights.

I know, Mr. Speaker and Members of the House, that it is easy to be misunderstood in such times as we live in today. But danger of possibility of being misunderstood will not justify lack of thought or the shirking of duty on our part. And our duty is to think and think clearly.

For my part, I am not ready to accept the principles of McClure of Delaware or Grundy of Bucks as the principles of Americanism. If to declare my faith in the principles uttered by those who framed the Declaration of Independence, the Bill of Rights, and the Constitution is to drink the poison hemlock of political ostracism, then, Mr. Speaker and Members of the House, I am supported and strengthened by the knowledge that ultimately these principles will prevail and that I have not failed in my duty.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. BERTHERICK asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Just prior to recess, Mr. Speaker, I listened with rapt attention to the verbal vaporings of the gentleman from Allegheny who professes such a deep and reverend respect for the Constitution and laws of the United States of America and everything that it stands for, but at the same time loses no opportunity to rise to the defense of a group of teachers in our Commonwealth who would inoculate our children with the virus of that slimy thing called Communism. I do not have such a deep and abiding respect for the Americanism of that gentleman as does the gentleman from Lebanon, Mr. Sarge.

I cannot imagine any one who prides himself on his patriotism rising to defend that group of school teachers in our state who, as I say, inoculate our children with the virus of Communism. As I stated two weeks ago on the floor of this House the bill which would amend the Teachers Tenure Act to make it possible to eliminate from our school system those who are teaching Communism to our children, is the most important piece of legislation before this House today. I have been trying for months, not to pass the bill, but just to get a hearing on it, and I challenge the gentleman who is the Chairman of the Committee on Education to release that bill from his Committee and get it on the floor of this House. I dare say to you, Mr. Speaker, that ninety per cent of the Members of this House will vote for it, because I dare say that ninety per cent of the membership of this House are just as interested in preserving the principles of democratic government, the principles of our Constitution, the principles of our liberty and freedom that we all admire and adore, we are just as anxious as Mr. Sarge to preserve those liberties and freedoms, and all we ask, Mr. Speaker, is that the gentleman release the bill from committee and let it be put to a vote on the floor of this House. I know that this bill will pass unanimously, because I know that the Members of this House do not want their children taught the principles of Communism.

I wonder if the Members realize, Mr. Speaker, what Communism is doing to this country? Let me read from House Report No. 153, made on February 15, 1935 by a Special Committee appointed to Investigate Subversive Activities in the United States. The report contains the following:

"The nature and extent of organized Communistic activity in the United States have been established by testimony and the objective of such activities clearly defined. Both from documentary evidence submitted to the Committee and from the frank admission of Communistic leaders (Browder and Ford, New York hearing, July 12, 1934) these objectives include:

1. The overthrow by force and violence of the Republic form of government guaranteed by Article IV, Sec. 4 of the Federal Constitution.

2. The substitution of a soviet form of government on class domination to be accomplished by abolition of elective representatives both to the legislative and executive branches as provided by Article I, by the several sections of Article II, of the same constitution, and by the fourteenth amendment.

3. The confiscation of private property by governmental decree, without the due process of law and compensation guaranteed by the fifth amendment.

4. Restricting the rights of religious freedom, freedom of speech and of the press, as guaranteed by the first amendment.

These specific purposes by Communist admission, are to be achieved not by peaceful exercise of the ballot under constitutional right but by revolutionary upheaval, by fomenting class hatred, by incitement to class warfare and by other illegal as well as legal methods."

Now, Mr. Speaker, it seems to me where we have an opportunity to prevent the teaching to our children of principles which will ultimately tear down our American system of Government there ought to be lost no opportunity to see that the children of our Commonwealth are not to be taught those principles. I ask you again, Mr. Speaker and Members of this House to release that bill from committee; get it out here on the floor of the House so that the Members on both sides of the House may vote upon it, and I know that about ninety per cent of the Members of this House know what that bill does. It certainly is not democratic, it is certainly not American to bury in committee a bill which is wanted by a great majority of the people of Pennsylvania, and which I believe will be voted upon favorably by the vast majority of the members of this House.

Mr. Speaker, I could babble interminably; I could continue to erupt as did the gentleman from Allegheny about freedom and liberty, but I am going to ask permission of this House to have copied into the journal an outline of a publication by Rev. Philip J. Sheehan on the subject of "Communism and what it stands for." I think it is the slimiest ism that exists in the world today, and the mere fact that Russia, or the Soviet Government happens to be fighting against the other form of government, Nazziism, should not relax our vigilance in seeing that the isms do not find a foothold in the United States of America.

Mr. Speaker, I am going to ask unanimous consent to have copied into the Journal, a compilation by the Rev. Philip J. Sheehan, a Roman Catholic clergyman who has done more, probably, than any other man to prevent the spread of Communism in America.

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection the matter referred to by the gentleman will be extended on the Journal. The Chair hears none.

COMPILATION BY REV. PHILLIP J. SHEEHAN

1. The Capitalist has only an economic power over his worker, in the sense that he may pay whatever salary he pleases, and therefore exploit the worker.

2. The Communist employer (the State) exercises not only economic rights over the worker, but even judicial rights in that the employer (State) has the right to punish any of his workers. Any refusal to obey the employer in any way is interpreted as sedition which in Russia is punishable by death.

3. The so-called "freedom" to criticize even unjust or brutal conditions has had disastrous results for those who dared to criticize. Is it any wonder that resolutions are always passed unanimously? In this country Communist agitators openly advocate revolution; they openly assert that "soldiers and sailors must be won for the revolution." To make such a statement in Russia would mean instant condemnation to death. A worker in Russia goes to a labor camp if he criticizes Stalin. If he favorably mentions the name of Trotsky he may be shot.

4. When Communists prattle about freedom, remind them that the Commissar of Justice, Kvylenko, at a meeting of the Executive Central Committee, made a report on the new laws and new constitutions and said: "The methods of dictatorship remain the same, based on the implacable suppression of adversaries and on terror, and in perfect agreement with the ideas of Lenin."

5. When they preach about "freedom of the press," remind them that Article 125 of the New Constitution puts all the printing presses of the Nation in the hands of the Communist Party and forbids any individual from setting up a printing shop of his own? Were our government to interpret "freedom of the press" as it is interpreted in Russia, there would be no newspapers in this country favorable to Communism.

6. When the Communist boasts about the "freedom of labor," remind him that Article 118 gives its citizens "the right to work." That is not freedom. Freedom consists in the right not to work, or the freedom to choose where you will work and for whom you will work. You may not choose "for whom" you will work, for there is only one boss—the State. And certainly one may not choose "where" to work, since, for instance, if a man reside in the country and is unemployed he is forbidden to move to the city without special permission.

7. In Russia a man may not choose the kind of work he would perform. The State determines that! Though the Communist is free from work every sixth day, the State reserves the right to mobilize them for extra work. In six weeks an automobile factory sent 2800 of its workers "voluntarily" to carry brick on their "Subbotnik," or day off. As a matter of fact they may be called upon for "gratuitous" duties to the State "after they have finished their eight hours of industrial labor."

8. When you hear the Communist in our midst asserting the "freedom to strike," remind him again that to strike in Russia makes one an "enemy of the people." Communism preaches its doctrines in America by inciting strikes and violence, and yet exiles or murders those who strike in Russia. Communism in America forms unions "for the sake of the workers," and yet in Russia, where Communism is established, it forms unions "for the sake of the State"—the employer. The union in Russia is in the hands of the employer—the state, and they protect the state in the exploitation of its workers. The Ninth Union Congress in 1932, for example, states that "workers" organizations have for their principal objects the increase of the output of labor, the lowering of price as a result of that increased output, and the amelioration of its quality. Not a word about the rights of the worker to a living wage, or to decent living conditions. The September 1935 issue of the Moladaia Guardia states that the Soviet jails in Siberia are jammed with those who protested against Soviet working conditions. Those who refuse to work for the Communist state are shot. Concerning them the newspaper Pravda on December 11, 1932, stated "the workers must be shot, and shot, and shot."

9. In Russia they have passed a new law providing that anyone guilty of political crime may be condemned without the right of defense? Judges are appointed for only a year and they may "be recalled at any time by the Communist Party"—at any time they do not please that party. We complain about third degree methods used by our police, but in Russia they are a thousand times worse. There they stoop so low as to torture a prisoner's children before his eyes—often for the purpose of forcing false confessions. When a Soviet soldier flees across the frontier, his family—wife, mother, father, and children are punished for the crime.

10. In Russia a man has not the right to be present at his own trial, for "the case is examined and tried in the absence of parties and no appeal and no recommendations for mercy are entertained." In America the Communists praise the worker who throws a monkey-wrench into a machine. In Russia they shoot him! They do the first to "establish" liberty, and the second to "preserve" it.

11. Seventy per cent of Russian Judges have not received a primary education. In many cases they can not even write their own names. No wonder the worker Kliniova, of Stalingrad, was condemned to ten months of hard labor for having sold six pounds of bread. He did not steal it. He sold it—which was worse. Only the State can sell it. And this is called "liberty" and "democracy."

12. A farmer may have a "small private farm, (from ½ to 1.8 acres per family) but a worker has no such right. Only a worker who has distinguished himself in a particular manner and for the honor and glory of Communism is entitled to the use of an automobile. An attempt is being made to eliminate these small farms and put an end to individual farming. Farmers working their tiny plots, must also work on the collective farm.

13. In Russia "liberty" means "slavery"; "liquidation" means "murder"; "dictatorship of the proletariat" means "dictatorship over the proletariat." For a man to desire, or do, or think, anything other than what the State does is treason. The right to disagree, even in non-essentials, is denied.

OLD FORGE REPUBLICAN CLUB WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. The Chair at this time welcomes members of the Old Forge Republican Club of Lackawanna County, who are guests of Messrs. Knoble and Cordier.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. LEVY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, during yesterday's session the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, made the following statement, and I read from a transcript of the Journal, or rather from the stenographer's notes that will be inserted in the Journal. Mr. Turner had this to say, and I quote:

"I said something about philosophy and I said something about the differences in philosophy. I was not at that time referring to any particular philosophy which the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, might hold, if he holds any. I was merely stating that I know there was a difference between the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, and the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. O'Brien, and the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, that by my association I knew something, I thought, of their mental approach to a subject, but I wonder what the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, wants us to think." "Here is an article from a Philadelphia paper the other day speaking about a meeting of the Philadelphia Local Teachers that were ousted by the A. F. of L. because the A. F. of L. said they were Communistic. This article said: 'Members of the ousted local at their meeting heard State Representative J. Harold Levy, Democrat, Philadelphia, condemn bills pending in the Legislature which would dismiss state employes and remove from relief persons advocating philosophies providing for the overthrow of the Government. He called the bills reactionary.' I am wondering what the gentleman from Philadelphia Mr. Levy wants us to think of that when he read it in the newspapers?"

Gentlemen, that is in toto what the gentleman said, and that is in essence what I intend to answer. I am a member of the Democratic party and I am a member of this Legislature. I was asked by a group of teachers, not to appear at a meeting of that union, because there was no such meeting,—I was asked to appear at a rally of citizens of the city of Philadelphia protesting the passage of House Bill No. 413 and House Bill No. 448, and that rally was scheduled on Friday last. I appeared there, Mr. Speaker, along with the President of the American Federation of Labor, Teacher's Union of the state of New Jersey and I spoke against House Bill No. 413 and I spoke against House Bill No. 448. I am happy to say that yesterday afternoon the objections that I had to House Bill No. 413 and House Bill No. 448 were removed from the bill by amendments.

I want to say to the gentleman from Delaware, if that is the kind of statement he makes on the floor, that he knows a man's philosophy because a Democratic member of the House accepts to speak at a rally opposing bills which he conscientiously opposes, then I say I am happy to oppose this philosophy trash that the gentleman from Delaware has attempted to put on this floor. And gentlemen, when I say trash, I mean it, because from the definition of an overt act which the gentleman attempted to define yesterday on the floor of the House, I am sure he cannot define the word, "philosophy." Certainly I am against the word, "philosophy"; why shouldn't I be? Does it state in the bill who is to accept or reject the philosophy of an individual? No, it leaves that to the imagination.

As I pointed out yesterday, the secretary of some Board in Harrisburg might set up a particular philosophy in his own mind, and he might attempt to demand that all his employes live up to his definition of philosophy under the pretext that they might be fired or dismissed from employment in the Bureau.

What is philosophy, gentlemen? What is philosophy, I would ask the gentleman from Delaware? It is American philosophy to adhere to doctrines of the Republican party? It is American philosophy to adhere to the policies of the Democratic Party? Or maybe it is the proper American philosophy to follow the leadership of John J. McClure of Delaware County, I don't know. I say to you, Members of the House, that if you want to do away with the Fascist, Nazi and Communist elements in Pennsylvania, write it into a bill, and I will ask the gentleman from Delaware to prepare the bill and I will vote for it and I will not speak against it, but do not attempt by yelling anti-Naziism to sacrifice the young American girls and boys in the employment of the state who have every right to live like you and I. I say to the gentleman from Delaware he doesn't know what philosophy means, because his philosophy differs from mine; my philosophy may differ from the gentleman's from Philadelphia, Mr. O'Brien. We haven't been called, gentlemen, to vote on a bill that is anti-Red, we haven't been asked to vote on a bill that is anti-Nazi.

This House Bill No. 413 without its amendments is a dangerous disgrace to the General Assembly, because any one's philosophy might be different from that of the person in whose power it is to take or grant a position.

I say to you, Mr. Speaker, coming back to the inference that the gentleman made concerning the Teacher's Union in Philadelphia, let me say to him and to the Members of the House that not only Mr. Harkins of Allegheny County, but I also want to direct my remarks to the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Bretherick, who is a friend of mine; there are sufficient laws on the statute books of Pennsylvania to fire every Communist teacher in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and I am going to prove to you why there is such a law and how it was created.

I wonder if the gentleman from Delaware remembers the name of one Bessie R. Burchett, teacher in the South Philadelphia High School for girls? I want to read this into the record, Miss Burchett in 1938 had this to say—and she has written an article in the Women's Clubs of Pennsylvania Magazine, "Every Woman". Miss Burchett denounced the teaching of sex hygiene in the schools, and she said it was dangerous to the womanhood of America and particularly, Mr. Speaker, she said it was dangerous to the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Who is Bessie Burchett? Bessie Burchett was a teacher in the South Philadelphia High School for girls who openly, without fear of prosecution, taught Naziism and Fascism in the Philadelphia High School. What happened to her? That I am going to tell you later, but what did the Republican Women's of Pennsylvania Magazine have to say about the article of Bessie Burchett on sex hygiene? I'll tell you what they said on the back of the magazine: "The editors of the Tocsin express their appreciation to Dr. Burchett for her contribution on Page 10 of the January 1938 issue." What did they further say? They said: "The Tocsin extends its hearty thanks and sincere appreciation to all the kind contributors who are making our magazine what it is, especially Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, Mr. Dupont, the National Association of Manufacturers, Mrs. Philips K. Parker, Vice President of the Virginia State Republican Committee and Dr. Burchett."

Now, why did they compliment Dr. Burchett? They said in commenting on her: "We extend our hearty thanks and sincere appreciation to Dr. Burchett for her fearless setting forth of the dangers that we are developing around our growing girls, the next generation of women in Pennsylvania."

Do you know what happened to Dr. Burchett, gentlemen of the House? She openly advocated what I told you as she did, and the Board of Education in Philadelphia through the Teachers' Tenure Act, through the very Tenure Act that the gentleman from Delaware wishes to destroy, fired her, and they had cause for doing it, and she is no longer a teacher in the South Philadelphia High School for girls.

Now, what about the Communists in the school system? Why doesn't the Board of Education fire them? If you could fire a person teaching Naziism, and I say that Naziism is just as terrible and just as vicious, and I laud the remarks of the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Bretherick, then why cannot we dismiss the Communists under the Teachers' Tenure Act? Do you know why? The gentleman from Delaware knows why we cannot; it is because the Board of Education under three separate investigations could not find any teacher in Philadelphia who taught Communism. And this afternoon in the solemnity of this hall I ask the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, if that is what he said, that if there are Communist teachers in Philadelphia then why doesn't the Board of Education get something on them? I know of no Communist teachers. I have a little sister fifteen years old who goes to the Kensington High School for girls, just graduated from the Penn Treaty High School, and she had a teacher in English who happened to be a member of this union, and that child didn't come home and talk Communism; that child came home humming, "God bless America."

I say to the gentleman from Delaware, he made charges, he said there are Communist teachers that are getting their roots into our system. I say to him it is his sworn duty to place those incidents and instances before the Board of Public Education, and if he does not, I say to him he then becomes derelict in his duty.

Gentlemen, House Bill 413, as the gentleman from Allegheny so ably pointed out yesterday, is not the passage of speeches, it is the passage of law. We do not want to hear those flag waving and Red baiting speeches, at least I do not, and I am not a Communist. I love America and everything it holds dear, but I am not going to listen to red-baiting speeches without the facts. If there are Communists in Philadelphia in the school system, the Tenure Act takes care of them. The only reason the Tenure Act has not taken care of them now—and it is a matter of record—is that Dr. Stafford, along with Add B. Anderson, secretary of the school system of Philadelphia made an investigation, and they exonerated all these people; they are not teaching Communism in the schools; but I say if there is one among them, he should be properly punished, and it is the duty of the gentleman from Delaware to tell us where he or she is.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I agree with the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Bretherick. He said we ought to hold dear the American ideals and principles, and if we do, then we have a right to oppose certain bills that we feel are un-American, and I say to the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, I attended this rally, I am proud of it, I didn't see any Peace signs in the hall of this great amphitheater; I didn't see any Hammer and Sickles posted along the walls. I didn't hear any Communists making any speeches, and I say that five or six or seven hundred teachers and their friends did attend this rally to show their protest against House Bill 413 and House Bill 448. If that is Communism, then I say, Mr. Speaker, we ought to end our careers as members of the Legislature. If that is Communism then I don't know what the word means, and I think I can define Communism. I say to the gentleman from Delaware he erred when he inferred to this House that because a man journeyed to a rally and discussed his own feelings about a bill that is before his Legislature, he erred in making those inferences, and I say to you, Mr. Speaker, that is the American way. I am grateful for the opportunity and the time in these closing days of the Session, to make this statement.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. TURNER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, the article which I read from the newspaper yesterday must have pinched pretty hard: The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, errs in his statement when he connects what I said about philosophy with the statement which I read from the newspaper. What I said about philosophy was in reply to a statement made by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, in which he said you couldn't tell about a man's philosophy. I said I thought from my association in this House that I knew the philosophy of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, and that I knew that was a different philosophy from that of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, and of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. O'Brien, and if I by that inference led any one to believe that I thought there was any similarity in the philosophies of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, and of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. O'Brien, I wish to apologize to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. O'Brien.

The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, has said that I do not know the definition of philosophy. I think any of us can give a homespun definition of philosophy, but yesterday I sent to the desk for Webster's dictionary, and I looked up the definition of philosophy, because I hoped that therein I might find something that I might apply to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy. I might say in reading the definition of philosophy in Webster's Dictionary, which you can read by applying to the desk and getting the volume, I couldn't find anything that applied to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, has clearly shown to me that he doesn't know the de-inition of philosophy, because he has tried to apply the definition of philosophy to what he terms the philosophy of certain individuals.

Well, I realize as I said, there is a difference of philosophy of certain individuals. I am sure that he is opposed, as he said, to the philosophy of certain individuals, and I am sure that I could not subscribe to the philosophy of David Stern, Albert Greenfield or Joseph Guffey, if they have any philosophy.

Now, the gentleman from Philadelphia seems to be worried about this meeting of these teachers and the fact that he says there are no Communists among the teachers in the schools in Philadelphia.

I think the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Harkins, this morning said that I had said I had spent a number of years, or had known, or had been interested for a number of years in the subject, and I distinctly remember that I referred in my remarks a few days ago to certain individuals, who, as had many organizations, been interested in this question in the schools in Philadelphia but who had never been able to get any action in the schools. But, Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman from Philadelphia can stand here on the floor of this House and try to bluff us into believing that there are no Communists in the schools of Philadelphia and he wants me definitely to prove that there are Communists among the teachers in the schools of Philadelphia, why, I will name names and state places,—I think that's what was recently said in the Senate,—by saying that the American Federation of Labor threw out a group of teachers in Pennsylvania who were organized into a branch of that union, and whom they threw out on the ground that they were Communists. Therefore, I cannot see how I need go any further in offering my evidence than by stating again, as I said yesterday, that the American Federation of Labor said there were Communists in the schools of Philadelphia.

Now then, Mr. Speaker, I will go still further, if the gentleman from Philadelphia would like me to present something in the way of evidence, by saying that I hold in my hand a letter which came to me in the mail this morning from a very eminent citizen of Philadelphia, and he addresses me this way:

"I have been intending to drop you a line for some time to say how happy I am that you are actively behind a move to curb subversive activities. I have been interested in this subject a long while, and I know of conditions in our schools in Philadelphia that are perfectly disgusting. I have had in my office the original books taken from the library of the South Philadelphia High School for girls, for instance, and have a photostat of title pages and book plates and have purchased copies of several of these books. I understand there is a bill for approximately fifty thousand dollars to be used in investigating subversive activities detrimental to the defense program. If this investigation lifts the lid off what is going on in Philadelphia schools and probably in schools all over the state, it would raise a stench that would reach to high heaven, and I hope would result among other things in forcing out of office the members of the Board of Education who are aiding and abetting and encouraging these activities."

Now, Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia made a lot out of the singing of, "God Bless America." Why, certainly the Communists are singing, "God bless America." Try to get them to go back to Russia! Certainly they want to stay in America. I do not mean to imply in any way that the little sister of the gentleman from Philadelphia coming home from school had any other intention than being a good American child and believing in America, but the singing of "God bless America" is also done by many of our subversive groups and by many people who certainly want to stay in America; who believe America is a great place, but just want to change it over and make it into something else.

The thing I have tried to say to the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, and to the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Harkins, and the thing I am now saying to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, is this, that what they are saying is what we ought to enact a law, and we to enact a law that is drawn in terms which they will approve, and not make speeches, as they say. The thing we are aiming at today is something that goes further and deeper than that. As I said yesterday, these people will not be out in the front ranks with bayonets and guns seeking to overthrow the government of the United States. Oh no, they won't be in the front line of the parade. Oh no, they wouldn't permit their names to appear in any connection in any way that would indicate they might be thrown out for seeking to overthrow the Government of the United States,—O no!

Now, what do these gentleman propose that the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, praises so much? What amendments did they place in the bill yesterday?

"He who hereafter advocates and actively participates by an overt act or acts in a movement proposing a change in the form of government of the United States by means not provided for in the Constitution of the United States."

What does that mean? If they had said, "or actively participates," I might have felt that they were sincere in their attempt to do something in this matter, but they didn't say, "or actively participates"; they say, "and participate." You have fotten down to the point where you must go out and advocate and actively participate. In what? In an overt act. They go over all the defense in the criminal law, which says, "an open act with a criminal intent," and they so word this that it would be impossible to get at that which those of us on this side of the House have been battling for five or six months in an attempt to reach.

I beg pardon—I see the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Harkins, is in the House. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Harkins, has plead on two occasions in the last couple days all of the Bill of Rights, all of the freedom of speech and freedom of the press. That's the very thing behind which these people operate, that is the very thing they cry and hold up to us.

Now, we know what happens. On the other side of the water we know what happened and what they want to establish in America. We know how much freedom of the press and freedom of speech they have.

Let me read something to the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Harkins, who wants us to study and read, and also give him something to think about. Of course any one can quote something for his purpose; you can take a speech of Abraham Lincoln and take excerpts from it about free government, but let me tell you what Justice Oliver Wendall Holmes said in the case of Schenck vs. United States in 63 Law 50-52:

"We admit that in many places and in ordinary times the defendants, in saying all that was said in the circular, would have been within their constitutional rights. But the character of every act depends upon the circumstances in which it is done. Aikens v. Wisconsin, 195 U. S. 194, 205, 206, 49 L. ed. 154, 159, 160, 25 Sup. Ct. Rep. 3. The most stringent protection of free speech would not protect a man in falsely shouting fire in a theater, and causing a panic. It does not even protect a man from an injunction against uttering words that may have all the effect of force. Gompers v. Buck's Stove & Range Co. 221 U. S. 418, 439, 55 L. ed. 797, 805, 34 L.R.A. (N.S.) 874, 31 Sup. Ct. Rep. 492. The question in every case is whether the words used are used in such circumstances and are of such a nature as to create a clear and present danger that they will bring about the substantive evils that Congress has a right to prevent. It is a question of proximity and degree. When a nation is at war many things that might be said in time of peace are such a hindrance to its effort that their utterance will not be endured so long as men fight, and that no court could regard them as protected by any constitutional right. It seems to be admitted that if an actual obstruction of the recruiting service were proved, liability for words that produced that effect might be enforced."

Of course I believe in freedom of speech and freedom of the press; I do not deny the right of the Communists or any other group to go into a meeting or to issue publications properly worded as to their masthead so that it shows clearly who is issuing it. I do not deny freedom of speech, if they want to preach their doctrine. We have ignored and laughed at it because we didn't think it could get any place in free America, but, my friends, that hasn't anything to do with the school teacher who is hired by this government, who is paid out of the taxpayers' pocket, who goes into our schools and teaches, not the overthrow of the government, no, they don't do it that way; they do it by planting in the child's mind those things that make them dissatisfied, those things that make them feel, that Russia has the only kind of government that is good, the only place where the people are happy, the only place where the employer looks after the good of the common man, and by planting that seed in the minds of children of twelve or thirteen or fifteen they hope to plow the ground and fertilize it so that when the time comes the seed will ripen into the revolution that they want to bring about in this country.

If that is curtailment of the freedom of speech, to say that a teacher cannot teach that sort of thing in America, then I stand indicted as being against that kind of freedom of speech, but I have here the words of Oliver Wendall Holmes, a great liberal on the Supreme Court of the United States, a man whose liberality cannot be gainsaid, a man who was on the liberal side, even in civil life, but these are times and circumstances in which we have a right to our heritage, and we have a right to hand on to our children that heritage that men fought and bled and died to give us, that heritage of freedom. There is no freedom or liberty in Communism or Fascism or Naziism. You are subjected to a minority group. You are dominated until liberty is stifled and driven away from the individual, and the last one that should get up on this floor and say anything against the fight on Communism, Naziism and Fascism is the gentleman from Philadelphia. He ought to be fighting to see that these bills are passed. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Harkins, the chairman of the Education Committee, with his background and his training as a member and officer of the Court ought to have been doing everything he could in the last five months to see that the teachers' Tenure Act is amended. If the bills before you are bills that will permit you to proceed against teachers, then why not amend the Teachers' Tenure Act so that we can keep out these teachings instead of holding it and not letting it see the light of day in this House. Why don't you do it? I'll tell you why you don't do it; I'll tell you the reason. You are trying to defend minority groups, that's the reason; not because you believe that the language of these bills is un-American, not because you believe the language of these bills cannot be enforced. If the language of these bills cannot be enforced, then how can the United States Government at the present time drive out of our defense industries the people that they say and that they know are Communists?

During the time that the Joint State Government Commission was working on the Unemployment Relief Program, we tried to make some surveys in Philadelphia as to Communism in DPA. I went to Washington frequently to talk to the Dies Committee in order that they might give us some help and some information from their files, but they would give us nothing because they said they had men in Pennsylvania working on this subject, and in the last few months in Philadelphia I have seen statements of the Dies Committee that the City of Philadelphia, among the working people, among the school teachers and the DPA employees are infested with Communism. Is that proof enough for the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy?

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. HOLLAND asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, it is not a surprise to sit in this House and hear the Members of the Republican party drift through the halls of this House the red herring of Connism, because they are merely uttering and carrying on a propaganda that has been started by the National Association of Manufacturers. I want to read for you, members of the House, from a magazine that I know no member will call Communistic, because on its first pages it attacks different members of Congress who opposed the help and aid that we are giving to Britain.

This article is as follows:

"The National Association of Manufacturers, not content with acting as a whip for reactionary business men in the area of economics and government, has laid its heavy hand on American education. Several months ago it hired Ralph Robey, who teaches banking at Columbia to conduct a survey of un-American attitudes in school text books in the social science. Now, through the generous front page space accorded by the New York Times and other papers Mr. Robey announces his results. One gathers that they made him despair of his country, because they are derogatory of the American form of government and critical of free business enterprise.

"What are the subversive doctrines? Extracts from the curriculum are given by the New York Times. Here are some of the un-American doctrines that our high school students are learning; that there are a small number of powerful corporations in America; that there are trusts and monopolies; that there are sharp differences in living standards; that vast amounts of money are spent in advertising to break down the consumer's resistance; that the press has enormous power and speaks in general for a minority; that in actual operation the guarantees in our Bills of Rights are often infringed; that politics, especially in Delaware County is not always clean and that, most subversive of all subversive doctrines, the N A M has itself been guilty of subsidizing propaganda against social legislation.

"Yet the fact is that the N A M is placing in the hands of its members and school authorities everywhere a book containing abstracts of supposed dangerous passages from six hundred text books. What can this mean except the victimization of the more liberal, or less reactionary books? What can it mean in actual practice except a glorified burning of the text books in our free schools?

"What will happen if the N A M is allowed to have its way? Pressure will be applied by local reactionaries and intellectual vigilantes upon any school board that dares teach or mention the unfinished business of American democracy. What sort of reign of terror this will mean has already been revealed in the campaign carried on by Merwin K. Hart and others against the books of Harold Rugg. Neither the drive against Rugg nor that of the N A M is an isolated affair. They are parts of a concerted campaign to suppress free thought in the social sciences, and to turn the school system into an arm of the reactionaries in imprinting stereotypes on the minds of our children.

"When the holders of economic power in any society grow panicky because they are bewildered at the forces loose in our world, their first impulse is toward suppression of thought. They hit out against the idea whose truth they cannot face. It is well known that the N A M has in the past sought to introduce its own propaganda in our high schools textbooks. Finding their propaganda attempts not wholly successful, they now turn to censorship, and the yelling and speaking of Communism.

"To be sure, Mr. Robey speaks in lofty terms of the skepticism which is undermining the morals of our youth.

"But that is an old dodge by now. It is not hard to infer that the real intent of the N A M is to use the defense emergency to force an entrance into our educational system that it has thus far not been able to effect. What then can be done? Our first reliance must be on what Mr. Justice Holmes called 'the competition of ideas in the market place.' Whatever may be said about particular textbooks, the school authorities have many varieties to choose from, without the intimidation of the N A M. But Mr. Robey charges that the general level of the text books is amazingly low. That may or may not be true. Who is Mr. Robey to say so? He teaches banking and has been a financial writer for the papers. We have never known him to be considered an authority of any sort on educational methods or an authority on the matters on which he is sitting in judgment."

The public had better be wise, or under the guise of finance the National Association of Manufacturers due to their yelling of Communism in our schools will destroy all the liberal social and labor reforms that have been enacted in the last eight years in America.

CONDOLENCE RESOLUTION

Mr. BAUGHER offered the following resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was twice read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, June 26, 1941.

Whereas, On January 8, 1821, there was born in Edgefield, South Carolina, a boy who was destined to write soldierly and heroic history in two wars—James Longstreet. A graduate of West Point Military Academy, he served with the United States forces in the Mexican War. When the war broke between the States, General Longstreet took up the Southern Cause, and fought gallantly under the Stars and Bars and in the uniform of Southern Gray; and

Whereas, From days at West Point, through the Mexican and the Civil Wars, General Longstreet gave heroic military service to the causes in which he felt he was right. At the close of the war—with Chapultapec and Gettysburg and Appomattox behind him—he turned to the ways of peace, and, in a country united by the blood of the Gray and the Blue, became a still greater man, devoted completely to his beloved United States; and

Whereas, Now on July 2nd, 78 years after his heroic and gallant fight at Gettysburg, a site is to be dedicated along the Emmitsburg Road, where later an equestrian statue will be erected in his honor and his memory by his widow, Mrs. Helen Dortch Longstreet, survivors of his old commands, and the Longstreet Memorial Association; and

Whereas, Present at the dedication ceremonies will be the Hon. H. Breckenridge Long, who will represent President Franklin D. Roosevelt, a representative of the Governor of this Commonwealth, Mary Pickford, the 71st Coast Artillery Unit, consisting of 1,600 men, 75 officers, and 250 vehicles; be it therefore

Resolved, That the House of Representatives pause in its deliberations to pay tribute to this former great citizen of our Commonwealth, and to request all the citizens thereof to observe the week commencing July 2, 1941, as General Longstreet week; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted by the Chief Clerk of the House to his widow, Mrs. Helen Dortch Longstreet, as a testimonial of the House of Representative's great respect for her distinguished husband.

SENATE

MONDAY, June 30, 1941.

The Senate met at 3:30 o'clock, p. m., E. S. T.
The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. BURLEIGH A. PETERS, offered the following prayer:

Our Gracious Heavenly Father, God of all mercies and graces, we recognize Thy perfection in all things and we humbly bow before Thee asking Thy help in these hours of labor for the best interests of our Commonwealth. Problems confront us and trials beset us and we grovel in the mire of our own undertakings and peculiar machinations and very often do not even ask Thee for aid. Pardon us each one for these undue actions and unholy desires when we endeavor amicably to legislate together without the greatest personage in heaven and earth invited to our conference tables.

O God, the world needs Thee so much. Man proposes but God disposes and should we run counter to Thy purpose we always know our efforts will be null and void. Help us each one, then to depend more upon Thee and Thy word than our own.

We beseech Thee, now, to hear our petitions for much needed help and direction in these legislative halls, in our Commonwealth and in our nation that Thy will be done more perfectly among men. For Thy Name's sake. Amen.

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

URGING PASSAGE OF SENATE BILL No. 973

Telegrams received from John W. Rankin, of the Department of Pennsylvania Veterans of Foreign Wars of United States, urging passage of Senate Bill No. 973.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I ask permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Luzerne will proceed.

Mr. President, in the knowledge that the 134th regular session of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania is rapidly drawing to a close, with a meager accomplishment in the field of Veteran's legislation, I rise as a member of this assembly and as Legislative Chairman of that great body of American men of Pennsylvania, who so brilliantly discharged their duties of citizenship 22 years ago, the American Legion. Having a high regard for the responsibilities of the Legislative Chairman of the American Legion of Pennsylvania I wish to make some pertinent observations upon the record of this Assembly.

It is well known that the aims and objectives of the American Legion are absolutely non-partisan, and when any legislation is advanced by the American Legion it is done so, solely in the interest of the disabled or the widowed and orphaned; or to strengthen the bulwarks of the American form of government against those who would use the protection of our Constitution as a shield from which to attack the very government whose protection they enjoy.

During the present assembly it has been my privilege to press for legislation which would further control subversive activities in Pennsylvania, by making belief in the concepts of Americanism, as advanced by the American Legion, the controlling factor in seeking state employment or in any political subdivision thereof; and for all those engaged in the profession of teaching in our public schools; the elimination of foreign controlled, so-called political parties which are essentially military in their organization, from the ballot in Pennsylvania; investigation of text books whose advocated principles, which are controversial, to say the least; and provisions pertaining to the education and maintenance of certain types of war orphans. This legislation as you can appreciate, is absolutely non-partisan and is deserving of the whole-hearted support of all patriotic citizens, who have the interest of America at heart. The American Legion can conceive of no reason why any person selected to the law making branch of any subdivision of the United States, should not immediately support the aims of these bills, which are only designed to strengthen the form of government they have sworn to uphold and defend. I wish in all fairness, to compliment the members of this body for their quick perception of the value of the legislation of which I speak and their ready response to the call of duty in the present emergency, by the immediate passage of all the bills I mentioned. I regret, however, that in the lower body, those charged with the responsibilities of leadership have apparently not seen fit to discharge that responsibility in the interest of the American form of government. This, I realize, seems like a harsh charge to level against any American legislator or group of legislators. The record, however, speaks for itself and all who run may read. Under date of May 13th I wrote the majority leadership of the lower body, recalling a previous conference on the aims of the American Legion's legislative program. I was not granted the courtesy of a reply to that letter. Again on June 5th I wrote the majority leadership concerning this same matter and again setting forth the program which had passed the Senate and which was reposed in the various committees in the House of Representatives, and again I was not tendered the courtesy of a reply. I can forgive and forget the discourtesy but other facts, which have since arisen can not be so easily overlooked.

The bills I have mentioned have lain for months in committee in the lower body of this assembly. Recently there appeared in a great metropolitan newspaper of Pennsylvania, the demands of the city chairman of the Democratic party, a man not a member of this assembly, directing that the lower body bring these bills out of committee so that they can be enacted into law. I concur in the demands of the gentlemen mentioned and compliment him upon his fine sense of responsibility as an American citizen. I regret at the same time, however, that the leadership of the lower house, apparently, is so lacking in the perception of their duties as legislators and citizens that they require the prodding of men not members of this assembly to make them understand their duties. I contend that, the overwhelming majority of the lower body are ready and eager to enact these bills into the laws of our Commonwealth, if but given a chance by the majority leadership of the lower body. To these splendid Americans I say that veteran patriotic, fraternal, labor, and other organizations back home are looking for them to take matters into their own hands and break the power of the little group of willful men, who would put above the call of duty as American citizens, the advantage to be temporarily gained by heeding, at least in their actions, the counsel of groups whose first consideration lie outside the boundaries of the United States.

It is action such as the majority leadership of the lower body, perhaps unintentionally, which lend aid and comfort to the Fifth Columnists, and the saboteurs, who are in our midst. Macaulay the great English historian of the 19th century once remarked that if the American Government was ever to be destroyed it would be destroyed from within. Events of recent years has made his remark prophetic indeed. The action of the leadership of the lower body is exactly in line with that prophecy. It is such leadership, unfortunately too prevalent in America, that has been responsible for the tragic loss of confidence in government and in public men which has been so apparent recently. Their actions put upon the shoulders of those men who love America and all she stands for, additional burdens and this at a time when a place at the wheel can be found for every sturdy American shoulder.

We of the American Legion, having experienced the trials of war, are not panicky in the face of the present danger which is so apparent. We are not affected by the hysteria of fear now so prevalent. We are, however, concerned over the apathy which is everywhere displayed, including the leadership of the lower body. I say we are not afraid—I say, too, it is not part of fear to point out these facts to the members of the 134th Assembly of Pennsylvania. I call attention to the fact that some fourteen or fifteen nations of Europe have already succumbed to the apathy which is so prevalent in this country, today we are currently watching the invasion of another nation which I predict will also shortly fall. All this, in my opinion, merely accentuates the danger to this great nation of ours. This danger is pressing and real. In the face of this danger I call upon the leadership of the House of Representatives to courageously meet their responsibilities as legislators and bring out these bills which are essential to strengthen the bulwarks of America. To these men I say "Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their country."

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I request permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will proceed.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to make a few remarks in the nature of a report.

In the 1938 session of this Legislature there were passed three bills, two of which, in the main, brought about a change in the governmental operation of mental institutions in the State of Pennsylvania. At that time Pennsylvania was one of about five states which did not take absolute and complete control and responsibility for the care of the mentally ill. For twenty-five years the State of New York had been in the forefront in the treatment of its mental patients, and had actually taken complete charge and responsibility for all state mentally ill, prohibiting the operation of individual institutions by counties.

Mr. President, for many years we have had in this Commonwealth socially minded men and women who understood the necessities of the situation and endeavored to bring about a change in this Commonwealth. Periodically there was some maladministration in county institutions, which resulted in an additional spur to their activities, but nothing happened until in the years 1937 and 1938, when an investigation was made by a committee appointed by both Houses, of the conditions existing in the hospitals for the mentally ill throughout the state, particularly in Byberry at Philadelphia, and while I have forgotten some of the incidents in the examination and investigation of these institutions, the horrors at Byberry are still in my memory, and it was because of the exposition of the fact that this particular institution in its management was reminiscent of the dark ages, that most of the citizens of this Commonwealth rose up in arms and compelled in effect the passage of the legislation to which I have referred, namely, an act which made it the business of the state to take over all of the county operated institutions and once and for all time assume full and complete responsibility for the care and maintenance of the mentally ill. In addition, there was a companion bill which took away from the counties the responsibility of paying three dollars per week for each patient of any county that was in a state institution. At the same time it abolished the law which required the Commonwealth to pay to county institutions the two dollars per week which they received for county maintained patients.

That bill became a law in the session of 1938. Some six or eight months before it was necessary for the Commonwealth to complete and carry out the terms of the act, under the first and main act, Byberry was taken over immediately and other institutions were to be investigated for the purpose of allowing the Department of Welfare to determine whether or not it would be advisable to consolidate or combine some of the institutions by transferring patients from one institution to others and abandoning those from which the patients had been taken.

Every institution in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, state and county, was overcrowded. That fact was established by reason of the effort which was made by the committee, of which I had the honor to be chairman, to have some of the Byberry patients transferred to other institutions, and each institution successively, one after another, refused to accept them upon the ground that they were overcrowded at the time and had certainly no room for new patients. No additions or alterations or improvements to those institutions could be made, because the counties did not have any money, and the main reason for immediately taking over Byberry was to enable the Commonwealth to enter into a compact with the authorities which were then actively engaged in building public buildings for an additional structure or structures at Byberry.

In any event, Mr. President, the law was enacted and under its terms required the Governor to make a proclamation, after an investigation by the Secretary of Welfare, as to which institutions he would take over, and as to those institutions which were not taken over, the buildings and equipment could be used, under the law, for any other public purpose, and if after the taking over there was an abandonment of any buildings, under the law it is my recollection, and I think I am correct, that those institutions reverted back to the counties.

In 1939, when we came here under a new administration, the effective date of the two acts was postponed. The acts were not repealed, and by implication I think we can say that the administration agreed with the theory of the law, agreed basically with the proposition that it was the function of the state, and solely that of the state, to care for the mentally ill, that only the state could provide that kind of management and that kind of equipment and buildings that would give to these unfortunate people what they were entitled to, the highest degree of consideration and care.

That postponement, I say, indicates that it was not the intention of the administration to abandon the plan or the program, but the postponement had a very bad effect upon many counties. In many of the counties, where the fiscal year ended with the calendar year, the financial requirements of the institutions were not provided for in their budgets for that year and so when the postponement occurred they were left in the position where they would have to look elsewhere for funds, and in some instances they suffered great embarrassment.

In 1941 we came here having the right to expect that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania would carry out its obligation to these people. For two years none of these institutions had dared to make any improvements, because under the law it is my opinion, and I am told that the administration agrees with me, that title to those buildings is in fact in the Commonwealth, so that it would have been foolish for any county to expend in times like these money for improving those institutions if the buildings were eventually to become the property of the state, actually and physically, and yet it was not fair that these patients should continue to suffer from lack of proper care.

Today, Mr. President, Byberry has over six thousand patients and the overcrowded condition has not been corrected. Every other mental institution in the state is overcrowded, county and state, and yet the Governor asks that we further postpone the effective date of these acts for two additional years.

Now, of course, when we met and the Governor presented his fiscal program, it was quite evident, from the estimates made by those who were estimating for him, there was not sufficient money to meet the requirements of the act, for the government to maintain and take over these institutions. We, however, of the Democratic Party made our estimates independently and came to a different conclusion. I do not propose to discuss at this time who is right or wrong—that matter, I think, has been very ably covered, at least on the other side of the House, if not on this side of the House—but the statement is made that we legislators have no right to change the budget figures, that the Governor can not change the figures, but must accept the figures given to him by his estimators, and the estimators will not change the figures.

We were met with the proposition, when the Committee on Conference appointed on the tax bill met, that to take over the institutions and reduce the four mills personal property tax would make the burden even more insurmountable, and we were faced with this situation that we could play "dog in the manger" and do nothing or we could try to do something constructive.

In the meantime, the effective date of these acts came around and under the law it was the duty of the Governor to make a proclamation but apparently, upon the advice of his law advisors, he sent out notice to every institution advising them that as of that date, May 31st, the state had taken over all of these institutions; in fact, in Allegheny County, he took physical possession of one of the institutions. Each county, therefore, had the right at that time to assume that in making up their budget, after that, they would not be required to include any costs for the maintenance of any of those institutions, and that includes the requirement to pay the three dollars per week per patient, because that act was not postponed either.

After the Conference Committees on the tax program could get nowhere it became necessary for one side or the other to move, and, pocketing my personal pride in legislation and my sincere desire to see accomplished what I thought was a necessary governmental function by the Commonwealth, I made every effort to have a conference with the Governor, and he graciously consented to have that conference. In that conference we discussed the question of the tax and the taking over of these institutions, as well as the cuts in the appropriations by the Democratic side of the Assembly and by the Governor in his approval of the appropriation measures. For several hours we went into details of all of these things that I have discussed here today.

We were told very plainly that there was no money for these institutions; we were told very plainly that if we persisted in our reduction of the four mills tax to three mills that the government could not function, and that institutions other than these mental institutions would have to suffer; we were told, when we expressed to the Governor the proposition or the thought that having taken over these institutions he became liable for them and that if he did not appropriate the money for them, the counties could claim that the state owed that money, we were told that if that would happen they might be paid but they would have to be paid at the expense of some other important function. As I say, however, even now we say to the Governor, "that is your baby; you have taken these institutions over, they are your responsibility, you said so yourself, and now it is your job." In fact, I expressed the opinion then, and still maintain, that legally every county in this Commonwealth can refuse to agree to run these mental institutions for the care of the mentally ill, because it is one thing for a county to voluntarily operate a mental institution, but it is another thing for the Commonwealth to tell the county that it must operate that mental institution, and so there is a legal difficulty which I still feel can not be surmounted, but in any event the Governor's Attorney General advised him that it can be done, and if that is so, and the responsibility is theirs, we have no right to quarrel with or deny their opinion.

And so we were ready and prepared to take the course that we think is the statesmanlike course; the responsibility is the Governor's, he says so himself; he will not move from his position. He says his estimates can not be increased and we had to take the position which I took and which I think was fair to every one of my constituents, to my fellow Democrats and to the situation, saying that we would like to have at least a definite date upon which these institutions would be taken over, or we would like the Governor of this Commonwealth to introduce legislation repealing both those acts and failing to repeal both those acts, we were entitled to demand that a definite date be fixed. After discussion it was agreed that either on December 1st or December 31st the Governor should announce whether or not, in the year that would have transpired his estimates were low and his actual receipts would permit the taking over of these institutions; if they were, he would make a proclamation and take them over; if they were not, they were to be taken over definitely on the first of February, 1943. In consideration of that proposition the three mills tax was to be increased to four mills, the cuts in the departments on both sides were to be restored; either side to be given the right in any dispute to present to the Governor facts and conditions which would warrant their insisting upon an amount in addition to that which was awarded to them.

We parted upon the proposition on which we had agreed, except that towards the close of the discussion, as we were about to leave, the Governor suggested that we ought to pass this little W. P. A. bill. I said our party could not agree to that, and I did not think there was any chance of getting together on that proposition, and we left it at that.

Now, Mr. President, when we came back to make our report to our party, we found a condition in Allegheny County which was a little difficult. Allegheny County, as I have already pointed out to you, had had one of its institutions taken over physically. Allegheny County itself had made its budget and had counted upon the fact that it would be relieved of the three dollar cost per patient. Allegheny County had stepped out of the institution and Allegheny County could not go along on the proposition. That was discussed in our Caucus by those of us who were interested in the matter, and we came to the conclusion that we could not let the fate of one county rule the fate of the state, but Allegheny County requested time to have the matter discussed with their officials, and so we went back to the Governor and we told him of our plight, and said to him that on Monday we would give him a final answer. He suggested that he was leaving Sunday night and asked that we meet him on Sunday evening, which we did.

During the discussion of whether or not the state should take over these institutions, the Governor pointed out that several counties did not want the institutions to be taken over and he made the suggestion, and I agreed, that in most of those instances it was purely for political reasons, that in a particular county the party in charge, perhaps, of an institution would be hurt by the fact that if the Commonwealth took over the institutions some of the men would lose their jobs. My answer to that then and now is this, that, any party in any county whose existence depends upon its control politically of the mental institutions or any other social institutions is better off dead, and I shall maintain that position to the last. There is no excuse politically for the withholding of the guardianship of the state in a matter as socially important as this, and while I am willing to listen to problems of a serious nature which are brought about by legislation, I am unwilling to lend a listening ear to objection against a social program which has its basis in politics. There is a time and place for politics; it does not belong in the care and treatment of the mentally ill.

Mr. President, when we came back to the Governor yesterday and told him that notwithstanding the fact that we were concerned about the plight of Allegheny County, we nevertheless felt this matter had to be ended, we could not just play "dog eat dog" and we were prepared to proceed to carry out our part of the program, distasteful as it was.

The Governor then told us in plain words that the program was now conditioned upon our acceptance of his proposition that we should pass a work relief bill which had already passed the Senate, and we, in plain words, told him that we would not take on the responsibility of saying that the members of the Democratic Party in the House or the Senate would vote for a W. P. A. bill, the so-called Little W. P. A. bill, which he said had passed the Senate.

I should like here to suggest, in passing, that in 1938, when those two gentlemen campaigned for the governorship of this Commonwealth, both candidates knew of the existence of this law, both candidates knew it was the obligation of the incoming Governor to provide funds for the maintenance of these institutions, both candidates knew when they made promises that those promises must be made with an eye to the existing law. Now, it is regrettable that the Governor can not carry out his additional promise to reduce taxes, and it is more than regrettable that the Governor could not assume the responsibility of maintaining these institutions and carry into effect a law which was on the books before he became Governor, a law which was his responsibility as the incoming Governor, and a law which he knew would be his responsibility when he became Governor, and the continual postponement of the effective date of this act is his responsibility, chargeable to him, and not to us. That is the result, in my opinion, of his being unable to carry out the promise which he made to reduce taxes; he not only embarrasses the counties in this respect, but certainly, when he could not reduce taxes, when dealing with relief; he appropriated one hundred and twenty million dollars when two hundred million dollars were necessary, and, of course, it was necessary to have a special session, and when the special session occurred there were no additional taxes, but there was a transferring and robbing of special funds, and the result of that was to place a double burden on these same counties, because he took from them funds which they could expect as their refund from the liquid fuel tax, and thereby crippled the activities of these counties further. When you start out on the left foot, you continue to be out of step all the way, until you are willing to sit up and see where your feet are going and acknowledge your responsibility and your mistakes. Up to this point apparently, this administration has not been willing to do that, and now, when we are prepared to meet a situation, a single situation, and dispose of it so that the members of the Legislature can proceed with other problems which arise, we are met with the proposition that the Governor of this Commonwealth who could have, more than three months ago, if he had taken a hand in the picture, by his authority and the power of his office, persuasive power, I mean, and the respect which we have for his office, brought about an early termination of this session of the Legislature; this Governor who has said he would not do that, because he will not or does not have "must" legislation, now has a piece of "must" legislation, one of the most controversial subjects in the political history of this country, one of the subjects upon which the Republican Party in Pennsylvania, of which he is today the head, was adamant, was continually against that proposition. I recall the gentleman from Tioga, Senator Owlett, who brought opposition to test the constitutionality and the legality of the W. P. A.; I recall the tirade we received from the Republican Party against the W. P. A.; I recall every move and every statement that was made against the extravagant expenditures by the W. P. A., and now, to my utter amazement, I find that when the government of the United States finds it necessary, advisable and expedient to reduce the rolls of W. P. A., the Governor of this Commonwealth suddenly becomes enamored with the system of W. P. A. and says that is "must" legislation.

It seems to me, gentlemen, that we have reached the point where we have either to stay here and twiddle our thumbs or take our own counsel and make our own decisions in the matter. So far as I am concerned, I say, in all humility, I think I have made every concession I possibly can in conformity with my conscience. I have proceeded in this matter upon the basis that it does not make any difference what happens to me personally. It is not a question of any individual member of the Senate; I am sure all of my colleagues who were on the committee, including the members on the Republican side, approached it from the same angle, to reach a fair conclusion. We reached the only conclusion that could have been reached under the circumstances, and I protest and object, and I say it with all the sincerity and all the vehemence in my voice, this was no time for the Governor of this Commonwealth to take that position. W. P. A. is a matter of what you and I think of it. W. P. A. is a matter of what it means to the individuals whom we represent in our respective districts, and W. P. A. is a matter of what the political party having the program feels it should commit itself to. It is a party program, it is a matter which must be determined by all the members of the party, all leaders of the party—and I do not attempt to claim I am a leader; I am a follower of those leaders, and I discussed these things with them. Somebody has to make the decision. I am not going to make it, nor am I warranted in making the decision for the Democratic Party as to whether or not they shall agree that the Republican Party shall now have a W. P. A. in Pennsylvania.

However, I thought it wise to find out what this means, and as I look back on what was said, I do not see any program here that permits what the Governor suggests he wants. The only program that I see is an amendment to the Public Assistance Act which inserts the words "work relief" in the definition of what is assistance. If that is so, it means instead of giving money or clothing, the Department of Public Assistance shall have the right to put people on work relief. That seems to be the idea of the Governor, but it goes a little further than that, if I understood it correctly, and if I follow that program I come to this conclusion: For every dollar taken out of relief for work relief, we lose one dollar from the Federal Government. If the Governor wants to spend five million dollars, transfer that to the counties for work relief, the federal government will take away five million dollars. I thought that was very plainly discussed in connection with the milk act because we have been giving milk as milk and the federal government has refused to contribute its proportionate share to the milk fund. Now, if we insert "work relief," as we have done in that definition, for every dollar spent for work relief, the federal government will reduce its contribution.

How is this going to be worked out? The Governor suggested—and I think the idea is nebulous and purely embryonic—that he would give five million dollars, using arbitrary figures and situations, to a community which is going to spend on a project an amount, including labor, up to twenty million dollars, so that the community will pay fifteen million dollars and the state government will contribute five million dollars. That is done for the purpose of reducing the relief rolls, because in exchange for the five million dollars, the Governor will ask that twenty million dollars worth of labor shall be taken from the relief rolls.

Mr. President, I ask myself this question: first of all, if we do not go through with this proposition, who will be the workers on that program, and if we do and we take them off relief, what will happen to those who would have been the workers? If we do not meet that problem will they go on relief? It strikes me that the idea as I say, is embryonic, and certainly not the kind of an idea which should be made a condition of cleaning up a very important controversy and enacting it into legislation.

In addition to that, Mr. President, how can we ask for work relief now when the Governor has announced, through his Public Assistance Department, that all single able-bodied men will be removed from the relief rolls on the fifteenth of July? Why, Mr. President? Because it is obvious to most of us there is not an able-bodied man in a community that can not or should not be able to get a job, and if that is true, why do we need W. P. A., and if that is true why should not the Governor gradually take these men off the W.P.A. and give them an incentive and a desire to go out and get work, actual work? You and I know from our own personal experience today that there ought to be very little excuse for any great number of able bodied people being out of work. You can not get farm help, you can not get help in the factories. Everybody that you meet, clients that you meet, your friends and neighbors, tell you how difficult it is to get help. The answer further is this: that the relief rolls of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania are down to a point where within the next six or seven months the only persons on relief will be the people who are known as unemployable; they make up the group of those who are called old age pensioners, those on mother's assistance and the blind; and then, in addition to them, there are those who want to work, and can not work because of their physical condition. With a continual record of a drop in the relief rolls, and with the recent announcement in this state that a considerable number of people were taken from the relief lists by virtue of employment elsewhere in industry, how can the proposition of the creation of a W.P.A. be necessary, and if it is necessary, how can it be so imminent that it should upset the adjustment of a program which deals with the fiscal policy of this Commonwealth at a time like this?

I say now, and in conclusion that so far as I am concerned we start from scratch, and it will be my great pleasure, my heartfelt pleasure, to stay here now and insist that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and this administration shall carry out its duty, even if it be necessary to impose additional taxes to do it, and that is to take over these mental institutions, which was the Governor's obligation when he came in—he knew it before he came in and he promised to do it in two years, and those two years are up. Concessions have been made. We were willing to go along, but in the back part of my head I had the thought I was making a mistake and doing an injustice to those unfortunates whom I had the unfortunate opportunity of seeing in their suffering and in their pain, and as far as I am concerned, it will be a greater pleasure to me and I can do it with a fuller heart and a clearer conscience, to say to the Governor of this Commonwealth we have made an effort to adjust this matter and so far as I am concerned, my efforts now will be that you shall carry out your responsibility and take over these institutions, completely or not at all.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I did not intend to make any comment in connection with the discussions which took place in the various conferences which have been held between the representatives of the two parties and the Governor, but since Senator Shapiro has given a fairly accurate account of what took place, in a rather biased and one-sided manner, I feel it is my duty to attempt to give a little bit of the other side, on what possibly may be termed the Governor's side.

The mental institution problem was the big program with which we had to contend. Of course Senator Shapiro wants to hold himself out and up, apparently, as one of the great saviours of mankind, or at least the one person in the conference who was particularly concerned with and thoughtful of the mental patients and persons suffering from mental conditions. If he were endeavoring to give a proper account of what took place, he would also have told us here that the Governor was just as much interested in the state taking care of the mental patients and in the general program and in that ultimate condition as was Senator Shapiro. All those present, I think, Mr. President, were just as much interested in endeavoring to take care of those of mankind who are suffering, to the same extent as Senator Shapiro but always, in an endeavor or an attempt to do that which is right, there are numerous things which must be considered, the most important of which, in our conferences, was the question of from where would come the money. That, I think, Mr. President, is the real reason why an agreement was finally reached, or, in other words, Senator Shapiro and Mr. Achterman finally agreed to go along with the Governor's program in connection with postponement.

Now, Mr. President, in connection with candidates' knowledge of the fact that they would have to take over the mental institutions, whichever one became Governor, that may be true, or again, Mr. President, just partly true, because Governor James certainly did not know when he was a candidate, nor in all probability did his opponent, that there would be left a deficit running into so many millions of dollars by the former Democratic administration, and that deficit, Mr. President, is the principal reason, along with the great relief load, why many things that should be done and sometime must be done have not been done thus far.

When we come to the other part of this question discussed by Senator Shapiro, it strikes me that he does not appear in quite so good a light as he would indicate here. He made quite a good argument against a State W.P.A. here, Mr. President, but he did not make that argument in yesterday's conference, and he did not, Mr. President, make that argument in the conference last week. Mr. Shapiro at that time apparently was not quite so concerned from a humanitarian standpoint as he would have us believe today, because I remember very clearly, Mr. President, when the Governor said to Senator Shapiro, "Harry, what is your objection to this?" Harry said, "I will admit my objection is purely political, Governor; we do not want the Republican party to have a W.P.A. in this state." Now the only reason, Mr. President, I bring that in is to try to keep the record straight. In the first place, my feeling is that these matters should not have been discussed publicly, but if they are to be discussed publicly, Mr. President, then it seems to me they should have been discussed fairly, accurately, and honestly, and not with an attempt on the part of any individual to bring himself out of that conference as the one person who at all times stands for that which is right, while all other people at no time stand for that which is right.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I desire to ask the gentleman from Allegheny who represented western Pennsylvania in these meetings?

Mr. GELTZ. I represented the people of Pennsylvania to the best of my ability, Mr. President.

Mr. BARR. But you also, besides being the majority Floor Leader, represented yourself as a Senator from Allegheny County, in agreeing that the real estate owners of Allegheny County would have to pay this, I think, probably two million dollars, if the Governor would not take over these institutions, according to law?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, if my colleague from Allegheny County means, when he says did I represent myself as a Senator from Allegheny County, whether or not I took into consideration my political future and the possibility of re-election as a Senator, the answer is "no."

Mr. BARR. May I ask the question in this way, Senator Geltz: Did you think of the real estate owners in Allegheny County when you were making these concessions to the Governor?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I endeavored to think of all parties concerned to the best of my ability, and that includes, Senator Barr, the real estate owners, and by that I take it you mean those who are paying taxes on real estate, as well as all of the taxpayers in this great Commonwealth.

Mr. BARR. Senator Geltz, did you know that the County of Allegheny had set its budget for this year and the millage was set and by law they knew that the Governor of Pennsylvania would have to issue a proclamation by May 1, 1941, taking over these institutions.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, that can be answered the same as what they knew in 1939: it did not take place. They knew the state was to take them over in 1939, too, but it did not.

Mr. BARR. As I understand it, Mr. President, Philadelphia had their institution taken over, and I think, Senator Geltz, as a Senator from Allegheny, you certainly should have represented our County of Allegheny and the City of Pittsburgh so that the taxpayers there would get the same benefit as the taxpayers in Philadelphia.

Mr. GELTZ. Is that a question, Mr. President?

Mr. BARR. I guess that was a statement. Well, Mr. President, I do not blame the Governor for asking the counties to put up seventy-five per cent for a W. P. A., if they will let him get away with that. There is a law on the statute books that the Governor, by May 1, 1941, must take over the mental institutions in this state, and here we are at the end of June, and he still is trying to hedge. I do not blame the Governor for asking for anything, if they have a lot of weaklings over there, but the Governor should obey the law the same as anybody else.

I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, does the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz, know what the cost would be to Allegheny County and the City of Pittsburgh, if the Governor does not take over these institutions according to law.

Mr. GELTZ. I did not know, Mr. President, when we were discussing this matter. I do not carry figures in my head too well, but if the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Barr, has them written down, I would not object to him reading them.

Mr. BARR. I do not have them written down, Mr. President, but I can tell the gentleman what the cost would be: it would be $1,200,000 to the city and the county, and if the Governor of the Commonwealth is so interested, as the gentleman said, in the mental patients throughout this state, why then does he not open the Psychiatric Hospital on High Street in the City of Pittsburgh, which has stood there as an open monument, you might say, ever since he became Governor.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I understand one reason that building has not been opened was that it was improperly constructed; they found the ceiling of the boiler room was a foot and a half lower than the state requirements.

Mr. BARR. I would suggest, Mr. President, then, that the Department of Labor and Industry or some proper department should change or fix that boiler room so that the hospital can be opened.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I can well understand Senator Barr's concern about this matter, because I think he is, in addition to being a State Senator, secretary either of the City or County Democratic Committee back in Allegheny County, and I was informed over the week-end—I do not know whether it is accurate—but I was told that the city had already given away what it would save, by having the maintenance of that institution taken over by the state, in increases and raises to various payrollees, so they will be hard put in getting that money back.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny further.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, where did my colleague from Allegheny get such information that the City of Pittsburgh is raising salaries far beyond what it would save the city by the state taking over the institutions. Where did the gentleman get that information.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I got that information from the so-called "courthouse boys" who are a part of Senator Barr's organization.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I would like to know who the person or persons were he talked with.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I will not put that individual or those individuals on the spot and have him or them excommunicated from that splendid organization.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, does the gentleman from Allegheny know that any increases in salary granted by the City of Pittsburgh must be by councilmanic action, and the gentleman knows, I presume, such action had not been taken, and I do not see why he should make the statement it has been done and the raises were far above what we would save if the state took over these mental institutions.

Mr. GELTZ. I did not say "far above," Mr. President; I said it was the same amount, from the information I received.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, for the information of the Senate there have not been any raises granted in the City of Pittsburgh in the last month, and that I can tell you as a fact.

Mr. GELTZ. I know, Mr. President, but they have been expecting this for the last six months, but so they had five months before the last month to give those raises.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to answer one or two things, referred to in the statement made by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz. First of all, he did not quote me accurately.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair dislikes to interrupt the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, but the Chair understands that the gentleman from Lackawanna, Mr. Coleman, wishes to call the order of the day.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I was going to preface my calling the order of the day by saying that I do not want to stifle debate, but I direct the Chair's attention to the official order of the day which is on the Calendar for 4:45 p. m.

The PRESIDENT. The matter under debate will be suspended for the present in order that the Senate may take up the special order of business. The Chair will recognize the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, immediately after disposition of this bill.

SPECIAL ORDER OF BUSINESS AT 4:45 O'CLOCK,

Section 2 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

And said bill having been read at length the third time, On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, Members of the Senate, it is with a sincere conviction that the passage of House Bill No. 1661 will be a big step toward the return of prosperity to the long harassed anthracite region that I appeal to my colleagues in the Senate to support it. Capital represented by the coal operators and labor by the United Mine Workers of America are wholeheartedly asking for the passage of the bill. The anthracite region of Pennsylvania is a strange country to many of the members of the Senate. To know it you must either be born there or live there the greater part of your lifetime. It is made up of the most hospitable people found anywhere in the world—friendly, courageous, liberal-handed to a fault—and the kind of people who having once attached themselves to the coal land cling to it tenaciously even though conditions seem to demand that they leave. With the advent of the depression, with strikes and labor disputes and with competitors in the fuel market, the usually prosperous anthracite action experienced its worst economic crisis. Markets were lost, price wars were on, bankruptcy followed bankruptcy. All kinds of cures were suggested, all kinds of remedies applied but to no avail, and it began to seem that anthracite was through. There was a time when the nursery rhyme, "Ole King Cole was a Merry Ole Soul, and a merry old soule was he" rang true but in the anthracite region of Pennsylvania Ole King Coal is a very sad soul and a very sad soul indeed. Unlike other depressed industries in the country the Federal Government entirely ignored the economic troubles of the anthracite counties of Pennsylvania. While Congress with a liberal hand was subsidizing the farmers of the Middle West, the cotton growers of the South and almost every group hit by the depression, there was no help of any kind for the impoverished anthracite region of Pennsylvania. For some years the industry had been experiencing a diminishing market due to the inroads of competitive fuels. Market demand dropped from a peak of eighty million net tons to a low of forty-three million. Productive capacity remained far in excess of requirements. All of this brought about chaos in the industry and it faced almost complete bankruptcy. In the town in which I live, the Borough of Frackville, since 1936 down to 1939 every colliery that contributed to the prosperity of the surrounding territory closed their doors in bankruptcy. The great Madeira, Hill and Company, whose main offices were in my town, with five subsidiary producing companies, shut down, putting out of work thousands of men. The biggest coal producing company in the lower anthracite region, The Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company, went into a reorganization under the Federal Bankruptcy Act. This company was long thought to be the Gibraltar of coal. Most of the people in the lower anthracite region were unemployed, looking to W.P.A. and the relief rolls for sustenance. Counties, cities, boroughs and townships suffered because of the failure of the companies to meet their tax obligations. School Districts likewise were without funds and school teachers went unpaid. It was during this period that independent mining or bootlegging, which has become such a source of irritation to the Pennsylvania Legislature, came into being. The unemployed men of the region set themselves up as independent coal producers in order to feed their families. Producers were unable to meet tax obligations, social security and unemployment taxes went unpaid and the communities as well as the producers were in a state of insolvency. Many companies were forced to concentrate their operations, throwing thousands of men out of work. Other companies were forced to close entirely, putting additional thousands of men out of work. A few of the bankruptcies of recent years are: Centralia Colliery Company, Fidelity Fuel Company, Indian Head Anthracite, Madeira, Hill and Company, Merriam Coal Mining Company, Excelsior Coal Company, New Mokin Coal Company, Northumberland Mining Company, South Penn Collieries Company, Bear Valley Coal Company. All of these companies were operating in Northumberland, Schuylkill and Columbia Counties. The picture in other counties was no better.

Several attempts were made in the last ten years to stabilize the industry but they all failed. Success was finally attained when Government for the first time recognized the serious condition existing in the anthracite field. The present anthracite emergency program was brought into being in January, 1940, and to the everlasting credit of Governor James and his wise administration, government for the first time gave its blessing to an organization looking toward the stabilization of the industry. The Anthracite Emergency Commission came into being through the joint efforts of the state, labor and the operators. A price war had been on in which coal was being sold beneath the production cost and only those few companies with strong cash reserve could have survived. It is a voluntary program which relates production to market demand and avoids ruinous surpluses. Its success in stabilizing the industry has been phenomenal. Each signatory company is allotted its share of the total production. Not a single bankruptcy has occurred in the industry since the inception of the plan. Those employed are secure in their jobs. Many additional men, principally so-called bootleggers, are being reemployed in legitimate mining under a special provision of the emergency program. After a year and one-half of its existence the operating companies that had been operating in the red are now operating in the black. I can safely say that if it had not been for the creation of the Anthracite Emergency Commission such operations as the East Bear Ridge Colliery Company, Gilberton, Pennsylvania, Colonial Colliery Company, Natalie, Pennsylvania, Hammond Colliery Company, Girardville, Pennsylvania and many, many others would not be successfully operating today. There is nothing compulsory about the commission. It is entirely voluntary. The operating company may come in or stay out. The operating company that goes in may leave at its discretion. The bill before you now seeks only to continue this plan on a voluntary basis and to give the blessing of the Legislature to a program sponsored by labor, capital and the state and which has been functioning successfully for one year and a half. The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania feels that it had a perfect right under the law to cooperate with the Anthracite Emergency Commission. There is nothing in this act aimed at any particular group of operators or aimed at any particular group of people. There is nothing in the bill aimed at the independent miner or bootlegger. No sensible man will contend that bootlegging is a healthy situation in the anthracite region. I am the last man in the world to argue for the perpetuation of a system that sends men out into the mountains, taking their very lives in their hands without the protection of any compensation benefits and social security to eke out a bare living for themselves and their families and at the same time make fortunes for a few individuals taking advantage of the independent mining situation. The loss of life and the toll of injury among the bootleg miners in the lower anthracite field is appalling. Fortunes have been made at the expense of that loss of life and toll of injury by that type of individual who makes a business of fattening his pocketbook even with the blood of the poor. I have said that this is a voluntary agreement and that if the law is passed the entry into or the departure from the plan is entirely voluntary so that there is nothing in this act to possibly imperil the position of those who champion the cause of the independent miners. However, it is my considered opinion that the continued operation of this plan under the blessing of the Legislature by the adoption of this act will see the return of prosperity to the anthracite regions of Pennsylvania and in that return of prosperity to the anthracite region I see too the ultimate elimination of independent or bootleg mining. The stabilization of the industry, under this plan, if it continues to improve as indicated by its year and a half of operation, will see the reopening of colliery after colliery, of mine after mine and the reemployment by the coal producing companies of the unemployed miners now engaged as bootleggers. I have fought all attempts to destroy bootlegging under the economic conditions that existed in my district during the past few years. I intend to continue to befriend and attempt to justify the independent miner but that defense and justification ends when the producers of coal in the anthracite fields offer legitimate employment to the men who are now endangering their lives in the man-traps known as bootleg holes. As a lawyer it is impossible for me to justify logically the theory of self-help that lies behind the problem of the independent miner. But I have lived among these people—they are my people—and there are times when logic fails just as it does when it comes into collision with faith. The economic turmoil that created the unhealthy situation existing in the lower anthracite fields of Pennsylvania destroyed many things that law and logic so far have failed to rebuild. It is my fervent belief the Anthracite Emergency Plan has within its folds the remedy that may cure the economic situation that brought independent mining into being. The independent miners themselves will welcome the opportunity to resume legitimate employment with the security and protection that goes with the employment. The only ones who will regret it will be the vultures who have taken advantage of the economic situation in the anthracite fields to be in at the economic death of an industry and make fortunes out of the labor and danger of the daily toil of the so-called bootlegger.

I appeal to my colleagues in the Senate to support this measure, which I honestly and sincerely believe will begin a new era in the anthracite counties of Pennsylvania.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I do not like to detract from credit where credit is due, but I also do not believe that anybody in an executive position should receive credit which is not his due.

The Senator from Schuylkill, unfortunately, in discussing this bill, said that it was by act and action of the Governor that this situation was brought about in 1937. In the 1937 session a bill paralleling this bill came before the Senate of Pennsylvania and we had a very distinct and lively discussion on the merits of the bill at that time. The bill was drawn, unfortunately, we felt, in favor of certain corporations up there and we objected to it, and after the defeat of that bill there was a certain amount of chaos ensued in the anthracite industry. The independents and the old line companies began a price war and it became a question of the survival of the fittest and the entire industry was seriously injured because of that situation. But I wish to correct the Senator from Schuylkill, it was not the Governor of Pennsylvania who stepped into the breach and insisted that this be brought about. It was the United Mine Workers of America, through their leadership, who called in the operators in October of 1937, and told them they must put their house in order, and as a result of that definite order from the organized mine workers, a voluntary allocation plan was brought about, and because of that voluntary allocation plan, the industry has thrived, the operators have made money, and the men have been able to receive more employment and the wage rate has been able to go up, and because this voluntary allocation plan was a success and the industry has thrived and the men profited by it, this bill was brought before the General Assembly and put on the Calendar, so that the thing might have a certain degree of permanency, and so that the Department of Commerce of the State of Pennsylvania would participate.

Mr. President, the industry needs this bill very badly and the industry deserves this bill, because it has shown that under those regulations it has been able to thrive, and certainly the mine workers of Pennsylvania deserve some consideration at the hands of the members of the Senate and the members of the General Assembly. I am asking my colleagues to vote for this bill.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to continue with my previous statement, interrupted by the Special Order of Business.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will proceed.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I want to correct the statement of the gentleman from Allegheny. I was not properly quoted. I did not tell the Governor in the words suggested by the gentleman from Allegheny about the W. P. A., but what happened was, as we were all walking, the Governor raised this question of a W. P. A., and was so amazed that a Republican Governor of this Commonwealth wanted to establish a W. P. A., with a smile on his face I said to him, "Governor, you do not think, after the Democratic Party has established itself in the nation through the W. P. A., that they are going to allow the Republican Party to establish itself in the nation or the State through a W. P. A." Of course, I have no doubt that the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz, either did not know the rest of it or has forgotten it. However, I have said very frankly and I told the Governor, that that picture presented a political situation, just as well as it did a practical one. I could not answer, as I have said, as to what the Democratic Party program would be on a proposition of that. That is a political proposition and has nothing to do with the one we agreed on.

I want to make this suggestion also, that I do not agree with the Governor can not take these hospitals over without additional taxes, and I do not agree he will not have the money. I might cite to you a very interesting detail of the conferences and I cite it because I do not believe they were private; I believe every member of the House and Senate has the right to know what occurred, and so every citizen of the Commonwealth.

During the course of the conference it became quite evident that even if the plan proposed was agreed upon and carried out it would require at least five and one-half millions of dollars additional, and in spite of all the statements we have heard here that the income would not be less than what the Governor set in his budget, and that they were bound by the estimates of his estimators, the next morning the estimators came in and said they could increase their estimates by five and one-half millions of dollars. Why, where, how? Well, three and a half millions of dollars from the net corporate income tax, which the amateur estimators, estimated at sixty-six million dollars, and the Governor's professional estimators at twenty-one and one-half million dollars, which has now become sixty-five million dollars, so that in the course of these discussions in three meetings, we have increased the estimate of receipts from the net corporate income tax by three and a half million dollars, and if the Governor would hold two or three more meetings we probably would have gotten another three and a half millions.

Now, Mr. President, I want to make it clear also that I have no intention of saying that I was the only one who anticipated who had any human instincts. I made a personal reference, which I hope my colleagues will pardon, because I had been so closely in touch with this mental institution for about two years, and, in passing, I think I can compliment my colleagues by saying also that even members on the Republican side were very much interested and helpful in the situation.

I want to clear up also the Allegheny situation. We felt it would not be fair, and I think it was Mr. Achterman who suggested that the impression should not be created that Philadelphia and Allegheny were coming out of those conferences with an advantage over other communities. We suggested there ought to be a reduction in the one dollar per week contribution the counties make to the State, and after some further discussion there was agreed upon a half a dollar reduction, which would result in the saving of considerable money to many of the counties in dollars and cents; I think it would amount to somewhere in the neighborhood of two and one-half millions of dollars.

The Allegheny County part of the picture was this, and I think the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz, did very well when he worked out that solution for his county, and that was this, that the Governor was only willing and had considered only taking over the one institution, and as a result of that the Governor agreed to take over the two institutions, both institutions.

While I do not want to detract from my colleague from Allegheny Mr. Barr's interest in the matter, probably due to the fact that I had not explained it, Allegheny County was taken care of to the extent that both institutions were to be taken over. Where the trouble arose in his county was, the county having made up in its budget and having some three thousand patients in its institutions, would be obliged to continue to pay three dollars per week and that means $9,000 a week or $450,000 per year. The city, having made up its budget, would suffer some loss. It also has around three thousand or thirty-two hundred patients, and would also suffer a loss of $450,000, but it had already included that in its budget, so when the picture was changed so that the rate would be $2.50, the city would save approximately $225,000 in this year's budget. The county, however, instead of paying three times three thousand dollars per week, would pay two and one-half times three thousand, or $7,500 a week instead of nine thousand; therefore the county would have saved $1,500 per week, which multiplied by fifty, amount to $75,000 but it still would have been out in its budget the $2.50 per week for its three thousand patients, which is a considerable sum of money.

Now, Mr. President, we felt that even at that, Allegheny County had a right to protest, and when Allegheny County asked for a few days to talk the matter over with their commissioners, the Governor and I both agreed they should have that right and they were given that right to talk it over, and when they came back with the answer they could not agree to it, all of us felt, as I said before, the Commonwealth was more than one or any county. I agreed one hundred per cent with the position taken by Allegheny County, that they had the right to do as they did; they had the right to complain; they felt that they had on two or three separate occasions been misled by the conduct of this administration in connection with mental institutions. I felt that attitude—would not get us anywhere, as we would have to come to some sensible—agreement.

I do not think it is fair to say that I did not present the argument today that I presented to the Governor, because what happened yesterday was that I refused to discuss the value or the merits or demerits of the W. P. A. with the Governor yesterday, because the Governor insisted upon tying it up with the settlement we had already made, and not only I but my colleague, Mr. Achterman, agreed this was one thing which had nothing to do with the other, because if we had fifteen or twenty points of a program to discuss, and if we kept them all open, by the time we got the fifteenth settled, the first ten would be already unsettled, and my suggestion to the Governor was to put through the legislation necessary to carry out the agreements we had already reached, and proceed to hold additional conferences on the W. P. A. and legislation on other controversial subjects, and that in my opinion was the logical and sensible way to do it, but the Governor, having full responsibility, had seen fit to do otherwise and it is his responsibility and his baby.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHAPIRO. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I desire to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia what is the present status of the mental institutions in the County of Allegheny?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, at present the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania owns and controls one of the institutions and Allegheny County owns the other.

Mr. WALKER. I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia?

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. SHAPIRO. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. WALKER. I desire to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia if there was not an agreement made at this conference whereby those two institutions would be taken over and the county and city would pay so much per head for the operation of the hospitals.

Mr. SHAPIRO. That is correct, Mr. President.

Mr. WALKER. I desire to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia if there was some agreement as to Byberry, which is located in Philadelphia County.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the agreement was made state-wide. Every county instead of paying $3.00 per week, would pay $2.50 per week. I would like to call attention to the fact that Philadelphia has been charged, ever since the date it was taken over, with $3.00 per week, and will pay it, will have to pay $3.00 per week, which amounts in Philadelphia to three times six thousand—I think it is $940,000 a year—and Philadelphia is obligated to pay the state $1,380,000 for the last two years, and the state, as I understand it, will deduct it from the money that is due to Philadelphia, so that Philadelphia has not been in any better position than Allegheny County.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, do I understand that the same arrangement that was made for the two institutions in Allegheny County was made for Byberry yesterday?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the arrangement made did not concern Byberry. The arrangement made concerned Allegheny County, in a special arrangement, and all of the other counties in a separate arrangement. The special arrangement for Allegheny County was that those two institutions would be taken over physically and bodily by the state and managed by them; the other county institutions would not be taken over and all counties would pay $2.50 per week to the state instead of $3.00, for local county patients in state hospitals.

Mr. WALKER. May I further interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia?

The PRESIDENT. If there is no objection the gentleman from Allegheny may proceed.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I desire to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia if the arrangements made for Byberry and the arrangements made for Allegheny County were the same, that is, $2.50 per head.

Mr. SHAPIRO. That is correct, Mr. President.

Mr. WALKER. And I understand, that arrangement is still in existence or that it has collapsed.

Mr. SHAPIRO. That arrangement has collapsed, Mr. President.

Mr. WALKER. Then, Mr. President, am I to understand that there was no arrangement made by this conference group with regard to the mental institutions Allegheny County.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, that arrangement made required enactment of legislation to put it in effect; the legislation has not been offered; the conference was adjourned, the meeting is over and we start from scratch.

Mr. WALKER. Do I understand, Mr. President, that there is no arrangement made? If you will forgive me, may I suggest to the gentleman from Philadelphia that he have lost the answer in the gentleman's urgent desire to bring in a little politics and I am very much interested in my county institutions—but I understand it that this arrangement has collapsed and there is no arrangement covering the mental institutions in Allegheny County.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, there is a situation which covers Allegheny County more particularly and more beneficially, I should say, than for other counties. The Governor has taken physical possession and is paying the expenses of one institution. In the other county the law says the Commonwealth now is responsible for the costs. If we do nothing about it, that will be the situation.

Mr. WALKER. I understand the state also took physical possession of Byberry?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Two years ago, Mr. President.

Mr. WALKER. Therefore, we are just two years behind Philadelphia.

Mr. SHAPIRO. If the gentleman from Allegheny wants to know, Mr. President, I think Allegheny is about twenty years behind Philadelphia.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, may I suggest the reason for that is that about one hundred and fifty years ago a bunch of smart boys in Philadelphia were running the Commonwealth, and before long they discovered that the only distilleries in Pennsylvania were out in western Pennsylvania, so they proceeded to tax all whisky distillers in Allegheny, because they did not have any in Philadelphia, and as a result they have been trying to hang taxes on us ever since, and we have been resenting it right along, but gradually we will catch up to Philadelphia.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, the only observation my fellows can make, coming from counties outside of Philadelphia and Allegheny, is that it is the conception of certain people coming from Allegheny and Philadelphia Counties that the State of Pennsylvania is composed of Philadelphia, on the one hand and Allegheny on the other, and nothing in the middle. I want to say in kindness to the gentleman that there was no confidence betrayed by the gentleman from Philadelphia because I read in the paper, what the Governor had to say about the situation. The paper said the Governor had decided since he could not direct the lower house of the General Assembly and have them do what he wanted them to do on W.P.A., he was going to a tea party in Boston.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I do not desire to retract.

anything I have said in connection with this arrangement not taking over these institutions we have.

Replying to one of the questions of my interrogation concerning activities in the matter of the burden of the mental hospitals, the gentleman from Allegheny cast aspersions upon my employment as secretary of the Allegheny County Democratic Committee. His purpose, of course, was to becloud the issue and to draw from that position the inference that I was worried about my political job. It is no secret, that I am secretary of the Democratic Committee of Allegheny County, because the voters in my district knew it before I was elected and they also knew I would represent the home owners and the local taxpayers against keeping the load of proper government expenses from the shoulders of big industry and manufacturers and allowing it to rest improperly upon the shoulders of the local home owners. Now, Mr. President, if the gentleman from Allegheny opens to represent the manufacturers association and is interested in its welfare, he certainly can not object to my working in my present position, and I repeat that I was not hired or appointed after I was elected to the Senate.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. CHAPMAN, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 851, (House Bill 1442), entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Commerce out of the Motor License Fund for the proper conduct of a specific portion of its work.

He also, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 1212, (House Bill 1760), entitled:

An Act creating a commission to make a study and investigation of the various problems related to the surface subsidence frequently caused by the mining of anthracite and directing such commission to make a report and recommendations to the General Assembly conferring certain powers upon such commission including the power to issue subpoenas administer oaths and affirmations retain employes and expend funds and making an appropriation.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I desire permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Cambria will proceed.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I have no intention of delaying this proceeding, but I have listened patiently to the remarks made by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Metz, and the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, in trying to satisfy myself just why we are in this deadlock, whether it is because of the state institutions or rather, as stated on the floor, because of the Little W. P. A., and so I would like very briefly to give my opinion of W. P. A.

Last Saturday afternoon I had come to my office 103 persons, in three groups, protesting the fact that they had received their 403's, which means they were dismissed. I say that none of them were under the age of forty—from forty-five to sixty.

Now, Mr. President, if this W. P. A. bill means, or if the Governor means to say he has the intention of putting the men back to work, I say that bill should be passed;

I do not care whether it is political or not. I am sick and tired of having men stand up on this floor and playing politics all day long. I am a Democrat, but that makes no difference. I have been around this floor since 1934, and I have never been called into conference, either when the Democrats were in power or while the Republicans were in power. I care not for the conference. I speak for myself and think for myself, and if that W. P. A. bill has any merit and if it should be the intention of the Democratic Party to defeat that bill, purely for political reasons, I think something should be done about it. These men are old, they have no place to go, and as I said a moment ago, I had 103 persons living adjacent to my community that have been dismissed since last Thursday.

Now, Mr. President, what are they going to do? There is no place for them in private industry, they are too old, they can not go back to the mines, they cannot go into the mills, they can only hope they can earn a livelihood working for the W. P. A., and if the Federal Administration has made up their minds to cut down W. P. A. to the small figure that the papers state they will, then I do believe sincerely that this administration is doing the right thing by adopting a program to take care of our people who can not get back into private industry, and I think our Democratic leaders should have another conference with the Governor and go into the details of this bill. If it has any merit, they should pass it, because I think it is very, very important.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair rises to a point of order. What is before the Senate?

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I desire to know what are the prospects as to adjournment, if the gentleman from Philadelphia knows.

Mr. SHAPIRO. I do not know, Mr. President.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I also desire to know who is responsible for the delay as to adjournment, if the Senator from Philadelphia knows.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will have to address his inquiry to the particular Senator.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I am addressing it to our so-called Floor Leader.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

MOTION TO DISCHARGE COMMITTEE ON JUDICIARY GENERAL

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, last week I wa exceedingly pleased to hear two gentlemen from Alle gheny, Mr. Geltz and Mr. Walker, placed before this bod the reasons why the work in the Allegheny County cour is congested. One of the reasons they gave us was th fact that many of their judges engage in just a littl too much political activity.

Now, Mr. President, I want to call to the attention those gentlemen and the other gentlemen of the Senat that early in this session I introduced a bill purposed to eliminate a condition of that kind. I introduced bill which made it unlawful for a judge to engage i political activities other than in political activities aime at his candidacy for judge of any court of record in th Commonwealth.

Mr. President, in view of the remarks of the tw gentlemen from Allegheny, I am more convinced no than ever that that bill is a very necessary bill, and I have been told from the floor of this Senate that ther is little hope that bill will be reported out by that com mittee, of which I am a member, I wish to make th following motion.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. At this time, Mr. President, I desire that the Committee on Judiciary General be discharged from further consideration of Senate Bill No. 1053, Printer's No. 20.

Mr. HALUSKA. I second the motion, Mr. President. In the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I would like to call attention of the Senate to the fact that Senate Bill No. 1053 was recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary General on February 24, according to the History on my part. I think that is the bill the gentleman from Fayette County refers to.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, that bill is still in committee.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. JAPAN. Mr. President, I feel I should be recorded as voting "no"; Senator Stiefel and I have made peace.

The PRESIDENT. The vote of the gentleman from Philadelphia will be so recorded.

Mr. DENT. To be consistent, Mr. President, I would like to be recorded as voting "aye" I have always voted in favor of discharging committees. I will vote against the bill if it comes up, but I will vote to give the Senators anance to vote on the bill.

The PRESIDENT. The vote of the gentleman from Vermont will be so recorded.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Cavalcante and the yeas as follows, viz:

YEAS—5

Cavalcante,	Haluska,	McQuiddy,	Reed,

(Eastern Standard Time), and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene on Monday, July 7, 1941, at 8:00 o'clock P. M. (Eastern Standard Time).

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

CONDOLENCES ON THE DEATH OF IGNACE PADEREWSKI, FIRST PREMIER OF THE REPUBLIC OF POLAND

Messrs. HALUSKA and DENT offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered, and agreed to:

In the Senate, June 30, 1941.

Ignace Paderewski died last night in New York after a lifetime devoted to the expression of the highest ideals towards which any human being can aim.

His fame as a musician was world renowned, and, to those of us who have been fortunate enough to attend his concerts, he will always remain as a symbol of all that is great in the art of the interpretation of music through the medium of the piano.

Just as he was preeminent in the field of musical achievements, so was he outstanding in playing a leading role in the reestablishment of the Polish Republic. He spent his entire income in the amount of $3,000,000 in support of Polish independence and was honored by the Polish Republic for his great patriotic efforts by becoming its first Premier. He was probably the world's first famous musician in history to abandon his art at the height of his success in order to devote himself to liberating and unifying his country, and then, his program balked by politics, returned to still greater international acclaim on the concert stage.

He confided to a friend that the greatest joy he ever experienced in life came when Poland was recreated as an independent nation.

At the time of his death, Paderewski was engaged in fostering and encouraging the sale of defense bonds, so that all our efforts to preserve democracy should succeed therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate notes with sorrow of the passing of this great musician and even greater patriot and desires this opportunity to pay its great respect to one of the world's immortals.

CALENDAR

HOUSE BILLS OVER IN ORDER

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, because of the length of time that has been taken up in discussion of various other matters, I now move that we pass all House Bills over in order on both the third reading Calendar and the second reading Calendar. I will make individual motions as we come to the bills.

Mr. SHAPIRO. I second the motion, Mr. President. The motion was agreed to.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 588, report of committee of conference entitled:

An Act to protect the debtors, obligors or guarantors of debts for which judgments are entered or may be entered, and owners of real property affected thereby and other indirectly liable for the payment thereof by prescribing the method of fixing the fair market value of such property, and limiting the amount collectible thereafter on such judgments.

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I understand this bill must be reprinted, which is the reason for the request that it go over in order.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, may I ask the reason for the reprint.

The PRESIDENT. For the information of the Senators the Chair understands the name of one of the members of the Conference Committee was mis-spelled, the name of the gentleman from Schuylkill, Mr. Watkins.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, in this regard may I also state that we are governed by Senate rules, and one of our Senate rules says, in substance, that if a matter involved is not covered by the Senate rules Jefferson's Manual shall govern.

Now, Mr. President, here we have a conference report on this report here on our desks. There is no way in God's world of knowing in just what particulars the Conference Committee has adjusted the differences that were committed to it for adjustment, unless two Senators get together and one of them reads the original bill and the other one reads the Conference Committee report.

Mr. President, I called this matter to the attention of this Senate and to the attention of the President, some time last week, I think. Jefferson's Manual says that the committee shall report the particular differences they have adjusted and in what manner they adjusted them, so that the members of this body may know just what change has been made by the Conference Committee.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, if the gentleman from Fayette would like an explanation of the changes made by the Conference Committee, I will be very happy to explain them to him.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. It is not that, Mr. President, it is that the gentleman could not give that to me on the floor of the Senate. If we are to be governed by the rules, the changes ought to be in the committee report so that we do not have to interrogate Senators here on the floor of the Senate, and so that we would have those changes before us, and then, during the time that we are in recess at home we can study those changes and decide whether we want to vote for the report or not.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will ask his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, is there objection to the request that Senate Bill No. 588 go over in order, because of the necessity of reprinting.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. I have no objection, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 938, (House Bill No. 49), on final passage, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation for the maintenance and improvement of the Port of Philadelphia.

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 1108, (House Bill No. 820), on final passage, entitled:

An Act to amend section one of the act approved the twenty-ninth day of May one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine (P. L. 184) entitled "An act to provide revenue by imposing a mercantile license tax on vendors of dealers in goods wares and merchandise and providing for the collection of said tax" as amended exempting from the mercantile license tax so much of the business of manufacturers and mechanics as comprises the vending of goods of their manufacture from their factories and workshops.

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 1134, (House Bill No. 220), on final passage, entitled:

An Act to amend section four of the act approved the twenty-second day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one (P. L. 720) entitled "An act provided for taking over by the Commonwealth under certain terms conditions and limitations of certain streets in cities of the second class second class A and third class as State highways and for the improvement construction reconstruction surfacing and maintenance by the Commonwealth of certain defined widths of said streets imposing duties on cities and on public utility companies using such streets providing that no assessment shall be made upon the Commonwealth in the elimination of any grade cross-section thereon authorizing cities persons associations or corporations to enter into agreements with the Commonwealth to bear a portion of the cost of construction or maintenance providing for the assessment of certain portions of the cost of street improvements on abutting property owners regulating the replacement of certain facilities of public utility companies prohibiting the opening of said streets after improvement without a permit and providing penalty therefor regulating the maintenance of detours authorizing the increase of city indebtedness in certain cases and appropriating money in the Motor License Fund for the purpose of this act" authorizing the Department of Highways to take over structures bridges and viaducts on State highways in cities of the second class A and third class.

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 1142, (House Bill No. 723), on final passage, entitled:

An Act to further amend section fourteen of the act, approved the eighteenth day of July, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (P. L. 1043), entitled "An act establishing a public school employees' retirement system, and creating a retirement board for the administration thereof; establishing certain funds from contributions by the Commonwealth and contributing employees, defining the uses and purposes thereof and the manner of payment therefrom, and providing for the guaranty by the Commonwealth of certain of said funds: imposing powers and duties upon boards having the employment of public school employees; exempting annuities, allowances, returns, benefits, and rights from taxation and judicial process; and providing penalties," extending the retirement provisions relating to former teachers to additional cases who separated from school service because of physical or mental disability prior to the first day of July, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

An Act to repeal the act approved the twenty-eighth day of March one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (P. L. 9) entitled "An act relative to the employment of females in hotels taverns saloons and eating houses or other places for the sale of intoxicating and other drinks and the penalty for the violation thereof."

go over in its order,

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I desire to ask the gentleman from Allegheny whether he expects to take up House bills later today.

Mr. GELTZ. Not today, Mr. President, but we will take them up tomorrow.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, is consideration being given to the fact that some of these bills have been amended?

Mr. GELTZ. That is correct, Mr. President; I think there will be sufficient time to pass them here and have them in conference committee also.

Mr. DENT. That is the only thing I am interested in, Mr. President, and of course, if the gentlemen have made up their minds to stay here all summer, they will find I am a pretty good sitter.

Mr. GELTZ. We just about have, Mr. President, I am sorry to say.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I request that Senate Bill No. 591, on third reading entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Lower Allen Fire Company for the protection of State property at the Pennsylvania Industrial School at White Hill be recommitted to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I object.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 591 be recommitted to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. JAMES. I second the motion, Mr. President.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 656, as follows:

A Supplement to the act approved the first day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three (P. L. 1172) entitled "An act establishing certain streets in boroughs and incorporated towns as State highways and providing for their construction and maintenance at the expense of the Commonwealth" establishing an additional route in the borough of Sellersville Bucks County

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 In addition to the borough streets adopted as State highways in the borough of Sellersville Bucks County by the act to which this is a supplement the following section of borough street in said borough is hereby adopted to be taken over and to be maintained and constructed at the expense of the Commonwealth upon the terms and conditions and subject to the limitations and conditions provided in the act to which this is a supplement

Beginning on Route 09106 at the intersection of Lawn Avenue and Noble Street in the borough of Sellersville thence continuing on Lawn Avenue to a point on Route 09104 at the intersection of Lawn Avenue and Maple Avenue in the borough of Sellersville Bucks County a distance of about .75 miles

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I understand this bill creates a new route in the Borough of Sellersville, Bucks County; is that right, Mr. President.

Mr. JAMES. No, that is not correct. It is in order to straighten out the existing route, shorten the old route, leading up to what is now a very important hospital, the Sellersville Hospital, and that is the only avenue leading to the hospital, which is one of the largest and busiest hospitals in that county. It does not enlarge the responsibility of the state to any great extent, but it ought to be a state road.

Mr. DENT. I understand, Mr. President, it proposes to take another piece of road into the state system.

Mr. JAMES. That is right, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I desire to call the attention of the Senate to the fact that the City of Jeanette still does not have any streets belonging to the state system of highways, because the Highway Department takes the position that they do not want any additional streets taken over or routes taken over by the state, and yet it is the only city in the Commonwealth that does not have one single state highway within its confines.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—44

Barr,	DiSilvestro,	Kephart,	Stevenson,
Bartlett,	Ealy,	Lanius,	Stiefer,

L. 806) entitled "An act limiting the number of licenses for the retail sale of liquor malt or brewed beverages or malt and brewed beverages to be issued by the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board defining hotels and prescribing the accommodations required of hotels in certain municipalities" by exempting certain clubs from such limitation and by providing that retail dispenser's licenses may be exchanged or surrendered for liquor licenses without violating the limits upon the number of licenses imposed by such act; and authorizing the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board to effect such exchange or substitution upon compliance with certain conditions.

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, there appears to have been a slip-up in connection with this bill. On the last day of the session last week I made a motion that this bill be returned to the second reading Calendar, in order to put it in position to have it amended. I now find it on the third reading Calendar. If you refer to the minutes of the session, I think you will find it belongs on the second reading Calendar.

Mr. COLEMAN. I think perhaps I can straighten the matter out. I think an amendment made to the bill carries out the desire of the gentleman from Westmoreland, and if he examines the bill I think he will find the amendment he desires to have inserted in the bill has been inserted.

Mr. DENT. Very well, Mr. President.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 787, (House Bill No. 1095), on third reading, entitled:

An Act to further amend section six of the act approved the fifth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven (P. L. 198) entitled "An act to establish a county court for the county of Allegheny and prescribing its powers and duties regulating the procedure therein and providing for the expenses thereof" by conferring upon said county court jurisdiction in certain civil actions transferred to it by the Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny County.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 783, entitled:

An Act to further amend the act approved the twenty-eighth day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five (P. L. 463) entitled as amended "An act providing for the incorporation as bodies corporate and politic of 'Authorities' for municipalities counties and townships defining the same prescribing the rights powers and duties of such Authorities authorizing such Authorities to acquire construct improve maintain and operate projects and to borrow money and issue bonds therefor providing for the payment of such bonds and prescribing the rights of the holders thereof conferring the right of eminent domain on such Authorities authorizing such Authorities to enter into contracts with and to accept grants from the Federal Government or any agency thereof and for other purposes" by changing the method by which notice of the formation of a municipal authority shall be made public further regulating incorporation purposes and existence of the authority defining procedure whereby an authority can enter into contracts and dispose of its bonds imposing additional qualifications and duties on members of the authority imposing civil liability on members of the board and officers of an authority in certain cases requiring annual audits imposing additional duties on the court of common pleas giving authorities right of eminent domain in certain cases extending with certain limitations the power of Authorities to make certain purchases requiring authorities in certain cases to secure certificates of public convenience from the Public Utility Commission imposing duties upon said commission and providing for appeals requiring the filing of financial reports by authorities with and the approval of bond issues by the Department of Internal Affairs and conferring powers and imposing duties upon said department restricting the appointment of members of authorities and limiting their salaries and providing for the voluntary dissolution of authorities.

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to amend Sec. 1, page 5, line 14, by striking out the darkfaced brackets before the numeral "(1)" at the beginning of the line, and before the word "shall"; amend Sec. 1, page 5, by inserting between lines 13 and 14 the following: "(1) The term "service area" shall mean the municipality or municipalities within the corporate limits of which equipment and facilities are operated or intended to be operated for the accommodation, convenience and service of the public"; amend Sec. 2, page 15, line 10, by striking out after the word "any" the word "project" and inserting in lieu thereof: "Utility"; amend Sec. 2, page 17, line 22, by striking out the lightfaced brackets before and after the word "forty" at the end of the line; amend Sec. 2, page 17, line 23, by striking out the word "thirty" at the beginning of the line; amend sec. 3, page 23, line 22, by inserting after the word "rendered" the following: "or intended to be rendered"; amend Sec. 3, page 23, line 26, by inserting after the word "to" the following: "one"; amend Sec. 3, page 24, line 2, by striking out the following: "any one" and inserting in lieu thereof: "such"; amend Sec. 3, page 24, line 16, by striking out after the word "municipalities" the following: "hereafter."

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I think if the gentleman who offered the amendments will examine them, he will find they do not make sense. I think the amendment inserted there is already included in the bill by striking out the bold face brackets, and he is inserting it again and that puts it in the bill twice.

AMENDMENTS WITHDRAWN

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I withdraw the amendments temporarily.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 1282, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the California State Teachers College for the purchase of lands needed for the better operation of such college.

And said bill having been read at length the third time.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, this appropriation is made directly to the California State Teachers College. I am wondering whether that is not an error; the money should be given to purchase the property through the Department of Property and Supplies and the bill does not so provide.

I have no objection but I call that to the attention of the sponsor in view of the fact that it may have to be amended.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, this bill grows out of an emergency due to a couple of cloudbursts they had out there, as I understand. I am glad the gentleman from Philadelphia called my attention to that.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 1282, on third reading go over in its order in order that I may check that phase of it.

BILLS RECOMMENDED

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 1292, on third reading, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Citizens Fire Company No. 1 of Lemoyne Pennsylvania for the protection of State property at the Pennsylvania Industrial School at White Hill be recommitted to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I second the motion. The motion was agreed to.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 1293, on third reading, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Camp Hill Fire Company No. 1 of Camp Hill Pennsylvania for the protection of State property at the Pennsylvania Industrial School at White Hill.

be recommitted to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 1294, on third reading, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Citizens Fire Company No. 1 of New Cumberland, Pennsylvania, for the protection of State property at the Pennsylvania Industrial School at White Hill be recommitted to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 1295, on third reading, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Elkwood Fire Company No. 2 of New Cumberland Pennsylvania for the protection of State property at the Pennsylvania Industrial School at White Hill.

be recommitted to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I just want to say to the members of the Senate in connection with these four bills which have just been recommitted to the Committee on Appropriations, that I do not suspect for a moment they are going back there to die. The appropriation asked for in each of these bills is simply the sum of two hundred dollars, for the biennium.

Mr. President, if you will also refer to your books, you will find that the state has an investment of something around four millions of dollars, spent by the General State Authority, at White Hill, Pennsylvania, and in that there is absolutely no fire fighting protection at all. The total appropriation in five of the bills—one was sent back to committee a little while ago—totals one thousand dollars, or one-fortieth of one per cent of the investment at White Hill. Think too of this institution, which now holds some 170 or 180 boys, who are not responsible, who have proven to the world they are not responsible, and who have matches and cigarettes and other means of starting fires.

Now, Mr. President, I ask you is it good business to kill these bills that ask for one-fortieth of one per cent for protection for two years, which would be one-eightieth of one per cent per year for fire protection for the investment the state has already put there.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Cumberland, Mr. Wade.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Cumberland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WADE. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, how far away from this institution are these fire departments.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, the five fire departments mentioned in the five separate bills form almost a complete circle of the White Hill Institution and none of them are over one and a half miles from the institution.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, is there anything to prevent this institution from having a fire company of its own to fight a fire before these companies could get there.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, there is nothing to prevent them from having a fire company of their own, but the fact is they do not have and that is the reason I say we should have at least these small appropriations passed so there will be, some protection.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, may I ask the gentleman from Cumberland, whether these buildings are fireproof.

Mr. WADE. Yes, Mr. President, they are modern buildings, and I would say they are to some extent fireproof, certainly, but not entirely so.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, is that from an insurance man's point of view, as to their being fireproof.

Mr. WADE. No, Mr. President; if I may borrow the words of the Senator from Luzerne, Mr. Miller, that is from a layman's standpoint.

be recommitted to the Committee on County Government.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentlemen from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, what is the purpose of sending this bill back to the Committee on County Government.

Mr. GELTZ. This bill, Mr. President, as I understand it, is to go back to the Committee on County Government for the purpose of making a further study and investigation in connection with these fair boards and so forth that are to be set up.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I hate to see this bill go back to committee at this late date, because it is very important to our county, at least to our commissioners, and many of our citizens want to hear about it. They had a very large meeting in the county, which I was requested to attend, and which I attended and members of the House attended. The whole purpose behind the bill is to enable the county commissioners there to spend some money in the creation of a fair. Westmoreland is the fifth largest county in the State of Pennsylvania and we have not been able to get together on a fair and exposition park, and we would like to have this bill go through to enable the county commissioners to appropriate certain monies, to be later paid back. Mr. President, I do not like to see this bill go back to committee, because I am afraid, from past experience, it will go back and stay there.

The PRESIDENT. There is objection to the request.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill

No. 863, (House Bill No. 1172), be recommitted to the Committee on County Government.

Mr. JAMES. I second the motion, Mr. President.

On the question,
Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I oppose this motion to send this bill back to committee, because the purpose stated is not the purpose for sending it back; it is being sent back to be killed. I want the opportunity to have the bill acted on on final passage, and I now ask for a roll call and ask by colleagues to vote "no" on the motion.

And the question recurring,
Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. DENT and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—27
Bartlett,	Edmonds,	Mallery,	Tyler,
Becker,	Farrell,	Miller,	Wade,
Carr,	Geltz,	Snowden,	Walker,

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 890, (House Bill No. 139), on second reading, entitled:

And said bill having been read at length the second time.

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, from my study of this bill, I think perhaps it creates an additional expense to counties of the third class.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT BILL

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. BROWN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, last week I refrained from making any statement concerning the bills that were before the Assembly because of our limited time. I would like, however, to make the statement that I intended speaking at that time.

During the past few months, laws have been introduced; statements and speeches made, designed to protect our Democratic form of Government. A wave of hysteria has swept over us and we seem to feel that unless these laws are passed, our future is doomed. Little, if any, attention has been given to the structure of our government and whether we ourselves possess those essential qualities that give permanence and stability to our form of government. I would like therefore to challenge our faith and our ideals and in order to bring vividly before you this challenge, briefly to give a feeble explanation of the structure of the government.

The corner stone of a new governmental structure was set in place by the Declaration of Independence, the Bill of Rights constituting the foundation and the Constitution the frame work of this building: "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, that among these rights are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness." In these words from the Declaration of Independence we find our security of the past, our present refuge and our future safety. Any attempt to define those immortal words would be indeed futile, yet every man, woman or child can understand what they mean. We know that truth is the ultimate hope of all human endeavor, whether in the realm of metaphysics with Socrates, Aristotle and Plato; or with the great men of science who searched for truth in the laws of nature or those who searched in the past to solve the mysteries of the heavens, or those who presently persist in the search for truth, and by so doing give to the world the new discoveries for man's comfort and security. The artist, the great masters of music are searching for the same goal. What a remarkable discovery therefore comes to us in the form of truths that are self-evident; That all men are created equal; not Jews, Gentiles, Catholics, Protestants, Blacks or Whites—but all men everywhere; that they are endowed by their creator, not by some sovereign power or dictator, but by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; rights that even the state cannot take away. The state may, through a tyrant restrict the free exercise of these rights, but cannot take them away.

What then are some of the liberties possessed by men that must be forever protected by the state and how and by what methods are they protected?

Freedom of religion, freedom of press, freedom of speech, the right of the people peaceably to assemble and to petition the government for a redress of grievances. Trial by jury, the right to be secure against unlawful searches and seizures and the forbidding of the taking of life, liberty, or property without due process of law would be meaningless words in a world of hysteria and fear were it not for the fact that our organic law by limitations and prohibitions restrains the National Congress, the Legislatures of the various states, the courts and the state constitutions from trespassing upon the supreme law of the land.

Act VI—This Constitution and the Laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof—shall be the supreme law of the land.

Noteworthy also is the language of Mr. Justice Brewer in Miller vs. Oregon 208 U S 412—"It is the peculiar value of a written constitution that it places an unchanging form of limitations upon legislative action and thus gives a permanence and stability to popular government which otherwise would be lacking."

As members of one of three co-ordinate branches of government entrusted with the sacred duty of protecting the liberties with which man is endowed by his Creator, we should at all times be solicitous about our actions. We should not allow ourselves to become over-zealous and we should at all times be cognizant and mindful of the limitations placed upon us. Our laws should not be vague, uncertain and inexpedient. "Miserable is the servitude when the laws are uncertain," said John Dickinson, philosopher and statesman. Rousseau in discourse on political economy gives us the warning signal: "The more laws are multiplied the more they are despised, and all the new officials appointed to supervise them are only so many more people to break them; and either to share the plunder with their predecessors or to plunder apart on their own."

Mr. Justice Matthews in Hurtado V. U. S. says, "It is not every act, legislative in form, that is law. Law is something more than mere will exerted as an act of power. It must not be a special rule for a particular person or a particular case—arbitrary power, enforcing its edicts to the injury of the persons and property of its objects is not law, whether manifested as the decree of a personal monarch or of an impersonal multitude."

During the past few weeks, we have listened to many speeches and have voted upon laws dealing with subversive activities (a term not yet clearly defined). Because of the character and the results to be obtained it is doubtful if we can point to a limitation or prohibition whereby the courts would declare some of these laws unconstitutional. However, many of these laws offend the spirit of the constitution and are unwise, obnoxious and vicious. It is the crowning glory of our entire structure of government that the courts cannot always strike down such laws. See Sharpless vs. Mayor of Philadelphia, 21 Pa. 147—"If a law as passed is within the scope of the General Assembly's constitutional powers, the court cannot call it void simply because it is impolitic, inexpedient or contrary to natural justice." The people can resort to a power reserved by them under our democratic form of government to correct such evils. It was for this reason that Justice Mitchell in Commonwealth vs. Moir 199 Pa.

534, quoting from Cooley on Constitutional Limitations, Ch. 7, Sec. 4, said "The protection against unwise and oppressive legislation, within constitutional bounds is by appeal to the justice and patriotism of the representatives of the people. If this fail the people in their sovereign capacity can correct the evil, but courts cannot assume their right."

It follows that in the proper exercise of our duties, we should not only carefully guard against the passage of laws that are palpably unconstitutional and therefore subject to judicial review, but we should likewise hold ourselves in check against laws that are within constitutional bounds but which offend the spirit of our supreme law. Our motives should always be imbued with tolerance. Reasonable regulations are necessary in a complex society, but such regulations acting as unwarranted restraints and motivated by fears, fanned by the winds of hate and prejudice should never be tolerated in a free assembly. Under no circumstances should fanciful thinking be enthroned in the place of reason, nor should passion rule in our desire to pass laws we think are necessary for the public weal. I give you in this connection the language of Chief Justice Hughes stated in the famous case of DeJonge v. Oregon 299 U. S. 334, 1937—"The greater the importance of safeguarding the community from incitements to the overthrow of our institutions by force and violence, the more imperative is the need to preserve inviolate the constitutional rights of free speech, free press and free assembly in order to maintain the opportunity for free political discussion, to the end that government may be responsive to the will of the people and that changes, is desired, may be obtained by peaceful means. Therein lies the security of the Republic, the very foundation of constitutional government."

Mr. Speaker and Members of the House, before we act further, should we not re-dedicate our own lives to the principles of the equality of man and the right of man to the reasonable free exercise of his God-given liberties. Are we willing to give to the other fellow the right we want for ourselves, though we may violently disagree, or as so ably stated by Mr. Justice Holmes in 279 U. S. 644-654—"If there is any principle of the Constitution that more imperatively calls for attachment than any other, it is the principle of free thought, not free thought for those who agree with us, but freedom of thought for those we hate."

In conclusion, I offer no remedies for our confused world or our torn social order or the state of mind that permeates the Members of the House of Representatives, I do, however, challenge you in this brief presentation to live up to both the letter and spirit of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States and of the state of Pennsylvania, and without hate or rancour and by example and precept, as lawmakers strive to be worthy of our liberties, keeping always in mind the immortal preamble to our constitution, the beacon light to guide us in the critical days that are ahead: "We, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to our selves and our posterity do ordain and establish this constitution for the United States of America."

The Father of our Country, in addressing the members of the Constitutional Convention as their presiding officer, said these words, "Let us raise a standard to which the wise and honest may repair." Can we be numbered among the wise and honest?

SENATE MESSAGE

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, June 30, 1941.

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur), That when the Senate adjourns this week, it reconvene on Monday, July 7, 1941, at 3:30 o'clock p. m. (Eastern Standard Time), and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene on Monday, July 7, 1941, at 8:00 o'clock p. m. (Eastern Standard Time).

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

It was unanimously concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. WEISS asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Municipal Corporations to meet during the session of the House, for the purpose of considering Senate Bills Nos. 254, 259 and 377.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. ACHTERMAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I request a few minutes of the House's time to report to its members the results of our conferences with the Governor last week and last night.

Before our last meeting with him, which was last evening, Senator Shapiro and I, as well as our Republican colleagues, the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside, and Senator Geltz, were convinced that agreement on various points of difference was within sight.

Suddenly, without warning, the Governor threw the whole matter into great confusion by the introduction of an entirely new factor—the "Little WPA" program. This had never been discussed as one of the points of compromise in our meetings with him and his insistence upon adoption of this highly controversial matter at this late date seems completely unwarranted:

It looks very much as though the Governor did not want to reach an agreement. It seems as though he wants to make it impossible for this side of the House to reach any compromise and if he has not broken faith with us, he has come so close to it that the difference is microscopic.

I said last week that I trembled for the future of Pennsylvania during the coming years. After this latest exhibition of sophomoric tactics I must again confess my deep concern for the administration of this Commonwealth.

It is particularly hard to understand in view of the courteous and pleasant treatment we received in our earlier interviews and an apparent willingness on his part to concede certain matters to us if we were willing to compromise our program to a certain extent.

Maybe it's the heat. Or maybe the Governor is mentally exhausted by the work of the past six months. But whatever the cause, the situation, which was so hopeful a few days ago has again been tied up in knots due entirely to the Governor's injection of new demands.

I had hoped to make a more cheerful announcement to the House this evening. But I must state the facts as they are, unhappy as they may be. We do not know at this point when we shall be able to end this session. And unless the Governor recedes from his present absurd and unwarranted position, I fear very much that we shall be here a considerable length of time after my birthday.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. WOODSIDE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, after the conferences which were held in the Governor's office and the Executive Mansion I think is not the act of a statesman, nor a leader, nor even a first grade politician to make the statements on the floor of the Senate and of the House that were made in connection with the conferences, and I as one of the conferees will not enter into that type of discussion.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1216, as follows:

An Act to amend sections two and six of the act approved the twenty-seventh day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine (P. L. 1184) entitled "An act requiring all employable persons receiving public assistance with certain exceptions to perform certain work or be refused further assistance conferring powers and imposing duties on county boards of assistance and on certain State and local officers and employees and on charitable institutions persons copartnerships associations corporations and State and Federal employment officers and requiring payments to the Commonwealth on account of certain work performed" by further defining the work to be done and rate of pay to be received by employables

Section 1 Sections two and six of the act approved the twenty-seventh day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine (P. L. 1184) entitled "An act requiring employable persons receiving public assistance with certain exceptions to perform certain work or be refused further assistance conferring powers and imposing duties on county boards of assistance and on certain State and local officers and employees and on charitable institutions persons copartnerships associations corporations and State and Federal employment officers and requiring payments to the Commonwealth on account of certain work performed" are hereby amended to read as follows

Section 2 All employable persons receiving assistance except those receiving assistance as dependent children or their mothers or as aged persons or blind persons shall be required to perform such suitable work as may be assigned to them by the county board of assistance Any person refusing to perform any such suitable work without reason deemed sufficient by the county board shall be refused further assistance until he or she shall comply with the provisions of this act

Suitable work shall be deemed to be only work or occupation which said person is accustomed to perform or work of a similar nature and character

Section 6 During any week any such employable shall work in return for assistance received he shall be required to work only such number of hours as he would work if paid a compensation by the employer equal to such assistance at the prevailing rate of pay in the locality where the work is being done Such work shall be performed during the week for which the assistance is being or is to be received The [county board] State board of assistance shall in all cases be the judge of the prevailing rate of pay in the locality for the particular type of work

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I do not rise at this time to oppose the amendments to this bill, but I do want to say that this particular type of legislation has no place on the statute books of the state of Pennsylvania. If this kind of laws were enacted over in Russia I would say all right, but this type of legislation in my mind has no place on the statute books anywhere in a democracy.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken.

Messrs. Melchiorre, McClanaghan and Monks asked for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

Agreeably to order,

An Act providing that proceedings acts and bonds issued by Authorities incorporated under the Municipality Authorities Act as amended and supplemented shall not be invalid by reason of certain circumstances

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 No proceedings heretofore taken and no acts heretofore done by Authorities incorporated under the Municipality Authorities Act approved June 28, 1935 (P. L. 463) as amended and supplemented and no bonds heretofore issued by such Authorities shall be invalid by reason of the fact that any member of the Board or any officer of said Authority was at the time of such proceedings the taking of such action or the issuance of such bonds a member or officer of the governing body of the incorporating municipality or municipalities or an officer thereof provided that such proceedings acts or bonds are otherwise valid. The provisions of this act shall not validate any proceedings acts or bonds issued by any Authority the validity of such proceedings acts or bonds issued which is now the subject of any action in any court of this Commonwealth.

Section 2 This act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. RUSH. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to House Bill 1727, Printer's No. 957, and I would like to know whether it would be proper to discuss in connection with House Bill No. 1727 House Bill No. 1728 at the same time, because they are companion bills.

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection the gentleman will be privileged to discuss both bills at this time. The Chair hears none.

Mr. RUSH. Mr. Speaker, House Bill No. 1727, Printer's No. 957, is an act that is drawn up for the purpose of holding that bonds that have been sold by municipal authorities shall not be invalidated by any proceeding heretofore taken. The act provides as follows:

"The provisions of this act shall not validate any proceedings, acts or bonds issued by any authority, the validity of such proceedings, acts, or bonds issued which is now the subject of any action in any court of this Commonwealth."

Mr. Speaker, in order properly to discuss these bills I should like to go back into a little history of the Municipal Authorities Act. That has a great bearing upon these bills and I think it is because of certain acts that have taken place that these bills have been introduced.

The 1935 Municipal Authorities Act allowed the creating of municipal authorities in the state of Pennsylvania for various purposes which are enumerated in the act, among which was the building of roads, bridges, and tunnels and so on and so forth.

The act was further amended in 1939 to include the construction of water works or water systems. In 1939 the act was so amended that it would allow these authorities secretly to purchase water companies, and because of that amendments to that act we have today in the state of Pennsylvania many water companies that have been purchased, where stocks and bonds have been issued and the purchase price for those water companies or water systems was much greater than the cost for which those same water companies or water systems could be reproduced today. As a result, we have in the courts of Pennsylvania at the present time and in my own county of Delaware cases pending where they are trying to declare these bonds and stocks invalid, and they are trying to recover money that has been expended over and above what the cost of that water company should be.

Mr. Speaker, I have a report that has been compiled by the Public Utility Commission, showing that there are today in the state of Pennsylvania some forty municipalities which have created municipal authorities, a great number of which have purchased water companies, and in almost every instance the price paid for those water companies has been greatly in excess of what those same companies could be reproduced for today. Therefore the moneys of those communities have been misspent. As I said before, Mr. Speaker, there have been proceedings instituted in two counties in Pennsylvania where they are going to try to invalidate those stocks and bonds and the citizens are going to try to recover the money that has been spent for the stocks and bonds. I know there is going to be an argument presented here saying that the cost of the litigation will be terrible unless such an act is passed as we have before us. I say to you that the cost to the citizens of Pennsylvania, instead of being greater if this bill is passed, the citizens of those communities where the purchase price has been greater than the water companies can be reproduced for today will pay a much greater price than would be paid if this act were not passed.

House Bill No. 1728 is a companion bill, which will allow the creating of authorities of the municipal governments, such as members of city council, borough council, or township council, to be members of the authority, and I believe that is the case in some thirty-eight municipal authorities in the state of Pennsylvania today, most of which have been created since the passage of that amendment in 1939. We have just recently, in the courts of Beaver County, had a decision handed down where the members of the council of Beaver Falls were ousted as members of the authority, and that case has been appealed to the Supreme Court. We have in Delaware County at the present time a case pending where the Mayor has been ousted and no doubt the other members of council will be ousted from their positions.

House Bill 1728 provides

"Any member of the governing body or any officer of any municipality or municipalities empowered to create Authorities under the Municipal Authorities Act may be a member of the board or governing body or an officer of any authority heretofore or hereafter so created, the said offices shall not be deemed to be incompatible."

Mr. Speaker, in the decision handed down by Judge Brown of Beaver County he states that in every case where the members of the creating authority have legislated creating positions and then appointed themselves to those positions, and they can under the Municipal Authorities Act pay themselves salaries, that the offices are incompatible, and in every instance, not only in this state but in every other state of the United States, that decision has been sustained that members of the creating body cannot legislate creating positions appointing themselves to positions and paying themselves salaries, thereby circumventing the Constitution which does prohibit an elected officer from having his salary increased during his term of office. If House Bill 1728 is passed I am afraid that the actions in the lower courts when appeals are heard in the Supreme Court, will have a direct bearing upon the decision of the Supreme Court because the Supreme Court will then say that this Legislature says it is alright for the members of creating bodies to be members of the authority. In the case in Beaver Falls an appeal has been taken to the Supreme Court and an appeal has been taken in Delaware County to the Supreme Court. If this General Assembly passes House Bill 1728, Printer's No. 958, we are saying to the Supreme Court that we think it is alright for a municipal government to legislate creating a job and then appoint themselves to that job and if need be pay themselves an additional salary. In the case in Delaware County the Chester Municipal Authority was created by the Mayor and members of council and they appointed themselves as the municipal authority and paid themselves a salary of twelve hundred dollars a year. I have no objection to the members of these municipal authorities receiving a salary because some of them have a big job and I think the work they do entitles them to some salary. However, I do not think it is right for the mayor and the members of council to create an authority and name themselves as members of that authority and then proceed, as they do now and have done before under the Municipal Authorities Act of Pennsylvania to expend the taxpayer's money and do that job secretly.

Mr. Speaker, it has been alleged in Delaware County and admitted by the defendants that there were two hundred and fifty thousand dollars profit made on the taxpayers' money in the purchase of the water company in Chester, eighty-five thousand dollars of which was admitted by John J. McClure to have been received by him. His business partner, William Purdy, admitted that he had received eighty-five thousand dollars. A former member of this House of Representatives, Mr. Thomas Curran, has admitted that he received twenty thousand dollars. A deputy Attorney General, Mr. John Diggins, admitted that he received twenty thousand dollars. Mr. John Connelly in Philadelphia said he received a sum of money so that two hundred and fifty thousand dollars of the taxpayers' money that was spent there represented a profit. There is an additional three hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars that has not been accounted for, and the case is now before the courts in Delaware County. If we pass these House Bills 1727 and 1728 then we are saying that the actions of these men have been alright or we approve of the actions there, and say "just go ahead."

Mr. Speaker, I admit there are other municipal authorities in Pennsylvania that have not been accused of any wrong doing. I also happen to know that there has been pressure brought to bear on many of the Members of the House of Representatives here from boroughs, townships and the officials back home, asking them to vote for these bills, but I submit to you, that we have never allowed in the history of this commonwealth a body to legislate creating positions and then appointing themselves to those positions, and especially allowing them to pay themselves an additional salary. I think these two bills are vicious and I say they should be defeated.

Mr. Speaker, I am asking the Members of the House to vote "no" on House Bills 1727 and 1728. Let us say to the people of Pennsylvania that we do not approve of the acts that have taken place all over the state of Pennsylvania and I am asking again the Members to vote "no" on these two bills.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I just wish to make clear a few points in connection with these bills. These two bills are purely procedural bills, merely changes in the law. They are merely statements as to the one bill that the office of a member of a municipal authority and the office of a councilman are not incompatible.

That, Mr. Speaker, is a subject to which this legislature is properly qualified to act upon.

House Bill 1727 is a bill which merely states that no acts or proceedings of any of these municipal authorities shall be invalidated because of the fact that the members of that municipal authority also were members of the Council in the same municipality.

I am afraid, Mr. Speaker, that because there may have been some misdeeds committed in a few municipalities, that all municipal authorities in the state of Pennsylvania may suffer unless these bills are passed.

I am not afraid, Mr. Speaker, that these bills will justify any wrong doing of any description. These bills are not bills that will operate in the past; they are bills which will operate from the time they are passed, and the only one which would not operate in retrospect is the bill that would validate the proceedings of the municipal authorities, but only validate them, Mr. Speaker, or rather only prevent them from being invalid because some of the members of the authority were members of the Council.

Let me make clear that these bills will not validate any wrongful act, conspiracy or act of fraud. These bills of course will not prevent any fraud in the future if the people are dishonest, but it is not the purpose of these bills, Mr. Speaker, to do that. These bills are merely changes in the substantive law as I have set forth before. If there have been any criminal acts done in the past those criminal acts can still be punished and these bills will not interfere with the punishment of those persons who have committed wrongful or criminal acts. I ask that these bills be supported.

Mr. LONGO. Mr. Speaker, I rise to ask the members of the House to support House Bills 1727 and 1728. As a representative, privileged to represent the City of Bethlehem in Northampton County, I am familiar with the authorities and especially the Water Authority of that city.

We have a project in the city of Bethlehem involving millions of dollars. The mayor of the city and the councilmanic body act as directors of its water authority. They have appointed themselves as directors, without compensation.

The project, being a vast one, is practically completed and in a few weeks the residents of the city of Bethlehem hope to enjoy the benefits and advantages of having spring water, coming a distance of 35 miles, into the home and table of every resident therein.

If Mr. Rush's argument is to be accepted as the proper interpretation of the bills now before the House, the damage resulting therefrom would cause irreparable damage and place the financial structure of the authority in jeopardy and chaos. Bonds have been issued by this authority, which bonds have been purchased by many financial institutions and individuals.

The lower court in the counties of Delaware-Beaver have concluded that where the members of council with its mayor have appointed themselves as directors, their holding of such office would be incompatible. Should the Supreme Court affirm this decision, what effect would this have on the bonds issued by these directors, who in most cases have performed their duties as public officers should, with trust and fidelity?

Certainly the men who have performed their duty according to law, as they in good faith believed it to be, should not be penalized for the criminal acts and criminal conspiracies of men who actually conspired to cheat and defraud the taxpayers' of their respective districts. If the men in Delaware County have done a wrong they should be prosecuted in the criminal courts. Only there can they receive their just due.

I sympathize with the gentleman of Delaware County. It is a sad state of affairs, yet the men of that councilmanic body were elected by the people of that district, they have their way of doing business, whether honest or dishonest, yet that condition may be corrected by the citizens of that political subdivision at the next election.

In conclusion, I again ask the members of this House to support the two bills now before us. Protect the people and institutions who acted honestly and in good faith when they purchased the bonds issued by a group of public officials who have discharged their duties with respect and honor to themselves and the district which they represent. There are more than 40 authorities in the state of Pennsylvania, yet only two of them were infested with fraud. Let the criminal courts decide the fate and future of those men.

Confusion will be prevented by the passage of House Bills 1727 and 1728.

Mr. RUSH. Mr. Speaker, I know something of the situation of that authority in Bethlehem and I want to say that that has been one authority in the state of Pennsylvania where there has been no question as to their actions. However, we have a number of other authorities in the state of Pennsylvania that perhaps may not be as honest as the one in Bethlehem. I have here in my hand a newspaper dated March 2nd, where the deal was denied in the Scranton water plant, and I might say for your information and for the information of the Members of the House that the very same people who are involved in the deal in Delaware County, the Federal Water Service Company and the C. W. McNear Company of Chicago, were involved in the deal in Scranton, where there was a profit of $84,500 made by one man, a profit of $85,000 made by another man and a profit of $20,000 made by two other men. I do not know whether these figures have any significance or not but it is the same amount of profit that was made in the deal in Delaware County.

I also have here a copy of another newspaper where the authority in Montgomery County had a similar deal set up, and because of the expose in Delaware County the deal was called off. There are four similar instances where the money of the taxpayers' in these various municipalities would have been misspent and they would have paid for them for the rest of their lives in increased water rates. Mr. Speaker, there must be a reason because there are certain individuals who are interested in having these acts passed at the present time. I might say for their information that I have been approached in connection with these bills and in connection with House Bill 1322, which was introduced to correct some of the situation and an amendment to the Municipal Authorities Act, and I was told if these bills went through it would have an effect on the building of the Delaware River tunnel in my own county of Delaware. I happen to know that the individuals who are members of that authority and the person who is counsel for that authority are very much interested in having these bills enacted. Now, why? Certainly we have enough people in the state of Pennsylvania who can be appointed to operate these authorities without having members of the municipal government as members of those authorities. It was said to me in some of the conferences in connection with the amendments to this act that there was no one in the boroughs or in the townships who were capable of operating these authorities except those persons who were elected as township or borough or city commissioners. I want to say, Mr. Speaker, that in Chester we have many hundreds of people who are just as capable of operating these authorities and also operate them just as efficiently as the members of council, and they will be operated in such a way that the citizens of those cities can find out something about what is going on, which cannot be found out at the present time. As I said before, I can see no good reason why there should be so much interest displayed in passing legislation that will keep the members of these authorities on the authorities, when they are also members of the township, borough, or city governments. There must be a reason for it. As I said before, Mr. Speaker, I have a report from the Public Utility Commission which shows that in almost every instance where there were water companies purchased that the price paid had been anywhere from one hundred thousand to one million dollars more than what those same companies or water services could be reproduced to pay. If that is not a waste of the taxpayers' money, if those taxpayers in those communities will not have to pay that for the rest of their lives, then I miss my guess. Let us not say to the half million citizens of Pennsylvania that will be affected by this legislation today that the action is alright, go ahead and pay this money when you so desire, it is perfectly alright because this legislature said so. Mr. Speaker, I ask the Members of this House again to vote these two bills down.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. MORAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have this bill explained please.

The SPEAKER. The sponsors are Senators. Whom does the gentleman wish to interrogate?

Mr. MORAN. Mr. Speaker, I do not want to interrogate anybody. I want somebody to explain the bill. There ought to be somebody in the House who is able to explain this bill.

The SPEAKER. If the gentleman has any particular member in mind he desires to interrogate, the Chair will request such member to explain the bill.

Mr. MORAN. Mr. Speaker, it is customary when a bill comes from the Senate to the House that somebody in the House is able to explain the bill; that somebody is delegated to explain the bill. I do not know that we ever brought a Senator over here to explain their own bill, so some Member of the House ought to be able to do so.

The SPEAKER. The Senators are not entitled to the privilege of the floor.

Mr. MORAN. Then, Mr. Speaker, someone in the House ought to be able to explain it.

The SPEAKER. Is there any Member of the House who wishes to explain this bill? The Chair hears no response.

Mr. MORAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask again if any Member of the House can explain this bill?

The SPEAKER. The answer apparently is "no."

Mr. MORAN. For the information of the House, if I may be permitted, I would like to say that this bill is a convoy bill, to allow convoys to take automobiles over the highways, that is, convoys which carry about four automobiles on the highways. Just so we know what we are voting on. If this bill passes they will not be permitted on the highways.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. O'BRIEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his point of order.

Mr. O'BRIEN. Mr. Speaker, is there anything in order other than the calling of the roll?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is in order in asking for information.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. MORAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his question of information.

Mr. MORAN. Mr. Speaker, if this bill is passed will it then permit the convoys to continue on the highways or will it not?

The SPEAKER. It will permit them.

Mr. MORAN. That is all I wanted to know, Mr. Speaker.

REASONS FOR VOTE

Mr. BENTLEY filed the following reasons for his vote: House Bill No. 1804 (Senate Bill No. 1023) The national emergency and defense program, requiring the utmost use of all of our transportation facilities, as presently constituted, justifies in my opinion the further extension for a two year period of the "convoy" system.

This question is and has been in existence for a number of years. In this respect it differs from the "big truck" bill, which would have permitted the future construction and use of larger vehicles. To this latter I was and am opposed.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Cambria will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, during the early days of this session, I introduced a number of proposed pieces of legislation, which might be termed as Social Reforms. My bills have been in committee since the first month of this session. Up to the present time, I had some faint hope that they might be released so that due consideration might be given them on the floor of this Senate.

Now, that this session is about to adjourn, I am firmly convinced that my proposals will never see daylight during the remaining days and that they are definitely doomed for what is known as the pickling barrel.

It seems that many members of this legislature have now turned their eyes towards Europe and towards Europe's troubles. Why? Because they are afraid to look to our own.

I proposed to this Legislature Senate Bill No. 12, known to this body as the 60 at 60 Old Age Assistance Plan. I wonder how many of my colleagues have really read this bill in detail. If I were to interrogate any of them, I am fearful that few, if any, would have any knowledge of my proposal.

Mr. President, America is now in an era of prosperity. War abroad has compelled industry to recall hundreds of thousands of men. But with all this prosperity, I dare say that no one in this body can point out to me, the recalling of men above the age of 60. Old age has always been a burden, but only recently has it become a crime. We have thousands upon thousands of our senior citizens, who never again will have the opportunity to earn a livelihood and who much depend upon the government for assistance. Yes, old people in thousands of frowzy boarding houses, in shabby hall bedrooms; figuring on backs of envelopes how to cut down on food; figuring maybe just a bowl of soup for lunch and maybe no lunch at all. Making a clean shirt last several more weeks. Skipping that visit to the dentist; wearing a shabby shiny old serge suit. Buying a pair of specs at the five and ten cent store, instead of from the oculist.

Yes, making every sacrifice on earth, just to live a few more years. Oftentimes wondering why. Old people in their children's homes, watching the small family income swallowed by so many needs, knowing or being told the drag they constitute upon the family resources. Having to ask for car fare; wheedle money for a paper; for a pair of stockings; for tobacco, and not even having a room to themselves. Humble servants to the grandchildren; but without a servant's wage or a servant's freedom.

Old people, in this Commonwealth sensing their declining usefulness; realizing how their needs tie the children to the farm, forcing the children to delay marriage, preventing the buying of more land or another harrow or a new incubator, dragging down the standard of living of them all.

Old people, dying of malnutrition, cold, and neglect, without complaint and without publicity, in poorhouses, county farms, and dirty hotels, in all types of homes throughout the Commonwealth, and death ascribed by the coroner to whatever disease comes to his mind, pneumonia, heart failure or consumption, but never to the one ill that covers them all; the inhumanity of man to man.

Permit me, Mr. President, to cite a few cases that are authentic. I shall refrain from using the names for social reasons.

Consider the case of Mrs. K. Since the death of her husband she had been a teacher in a private school. Gladly had she learned and gladly taught; but the school failed and she finally lost her job, and was left dependent upon the earnings of her daughter. That was all right; her daughter earned enough as a stenographer to support them both as long as they put thumbscrews in their budget; but there was one hitch. The daughter had been engaged to marry. He couldn't support the three of them; the daughter couldn't throw up her job to go to him. As each month went by Mrs. K. felt the truth eating like an acid into her heart, knowing that she was a grim weight upon her daughter's future, the living barrier to all their hopes. She applied for old age assistance, but it was not forthcoming, her daughter was not sufficiently pauperized. One afternoon in March, while her daughter was down street Mrs. K. wrote a little note explaining her position and turned on the gas in their small stuffy kitchenette.

Or take the case of D. W., an iron-worker, tough and active, but seventy-six year old. For a few of his declining years he was able to get jobs here and there, hopping around on the girders with the best of them. Finally, he was discharged from all types of employment. For a while he obtained a job carrying water on the WPA. Finally they passed a regulation throwing everybody over 65 from the WPA rolls. That finished him. He stood it as long as he could; but when the food was all gone from his room, when the landlord told him he would have to go on the streets, he applied for old age assistance but was informed that he had grandchildren who should keep him. But they failed to do so. He was told to swear out a warrant and take them to court. So he thought of a new scheme. He advertised in the local daily paper. For sale, one blue eye, price $1,000. Shortly afterwards, they found him in the park, never to bother society again.

But let us consider the story of W. B. W. B. at one time was quite wealthy in his own right, but the crash of 1929 wiped him out entirely. When his resources had dwindled down to a few dollars, he tried for a long while to subsist on vegetables which he planted behind his house. He collected stale bread in the neighborhood store. Finally, his health broke down and in the end he found himself doing what he had determined never to do, petitioning for old age assistance. He soon learned that he was not yet sufficiently pauperized. So he sold the small equity in his house, then the furniture. Then he applied again. They asked him, have you any children. Yes, one son. Is he employed? Yes. How much does he earn? $60.00 per month. Well, go and live with him. But he is having a tough time right now with three children and a sick wife. The children do not get enough to eat as it is. We can't help that, as long as he has a job, we can not do anything for you. W. B. finally shuffled out of the office, thinking about this son's wife and the three children. That afternoon, the paper carried a five line item, reporting that a shabby old man had thrown himself into the river.

Now finally, Mr. President, permit me to cite one more case, that of A. P. He also had been fortunate in his youth. He had set aside the sum of $15,000 in building and loan stock. The depression of 1929 wiped out his reserves with the ruthless and impersonal sweep of a wave demolishing a child's castle of sand. Mr. A. P. was stunned. He used to go out in the park and sit in the sun, looking over the river trying to comprehend what had happened to him. Trying to find a way out of this trap. He looked for a job but they laughed at him. seeing his gray hair and his stooped shoulders. A number of times he was picked up on the street and hurried to the hospital to be treated for malnutrition. He tried to obtain a WPA job but by this time, the age limit was 60, and he was 62 years of age. He tried to get old age assistance but they told him that he would not be eligible until he was sixty-five. So he sat in the park thinking and gradually the way out became a little clearer in his mind. He walked into a drug store and bought a small bottle from the clerk. He would not admit that he was going to use it himself. He was just going to keep it in case of an emergency. But he did use it that same evening. They found his body in the park; they found traces of poison, and they found something else, too. It was a note that he had written, "Too young to receive an old age pension, and too old to find work."

The following day, the gravedigger hacked a six-foot trench in an ugly corner of the cemetery and lowered the old man's body. The digger was accustomed to this sort of thing because he had buried many thousands like Mr. A. P. He shoveled earth into the hole, smoothed the surface of the ground with the back of his spade, lit his pipe, and walked away. That was Mr. A. P.'s farewell from the living; no friends, no relatives, no mourners, no music, no flowers. But finally, Mr. A. P. was remembered by some of the city fathers and within fifteen days after that he was interred once again. Not in a barren plot of country land but in one of the community's finest cemeteries. Not deserted at the last, but attended by ten thousand people. Not dumped without ceremony into the earth, but heaped with flowers and honored by the words of orators and the tears of his own generation.

Why had these people come, and for what did they weep? They wept not alone for him but for themselves and the millions like him; they wept for a society which denies the aged the right to work and grants them instead the right to poverty, dependence and starvation. They came, not merely as individuals, but as representatives of a vast and swiftly growing movement dedicated "to the end that in America a new and sacred right may be established, the right of the senior citizen to dignity, to security, to life."

Therefore, Mr. President, I have cited as a matter of record only a few of the many cases that now exist of the same nature. I am a firm believer that the day must come when our law-making bodies must sincerely consider placing upon our statute books a decent and modern old age assistance act.

Ever since the first cave dweller's son noticed that his failing parents were bringing in less meat than they ate, man has faced an old-age problem; and, by and large, has faced it well. Perhaps it is his gullibility, but man in all stages of his social evolution, until now, has refused to penalize the aged simply for aging, and instead has granted the elders of his community both respect and comfort, long past the peak of their usefulness.

The natives of Africa, the head men of Guinea, the bushmen of Australia, the Polynesians of the Pacific, the peoples of the Mediterranean, the Indians of America, the Eskimos of the North, all the curious and various tribes of the earth, from the birth of history, have upheld without question the right of the aged to share in the common wealth of the community. These barbarous people, who, lacking the benefits of our modern culture, didn't know any better, assumed as a matter of course that those who had worked hard all their lives for the good of the tribe should not be left to starve in disgrace because of their declining strength.

In fact, it is only as we approach modern industrial society that we come upon the new principle that those who have helped to build up the national wealth shall be the first to be thrown out of employment; shall be made dependent upon their pitiful savings, if any; shall be taken off the relief rolls after a certain age, pauperized, and then handed, if they are lucky, a sum of money which is at best only a fraction of what the government has called a minimum for subsistence. If old age isn't a crime in America, what else could explain such treatment? And yet there must be some other explanation, for even convicts are not treated that way; they get three meals a day, a good bed, and a roof over their heads.

Perhaps the excuse is poverty, poverty of the whole nation; there is not enough to go around; so the least productive citizens must go to the wall first.

Well, primitive communities confronted the same situation. And some of them, mostly the nomadic tribes, took a drastic way out. When the Siberian natives had a particularly bad year, with drought and a shortage of game, they were sometimes forced to send the weakest of the old folk into the desert to die by themselves.

And the Eskimos, when the hunting was bad and food had run very low, were often compelled to leave behind those who were too old to travel, letting them starve or freeze to death in order to free the tribe to migrate.

The Indians of Nevada and Utah occasionally found themselves in the same predicament, driven by drought to hurry on to new hunting grounds and unable to take the aged who had become sick from hunger.

Merciful rather than sadistic, they would knock the old people on the head. But all this is quite explicable, quite reasonable. It has remained for the Americans, however, to devise the most ingenious and most senseless method of disposing of the indigent old: the Americans simply leave the aged to starve slowly and miserably, in the midst of plenty.

It seems apparent that only a happy few were able to lay aside anything for the period when they retire, i.e., when industry boots them out of the productive system or to old to stand the gaff. Only a happy few. And the rest?

Well, in a million homes the rest wait between life and death, without hope and without peace. From tenement windows they can look out upon idle factories and idle men; from the porches of their farms they can see the unplowed land, the crops destroyed, the fruit rotting on the trees. All around them lies the evidence of potential plenty and even of present wealth, which their own labors have helped to create. All around them are the means of a true retirement to that gracious relaxation of life's labor in dignity and serenity which is each man's right and a few men's reality. Yet in the midst of this nation, the world's richest, they are condemned to a penury, a squalor, and a dependence that constrict and starve the spirit even more than the body. Their plight mocks our political claims of freedom, for where there is no security, there is no freedom; where there is no hope there is no liberty. Poverty, we know, has chains more terrible than any tyrants' jail.

I need not tell you that I am very much disappointed by the attitude shown my 60 at 60 proposal. I frankly admit that at no time did I think that my proposal might be adopted in its entirety at this present session of the legislature. But I did sincerely believe that this Administration would take advantage of the federal grant, which is $20 per month to the indigent of our Commonwealth, given only, of course, if this state would match its share. But even this is now being denied the aged of our Commonwealth. When I offered my proposal, I offered with it enabling legislation to finance this program. But all of these proposals, evidently, have met their doom by means of a pickling barrel.

Mr. President, there is now only one hope left and that is, that both or either one of the major political parties incorporate within their platform a decent modern, old age assistance act in 1942.

If, 60 at 60 does not meet with their approval, may I ask, is it 50 at 60 or is it 40 at 60? Certainly the powers to be will not lose sight of the fact that in 1942 something must be done along these lines.

However, Mr. President, if neither party sees fit to adopt a modern old age assistance plan, then I have only one alternative, and that is since I have dedicated my life to fighting for the rights of our senior citizens, and since my humble efforts have failed in the Legislative halls, I hereby faithfully promise the people of Pennsylvania that they will have the opportunity to vote for a man who believes in this program because, I, myself, will make the supreme sacrifice to preempt a third party ticket from top to bottom. I shall be a candidate for Governor of this Commonwealth and in my humble and sincere way, will carry this message into every hamlet of this great state.

Defeat, I shall not fear, because even if such shall be my lot, I am firmly convinced that my 60 at 60 proposal will bring many new faces into our legislative halls and many a member of the present legislature, who had scoffed at my idea, no doubt will find it very embarrassing when he once again faces his constituency, seeking their support, to represent them.

So this, gentlemen, is all that you will hear of the 60 at 60 proposal during the remaining days of this session.

So now, gentlemen, I say to you, goodbye until 1942.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Warren will state his question of personal privilege.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THE UNITED STATES

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President. With the near approach of the nation's birthday, I have been noting the editorials in the public press with special reference to the observance that will be given the occasion. There have been few editorials in which the significance of the day was given comment. Few in which the spirit of the desire for freedom that actuated the heroes of the Revolutionary days were pointed out. Few in which the sufferings and sacrifices of the men of the small army of Washington were paid tribute. Few in which the self sacrifice of men like Robert Morris, Franklin and Solomon were accented men who gave most of their store of worldly goods for the cause of the nation's freedom.

Most of the editorials I have scanned have been warning against speed on the highways; of care to be exercised while bathing at the mountain and seaside resorts; care to be taken against poison ivy and bites of snakes at various play-grounds. Many of them urged the children to have a good time with their fireworks this year as the mounting demand for the chemicals used in fireworks will preclude any pyrotechnic displays next year. Almost every editorial has been devoted to pleasure, sport anything and everything expect an appeal to the patriotic side of the populace.

Celebrations? Plenty of them, and I have scanned published programs galore of the big times arranged at various places. There are ball games, auto races, drum corps drills, water battles, and so on, but in not one have I found a single reference to anything that might even remotely suggest just why July 4th was the nation's greatest holiday.

Originally proclaimed as the day on which every true American could spend a few hours celebrating the formation of the greatest nation in the world, July 4th has been commercialized until now it is an orgy of pleasure and the nation as a whole engages in revelry. What a contrast to the celebration of July 4th, just fifty years ago.

I can remember how in my youth I enjoyed getting up before daybreak and journeying over to see Chris Shutt, Perry Gordan and Phillip Beglar "shoot the cannon." It was a Civil War piece and the veterans of that war who always looked to me akin to the figures in that painting "The Spirit of '76" loaded her with a bag of powder and then rammed home sod and carefully primed the old gun and with a hot rod of iron "touched it off." What a thrill that was as with a resounding bang it let go and the roar reverberated among the hills.

Then the parade in which the Boys in Blue marched lustily along with the red shirted firemen and the Knights of the Maccabees and the Knights of Labor. The Warren Silver Cornet Band played the old war pieces "We Are Coming Father Abraham," "Yankee Doodle" and others that made the goose pimples stand out and the spine tingle when the big flag went by. And the meeting. Always there was a meeting and from a gala decorated platform on which sat the leading citizens in their Prince Alberts, from whose cavernous depths they yanked out kerchiefs to wipe sweat beaded brows, Lincoln's Gettysburg Address was always read and the Declaration of Independence was given by a lusty throated high school boy. A chorus of beribboned and starch skirted young ladies sang "My Country 'Tis of thee," and then some warhorse of the political skirmishes delivered a ringing address on the glories of the nation and the struggles of the young republic and cheers oftentimes for Washington and Lafayette rent the air.

It was an occasion in which the celebration meant something. If there was a program of sports—100 yards dashes, and so on, or a ball game—it was secondary. July 4th really meant something and I know that into my inner consciousness there was implanted a love of country, a pride in the achievements of the men and women of the nation. My boyish soul was fired by the tributes to the flag and to the men who had fought and died for the retention of its glories unsullied and undefiled.

This year, July 4th finds our nation feverishly preparing for war. In our army camps are over a million sturdy young Americans drawn from store and office, field and factory all being drilled and given an understanding of the arts of war. Our navy made famous by Paul Jones, Farragut, Decatur, and Dewey has the greatest ships and more men than ever in history. Huge factories are belching forth smoke as guns, shells and fighting material is being fashioned. Every home has been touched by these hectic preparations for defense.

Was there ever such a time when into the hearts of young and old there should be poured every word possible to kindle love of country and pride in its accomplishments? While foreign agents and misled Americans are proclaiming a program that would hamper and hinder our preparations for defense and the retention of our liberties July 4th should be used lavishly to counteract that spread of alien thought. It is an opportunity that is being lost. And withal I think the gradual commercialism of the day is to blame perhaps for the lethargy that has assailed our people and has made them indifferent to the efforts to arm.

Flags, bands, songs and stories of the heroes of America all tend to instill into the minds of youngsters a love of country. The Chinese with their veneration of ancestors have inculcated into their teachings a love of the land that is most commendable. A nation wherein the people love the land, where their songs reflect their inherent feelings for their native heath, where their hills and dales are an integral part of their thought and you have a nation strong and durable. I feel we are not paying sufficient heed to the things that tend to weld us into one people—indivisible.

Fourth of July, as far as being observed in accord with the original idea of the celebration has become a tiny germ. Something like the center of a golf ball. Wholly surrounded by another substance it yet gives the ball its life.

I have pondered long on this matter of implanting patriotism and of the celebration of the Fourth of July. I can remember how on Friday afternoons in our school we had "exercises" and the boys and girls spoke pieces. One favorite of mine described how an old man perched in the tower of Independence Hall, ready to chime the Liberty Bell and of how when the Declaration of Independence was signed, his young grandson ran out and yelled at the old man "Ring, Grandpa. Ring, Oh! Ring for Liberty." No more do they "speak pieces" on Friday. To have debates and to read essays and the injection of patriotism into the hearts and minds of our youth is no more.

I take it, fellow Senators, that there should be a movement to bring back the old spirit that marked the Fourth of July celebrations. I feel our schools should have more and not less of the Bible and more and not less of the teachings of love of country and worship of its heroes.

Today we need every man, woman and child in the great cavalcade of America moving on to a better and more united nation in that our Ship of State may sail on over a charted course that will keep an even keel on the tempestuous seas which are now storm tossed by the wild winds of war. Give us peace, Oh God and a manhood and womanhood in our land that is sturdy and strong, God fearing, peace loving, but withal girded with a love of flag and country that will enable us to toss aside the isms and ideologies that have swept the world.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I ask permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. If there is no objection, the gentleman from Philadelphia will proceed.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I have here a sixteen page speech. However, I think I will spare the Senate and therefore, Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to have it spread on the Journal.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair hears no objection on the part of the Senate and the request is granted.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, What the REA has done in Pennsylvania.

When the Rural Electrification Administration, now part of the United States Department of Agriculture, was established in 1935, only 45,182 of the 191,000 farms in the Commonwealth had central station electric service. Today, more than 105,000 farms and many additional rural establishments—factories, schools, churches, stores, dairies and shops—have such service. The increase has been more than 132 per cent in six years!

Obviously the REA cannot claim direct credit for all of this increase. Pennsylvania did not really begin to take advantage of the REA program until 1937, two years after the REA was established. At the end of April, this year, 12 of the 13 cooperatives to which the REA has allotted funds were actually operating 7,505 miles of rural electric power lines and serving 20,808 connected consumers. If the increase in rural electrification that has taken place in Pennsylvania during the past six years were confined to that directly attributable to the REA, the increase would have been somewhat less than 50 per cent instead of more than 132 per cent.

However a good deal more of the increase than that can with justice be attributed to the influence of the REA program. The formation of cooperatives stimulated a demand for electric service among rural people which the private utilities could not disregard. The work of the REA engineering research staff in developing simpler and more economical forms of construction of rural lines, and in demonstrating that these less costly lines are strong and safe, made it feasible for the utilities to build lines into areas which they had previously thought they could not afford to serve. Hence it is only fair to say that every Pennsylvania farm family that has received electric service for the first time in the last six years owes his good fortune at least in some degree to the REA.

The record of rural electrification in Pennsylvania during the six years is one to be proud of. This, however, should not be allowed to obscure the fact that it is only beginning. Nearly half of the farms in Pennsylvania are still without high-line service. A great many of these thousands of unserved farms must obtain service through the REA if they are to obtain it at all. They are so located that no private utility management, with the interests of its investors at heart, could hope to build lines to them, barring some unforeseen development in the art of generating and distributing electric energy.

The reason for this is simple. It lies in the inherent difference between a private corporation and a cooperative. The corporation is in business for profit. Its shareholders have invested their money in its securities in the hope of receiving dividends. The duty of its management, therefore, is to so conduct its business that the investment of the shareholders will be safe. This means that the ratio between investment and earnings must always be carefully watched to see that it does not get out of line. Earnings must be sufficient not only to pay operating expenses and build up adequate reserves, but also to yield the investors a profit on their investment. You will notice that I have been talking about good corporations; I have described the kind of a utility company that is prudently run by men who have the interest of the investors and the consumers at heart. I don't need to tell you that not all utility companies are like that.

If a corporation exists for the benefit of its shareholders, a cooperative exists for the benefit of its members. They have joined together and incorporated in order to serve themselves as consumers. They have made no investment in the ordinary sense of the term; they are not looking for profits. In fact they could not make any profits if they wished to, for the simple reason that you cannot make a profit by dealing with yourself. Of course a cooperative must be run as prudently as any other business enterprise; but when you remove the item of profit from the list of charges against earnings, you make it possible to get by on less earnings than can the private corporation. When, as in the case of an REA cooperative, you are able to obtain capital at a rate of less than 3 per cent, you cut still lower the minimum income that you need to maintain a going concern.

Now you can see what I meant when I said that a majority of the Pennsylvania farmers still without electric service must get such service through the REA if they are to get it at all. It may be that even cooperatives cannot afford to serve all of them; but cooperatives can afford to serve many of them that private power companies can not. And because of certain developments, such as the so-called "self-help system" and the limited service plan, the proportion whom cooperatives can afford to reach is constantly increasing.

Certain things are necessary if a cooperative is to be established on a sound financial basis—and the law makes clear that all REA cooperatives must be established on such a basis. The REA makes long-term loans, to be sure, and it makes them at the same rate of interest that the government itself pays for its long-term obligations; but they are loans just the same, and every penny of them must one day be paid back. The REA is a lot of things, but Santa Claus is not one of them.

In the process of taking electric service to more than three-quarters of a million farm families and other rural consumers in 45 of the 48 States and in two of the Territories in six years, the REA has learned a good deal about the conditions under which electric service cooperatives flourish, and also a good deal about the conditions under which they become weak and puny. And the first essential for a successful cooperative is an area large enough to make a self-liquidating power system feasible. When you are building a power system as a unit to serve an entire rural area much of which is mighty thin, you just have to have some good territory to balance the poor. There are no two ways about that.

A great many cooperatives have died before they built a mile of line, during the last six years, simply from want of an area in which to work. The area was there when they were organized, all right; but just as soon as the power companies heard that the farmers were organizing to serve themselves, they suddenly discovered that they could afford to serve parts of the area themselves. Not the whole area; just the best parts of it. They suddenly reduce the rates they have proposed to charge and change their minds about requiring heavy contributions from prospective customers. And if they can wean away enough farmers in strategic parts of the cooperative area, they can prevent the cooperative from ever getting started. Of course by doing that they doom the farmers on the back roads to go without electricity for years, perhaps forever; but that is just part of the game.

This is the way it works. A community leader in the area now served by one of the Pennsylvania REA cooperatives had wanted electric service and tried to get it for many years. In the late spring of 1936, the power company offered to serve this farmer if he would guarantee a minimum of $20 a month. That was beyond the farmer's means. A little later, after the cooperative had started to organize and develop its area, the power company suddenly decided that it could serve him for a monthly minimum of $3.50 a month. Well, this farmer, being a public-spirited man, didn't yield; but there have been instances in which such tactics worked. To make it impossible for power companies to practice them in Pennsylvania is the object of the bill for which I am asking consideration.

Some of you, I am sure, are thinking, "Rural electrification is a good thing, all right. I'd like to see every farmer able to get light at the flip of a switch and to listen to a socket-power radio. But man alive, don't you know that we are in an emergency and that we can't afford to use money for frills when we need it for guns and planes and ships and tanks."

You are right that we can't afford to spend money for frills. We are in an emergency, perhaps the greatest that this country has ever faced. But you are wrong when you think that is an argument against extending rural electrification. On the contrary, it is the strongest argument that could be advanced for getting electric service to as many farmers as we can, and in the shortest possible time.

An important factor in this emergency is food. Food for ourselves, and food for the people of the embattled democracies. We have plenty of wheat and a good supply of some other grains; but we need to convert those grains into protein foods—into pork, cheese, evaporated milk, poultry products. And it so happens that the very foods of which both we and the defenders of democracy across the seas are in the greatest and most immediate need are the types of food in the production and conservation of which electricity is most valuable. On the farm, electricity is a tool for increasing production as well as a convenience. Electric brooders, electric milk coolers, electric refrigerators big and little, electric water pumps, electric soil heating cable, all these and more enable the farmer to raise more food with the same amount of help and in the same amount of time. Electric motors do the same. And some electric household appliances, such as the washing machine and the hand iron, conserve the strength and time of the farm housewife so that she can devote more time to the dairy, the garden, the poultry house.

All this and more electricity from REA lines already built in Pennsylvania is doing. And there is another aspect of the contribution of the REA to national defense that cannot be overlooked. I refer to the fact that rural electric cooperatives in Pennsylvania, as elsewhere throughout the country, are providing power for small rural industries, remote from the big cities and relatively free of the danger of enemy action, where bits and pieces of essential defense equipment and supplies are being made. These include machine shops, coal mines, oil well pumps, and a host of other small establishments. In addition, the REA lines are powering small rural processing plants where local farm products can be processed and reduced in bulk before shipment, thus easing the strain of emergency needs on the Nation's transportation system.

Perhaps the strongest advocate of rural electrification as a defense measure to be found in the world today is the man who typifies everything that we most detest, Adolf Hitler. Before embarking on his career of conquest, Hitler saw to it that electricity reached virtually every farm in Germany. Some time before the war, farmers in Germany began to receive great boxes. They were told that these boxes contained machines for making toys, and that at the proper time representatives of the government would come to help them unpack and set up the machines and teach the farmers to use them. When the Polish campaign began, government representatives visited the farms according to promise; but the machines of parts for the material of mechanized war. Hitler had of parts for the material of mechanized war. Hitler had recognized that if he had small plants scattered all over Germany, he would be insuring himself as much as possible against the possibility of having a vital war industry disabled by air attack.

In one respect we are unlike Hitler; we did not start our rural electrification program as a measure of preparation for war. Nor do we wish to make it entirely, or even chiefly, a war machine. We want it to be, in the years to come, a source of strength to the type of civilization we have developed in the more than three centuries since the settlement of this continent began. But we do not want electricity purely, or even chiefly, as a luxury. We want it to earn its way on the farm, in peace or in war, knowing that if it does that, we need have no fear of its earning its way on the system.

As I have indicated, all of the REA systems in Pennsylvania are cooperatives. I mentioned some of the economic characteristics of the cooperative. But even more important than a cooperative's economic characteristics are its social characteristics. It is an organized expression of the spirit of neighborliness that appeared at Jamestown and Plymouth, that runs in an unbroken thread through the whole course of American history. In a cooperative, neighbors work together to get for themselves some service which they either cannot get at all, or else cannot get so advantageously, from someone else. An REA cooperative in particular, because its base is the community rather than a commodity, serves to unite in common effort the people of an entire rural area. Moreover, because every member has one vote and only one, so that all come together as equals at the annual meeting where officers are elected and policies adopted, it forms an excellent training camp of applied democracy.

I look forward to the day when we Pennsylvanians will not be satisfied with having a little more than half of our farms electrified. I look forward to the day when we shall be able to reach with electricity every Pennsylvania farm that the Government can reach with selective service. Granted continued action to make it possible for electric service cooperatives to live and thrive in this Commonwealth, I am confident that the sun of that day will ultimately rise.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. BARTLETT. Mr. President, I ask permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Northampton will proceed.

Mr. BARTLETT. Mr. President, I cannot permit the statements of the gentleman from Cambria to go without challenge, even while I congratulate him on the ambition he has disclosed.

The bill to which the gentleman refers, to provide sixty dollars at sixty years for every citizen of this Commonwealth, has been in the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions since early in this session. It has remained in that committee because it was the unanimous judgment of the members of the committee that that would not make desirable legislation for this Commonwealth. If I have opposed the measure personally, it is not for personal reasons, as I can qualify as an immediate beneficiary.

The judgment of those best equipped to calculate is that this bill would cost the Commonwealth $740,000,000 per biennium. That is for old age assistance alone, and if to that we add blind pensions, aid to dependent children and general assistance, the cost of state administration, including aid to various schools and higher institutions and hospitals, and the cost of operation of state owned hospitals and administration, this could readily bring the cost of administration to this State to more than twelve hundred million dollars per biennium. That is substantially two and one-half times the present cost of running this Commonwealth. If there is any member of this Senate who knows where twelve hundred million dollars can be obtained, I do not know him. If there is any member of this Senate who could face his constituents successfully after advocating the taxes necessary to provide twelve hundred million dollars in two years I do not know him.

Mr. President, I yield to no one in my anxiety and effort to help those who have gotten beyond the point where they can help themselves, but it is folly for us to ...eve that whatever we would like to do, we can do. I must cut our coat according to the cloth, as you individually must do.

...believe, Mr. President, that it is cruel torture, no less than bodily torture, to encourage the people of this state to believe that any such thing is possible, because it is not so.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I had no intention of making further upon my sixty at sixty plea, as I stated in my speech a few minutes ago, but certainly when the gentleman from Northampton gets up and makes false statements, I shall not sit idly by and let them go unchallenged.

...permit me to quote, Mr. President, a part of my speech, when I read the following into the record.

I proposed to this Legislature Senate Bill No. 12, known to this body as the sixty at sixty old age assistance bill. I wonder how many of my colleagues have really read this bill in detail. If I were to interrogate any of them, I am fearful that few, if any, would have any knowledge of my proposal."

How true those words have become right now, because at a moment ago the gentleman from Northampton proposed a bill paying every person at the age of sixty the sum of sixty dollars a month. That, Mr. President, is not true, and for that reason I am convinced that the gentleman from Northampton had not read my bill, because my bill provides that in every household where a person has reached the age of sixty, and provided the income was less than sixty dollars a month, they would be entitled to these benefits. I readily see now how they put that enormous figure of $750,000,000 because without reading my bill, by a conclusion of their own, they try to put up this scarecrow, and say it can not be done because it will cost so much money.

...say I will meet Mr. Bartlett, Mr. Russell, the Governor of this Commonwealth, any man in this chamber, any man in the Commonwealth, and prove to them without doubt that my program could be effected and the total sum would be $85,000,000 per year, not $750,000,000, and I rise to defend my own program, and to go on record against any false statements, because the statement of $750,000,000 is not correct, it is untrue, and it is only a scarecrow.

BILL INTRODUCED

Mr. LETZLER. Mr. President, I am about to offer a bill, but before doing so I desire to make a brief statement giving my reason for offering the bill, as well as my reason for offering it at this late date in the session.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Clearfield may proceed.

Mr. LETZLER, last week the War and Navy Departments and the Office of Production Management in Washington announced to the United States that the most pressing necessity in this country today is aluminum. This country needs aluminum in all phases of war production and does not have it available. The production of airplanes so vital to national defense and our international interests must be curtailed because of the fact that we do not have enough aluminum in this country, and apparently it would be some months before we could catch up.

In Pennsylvania we have a marvelous opportunity to help correct this shortage of aluminum in the United States. Aluminum is refined from an ore called "bauxite." In bauxite aluminum exists in the form of aluminum oxide. The supply of bauxite in this country is to a considerable extent limited. In many sections of Pennsylvania aluminum exists in large quantities, which, if utilized, can not only overcome the shortage of aluminum today, but can give us an unlimited supply of ore from which bauxite can be refined.

Approximately two-thirds of the area of my district is underlain with veins of clay, both soft and hard. A large portion of this clay is rich in aluminum. Hard clay contains practically the same percentage of aluminum silicate that bauxite does of aluminum oxide. Almost every section of Pennsylvania contains clay that is rich in aluminum.

For the first time in the history of this country, we are short of aluminum, and we realize now that the other sources of aluminum must be developed in addition to those with which we are already familiar. If we are to assure aluminum in the quantities which this country will now need, we must utilize clays in Pennsylvania, as well as the bauxite in other states.

Unfortunately, in the production of aluminum, no one has ever taken the trouble to devise a process for the extraction of the aluminum metal from the aluminum silicates in clay. This must be done immediately. Were a process for the extraction of the aluminum metal from the aluminum silicate, the United States will have unquestionably the greatest source of aluminum in the world, and Pennsylvania can easily assume the leadership in the production of aluminum ore and aluminum metal.

I desire to offer this bill, which will finance the necessary research at the School of Mineral Industries at the Pennsylvania State College and which will enable the Department of Scientists to devise and prepare a process for the extraction of the aluminum metal from the aluminum silicate. There is probably nothing that we can do at this time that would add more greatly to the wealth of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, or more to keep the citizens of this state employed.

The United States needs, and will need in times to come, aluminum in tremendous quantities. We are in a position to supply this need to the profit of the people of the State of Pennsylvania by the application of the scientific discoveries. Almost every person owning an acre of land in this state may possibly be enriched by the development of this process.

It is only within the last week that we have learned that this situation is critical, and I would request that we move fast to remedy this condition in developing in this state a method and a process to make use of our almost inexhaustible supply of potential aluminum ore.

Mr. LETZLER read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 1306, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Trustees of the Pennsylvania State College for the use of the School of Mineral Industries.

Which was committed to the Committee on Appropriations.

RECALLING SENATE BILL No. 599, FROM THE GOVERNOR

Mr. COX offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, July 1, 1941.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), that Senate Bill No. 599, Printer's No. 342, entitled: An Act to amend section three of the act, approved the twenty-third day of March, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five (P. L. 607), entitled 'An act for the better management of the Allegheny county prison' by requiring all contracts involving an expenditure of one hundred dollars to be in writing and prohibiting the making of any contract involving the expenditure of over five hundred dollars unless made with the lowest and best bidder after due advertising and requiring all purchases to be made through the purchasing department of the county," be recalled from the Governor for further consideration.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I request permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Fayette will proceed.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, page 312 of the History, Senate Concurrent Resolutions, shows that this Senate on April 2, 1941 adopted a resolution introduced by the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Haluska, and the gentleman from Cumberland, Mr. Wade. That resolution went to the House, was considered and was there referred to the Committee on Rules on April 8th. On April 15th the resolution was reported as committed, and on April 15, 1941 the House concurred in that resolution. Immediately following that in the History, Mr. President, in parentheses, there is the following: "Copy of resolution transmitted to Secretary of Public Assistance by Secretary of Senate."

Mr. President, I want to call my colleagues' attention to these two resolves of that resolution:

"Resolved, (if the House concur), that the Department of Public Assistance be requested and notified to at once raise the maximum amount of insurance permitted to be carried by a relief recipient or by any or all members of his or her family directly affected from $500 to not less than $1000 in the aggregate in policy or policies either paid up or in premium paying period, and be it further

"Resolved, that the Department of Public Assistance is requested to notify its various County Boards of Assistance of this request and resolution immediately upon its passage."

That, Mr. President, as I have indicated, was April 15, 1941. On June 12, 1941, I received the following communication from one of my constituents:

Brownsville, Pa., June 12, 1941.

Senator Anthony Cavalcante, Uniontown, Pa.

Dear Senator Cavalcante:

Not knowing what to do or whom to ask for advice, I am at a loss to know just what to do in regards to the demands made of me by the Department of Public Assistance. I am receiving a relief grant of $6.50 weekly, for which I work. I have already signed over my lot on Second Street, Brownsville, to the public assistance. Now they want me to make the state beneficiary of half of my one thousand dollar insurance policy. Since this is the only protection I have to take care of my wife in case of my death, it seems a little unreasonable to me. Please advise me what to do.

Sincerely yours."

Mr. President, as soon as I opened that letter and I had read it, I called up the Executive Director of the Fayette County Board of Assistance, read the letter to him and called to his attention the fact that we had passed a resolution touching this subject, and that it was my opinion that we had set a ceiling or a floor in regard to the amount of insurance that could be carried by a relief recipient at one thousand dollars, and he said he would immediately send me by mail a memorandum or a rule issued to them by the Department of Public Assistance covering this same subject.

Now, Mr. President, here is what I received by mail on June 26th from the Fayette County Board of Public Assistance:

"Commonwealth of Pennsylvania
Department of Public Assistance
Harrisburg, May 9, 1941.

MEMORANDUM No. 60

"To: Executive Directors—R54
County Supervisors—S-34

"Subject: Insurance Regulations

"The State Board, at its meeting of April 30, 1941, reviewed the present regulations on insurance and adopted the following revision which is immediately effective:

"Any applicant or recipient (even though he is not uninsurable) may retain insurance coverage of any amount if he makes a total assignment to the Department, providing for repayment of assistance from that portion of the net coverage of his policy or policies exceeding $500 for those over 16, and $300 for those under 16. Assignment is understood to include nomination of the Department as beneficiary of the insurance.

"To be eligible for assistance, a person with net insurance coverage exceeding the permissible maximum must either exercise the above option or reduce his insurance. The choice is left with the insured and should be clearly explained to him. Where reduction is not possible and is therefore ruled out as an alternative, assignment will of course be necessary. Where neither assignment nor reduction is possible, the insurance does not affect eligibility.

RAYMOND T. BOWMAN,
Deputy Secretary.

"Refer to: William B. Tollen."

Now, Mr. President, of what need or use is there for this body, under the prerogatives entrusted to it by the Constitution, to adopt a resolution such as we did on April 15, 1941, merely to have the department to which it was directed throw the thing back in our faces, and leave the resolutions as they had them before the adoption of that resolution? I think it is a very high contempt of the authority of this Senate.

I personally feel that in the face of our resolution, the action of the Department of Public Assistance amounts to malfeasance or misfeasance in office, and something ought to be done about this. I think they ought to obey orders or resolutions passed by this Senate and put the maximum of insurance that a recipient can have up to one thousand dollars and not keep it where it was at five hundred dollars.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I desire to make a very short statement.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Westmoreland may proceed.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, listening to the statement of the gentleman from Fayette, about the action of the Department of Public Assistance in connection with this resolution. I just want to make a statement for the record.

In 1937, when the Democrats were in control of both branches of the General Assembly, and also the executive branch of government, the so-called public assistance law was passed. In this law the right was given to the department to make rules and regulations as they deemed fit for the proper administration of the act. They saw fit to ask relief recipients to sign a bond. I stated in a discussion here on the floor in 1939 that that was not a specific requirement of the law as passed by the Democratic party in 1937, and the then Attorney General, I think—no, I think it was the Attorney General that served under the Democrats—gave some sort of an opinion to the effect that the law did stipulate that this bond must be signed by a relief recipient.

However, not being a lawyer, I still took the position the law did not require it, and since that time I believe the department has retracted its statement and changed its position. Therefore I want to make clear that the bond requirement is purely an administrative rule, a regulation of the Department of Public Assistance, and I for one am sick and tired of having the Republican Public Assistance officials in Westmoreland County telling relief recipients that it was my vote that forces them to sign the bond. The bond requirement is a very nasty, very un-American requirement of relief recipients, I am against it; I have spoken against it before. I have introduced resolutions, along with my colleague from Cambria, Senator Haluska, and have talked against it, along with my colleague from Allegheny, Senator Walker, but the Public Assistance Department insists on following this particular policy.

Mr. President, I believe the Department of Public Assistance knows the Legislature is against the requiring of a relief bond. I want to tell you of a little experience I had just last week, of a young man who received $18 in relief and had to sign a $500 bond. He was trying to borrow $300 at a bank and the bank will not let him have the money so long as this bond is against him. He tried to satisfy the bond and they ask now for $127 instead of $18, although there is no record of him ever receiving over $18 from the Department of Public Assistance, and I want to say to you I hope to be in this Senate long enough to see men courageous enough to take away from the people of Pennsylvania, who are the home owners who are the taxpayers, those who have tried to make something of their lives, take away from them the requirement of signing a slavery bond for themselves and their children and their children's children, while at the same time they let the bums who have never worked never saved anything, receive relief without any requirement whatsoever, and I hope I may see the day when we will have at least twenty-six men in this Senate with courage enough to stand up and say this requirement is un-American and unfair, and take it away from the Department of Public Assistance.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I might in answer to my friend from Westmoreland, state we do have a bill in the Committee of Welfare, Public Assistance and Pension, dealing with that bond issue; it is not too late to bring that bill out and to act upon it, if we do have twenty-six courageous men.

POINT OF INFORMATION

Mr. HALUSKA. Now, Mr. President, I rise on a point of information. My colleague from Fayette spoke on Resolution No. 118, presented by myself and my colleague from Cumberland, Mr. Wade. The gentleman from Fayette explained in detail what had taken place since this resolution had been passed. At this time I would like to be informed whether or not this resolution is mandatory, whether the Department can ignore it entirely or whether it has some effect.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair has no authority to answer such an inquiry.

Mr. HALUSKA. I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Somerset.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Somerset permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. EALY. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I would like to ask this question sincerely: I would like to ask the gentleman from Somerset, Mr. Ealy, whether or not Resolution Serial No. 118, appearing on page 312 of the history which was passed by this body on April 2nd, has any effect, whether it is mandatory upon the Department of Public Assistance to enforce this request or whether the Department can ignore it.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, does the gentleman from Cambria desire to ask me that question?

Mr. HALUSKA. That is right, Mr. President.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I do not think it is mandatory upon the department, but it should be persuasive with them, as to the views of the Legislature.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, it was the intention of the Legislature to adopt certain rules and regulations is that correct?

Mr. EALY. No, Mr. President; it was not the intention of the Legislature to adopt rules. The resolution speaks for itself and I am not informed that the resolution has not been carried out. The letters which were read here today give one side of the picture, but if we ask the Department of Public Assistance to report, it might be quite different.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I would like to ask the gentleman from Somerset just one more question. Is it possible on his part, between now and next Monday, to receive a statement from the Secretary of Public Assistance telling us whether or not he has any intention of following out our suggestion.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I think the gentleman from Cambria could make that request of the Department of Public Assistance. Personally, I was not too much in favor of this resolution when it was passed, so I am not particularly concerned whether the department carries it out or not. It seems to me it gives a special advantage to a certain class of individuals which is not given to others. I suggest the Senator make the inquiry himself from the department.

Mr. HALUSKA. Does the Senator mean through the Secretary of the Senate.

Mr. EALY. I mean the gentleman from Cambria should himself inquire from the department.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I would like to persist, if possible, in order to obtain this valuable information, I would like to ask the Chair if it is possible to have the Secretary of the Senate obtain this information between now and next Monday, from Mr. Russell, and have him tell us whether or not he has any intention of living up to the request of this resolution, or whether he has received this resolution. If I must make a motion to that effect I will do so.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Cambria please repeat his request?

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Chair whether it is possible on the part of the Chair to instruct the Secretary of the Senate to receive a report from the Secretary of Public Assistance, between now and next Monday afternoon, so we might have available information as to whether or not he has any intention of following out the instructions of this resolution, or whether or not he has even received the resolution as passed by his body.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair does not believe that a verbal request of that kind would be mandatory or should govern the Secretary. The Chair feels a resolution ought to be adopted asking for that information, and that such a resolution ought to be reduced to writing. The gentleman from Cambria is entitled to that information. The duty of the Chair is to preside; he can not enter into discussions of the Senate. The Chair feels that the gentleman from Cambria is proceeding along the right line but is of the opinion the gentleman from Cambria should not insist that the Secretary of the Senate comply with a verbal request. Such a request should be in the form of a resolution.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I shall prepare a resolution in the next few minutes and will request its immediate adoption, so that we might have before this body on Monday a complete report in detail.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President, I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from McKean will state his parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President, is there any way we can get to the Calendar and do the business we are supposed to do, so that we can take up the work of the Senate, instead of wasting a lot of time?

The PRESIDENT. That is a matter for the Senate to decide; the Senators may take any action and call any order of business they desire.

MOTION TO PROCEED WITH CALENDAR

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President, I move that we now proceed to consideration of the Calendar.

Mr. WALKER. I second the motion, Mr. President.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The PRESIDENT. The Chair wishes to emphasize the fact that at any time the Senate may take any action it desires.

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. It is not my intention, Mr. President, to criticize the Chair.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair so understands. The Chair rather likes to be rescued at times.

In view of the close approach of adjournment the Chair is of the opinion it would be well to recall to the attention of the Senators the law in relation to correcting errors in bills.

"Section 23. Correction of Errors in Laws. Where any law shall have been finally enacted and it shall be ascertained that such law is technically defective in form, or contains misspelled words or typographical errors, or the plural or singular number, or the past, present or future tense appears where another should be used, or where a word clearly intended to be inserted has been omitted, or where a word is correctly spelled but it clearly appears that another word was intended, the Secretary of the Commonwealth, in punctuating it and editing such law, shall have authority, with the approval of the President pro tempore of the Senate, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, the Attorney General, and the Director of the Legislative Reference Bureau, to correct the original copy of such law, as filed in the Department of State, if such correction will not in any manner affect or change the meaning, intent or substance of such law.

"Whenever any such correction or any law is made, a notation thereof shall be made on the original copy by the Secretary of the Commonwealth, together with his signature, followed by the approval and signatures of the President pro tempore of the Senate, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, the Attorney General, and the Director of the Legislative Reference Bureau.

"A notation of such corrections shall be printed in the pamphlet laws as footnotes to the laws on which the corrections were made."

If an answer is filed controverting the averment in the petition as to the fair market value of the property but if testimony is produced at the hearing supporting such denial of the fair market value the court shall determine and fix as the fair market value of the property the amount thereof alleged in the petition to be the fair market value thereupon enter a decree directing the petitioner to file release of the debtors obligors guarantors or any other persons directly or indirectly liable for the debt to the extent of the fair value so fixed whereupon execution may be issued for the balance of the debt

Section 12 The provisions of this act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the report?

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Fayette will state his point of order.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I am about to make a statement in the form of a point of order, and I am doing that because I really believe something ought to be done concerning reports of committees on conference. Rule No. 20 of the Senate reads as follows: "Every report of a committee of conference shall be printed together with the bill as amended by the committee, before action shall be had on such report."

When we look at the report of the committee in this case, it does not state whether it is reporting the bill as amended, or as committed, or what changes it has made in the bill.

The PRESIDENT. The point of order of the gentleman from Fayette is not well taken. This matter was discussed with the Chair previously. The printing of the report of the Committee on Conference, its notation on the Calendar, and a copy of the conference report in full being placed on the desk of every Senator, complies with Rule No. 20. If the Senator from Fayette will read Rule No. 20, he will note: "Every report of a committee of conference shall be printed together with the bill as amended by the committee, before action shall be had on such reports."

The Chair is of the opinion that rule has been complied with and therefore the Chair rules the point of order of the gentleman from Fayette is not well taken.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Cox.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. COX. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I desire to ask the gentleman from Allegheny whether in his opinion, as a lawyer, this bill as it now stands ready for passage will be constitutional.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, lacking the years of experience of the Senator who is interrogating me, very humbly, I say in my opinion it is.

I would like to say to the gentleman from Washington this particular bill is not the product of my imagination alone. We have had three other deficiency judgment acts, which have been held to be unconstitutional, and in drafting this bill, of course, we have been guided by the decisions of the Supreme Court and even further than that, this bill went to the Dickinson Law School, and down to Judge Ladner in Philadelphia; we passed it around among all types and manner of persons, for the purpose of getting their advice and we felt the matter of such great importance that we did not want a bill unless it was constitutional.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the Report?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—47

Barr,	DiSilvestro,	Lanlus,	Stiefel,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present same to the House for concurrence.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, perhaps I am out of order, but this bill represents the first piece of liberal legislation that I introduced in the Senate—I should say, Senator Stiefel and myself. I think what has happened to this bill, both in the Senate and the House, is indicative of foresight on the part of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania, which people on the outside never see, that is many things go on behind the scenes in the enactment of legislation; many of the members work hard and pool their ideas and as a joint result of their efforts, legislation reached the floor of the Senate.

I will never forget the first time I was in the Senate. Bills came up, the clerk read several lines of the bill and everybody would say "aye," and I thought that was a funny way to pass legislation.

Mr. President, I want to thank the members of the Senate, all of them, for the fine way in which they have helped me. A number of the gentlemen of the Senate have conferred with me and have offered constructive suggestions too numerous for me to repeat. I feel very proud that the bill received the consideration it did, passing unanimously in the Senate and in the House.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I feel it is my duty, in fairness to Senator Cox, to state that he was the main sponsor of this bill, and I contributed very little to it.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 938, (House Bill No. 49), entitled:

An Act making an appropriation for the maintenance repair and improvement of the Port of Philadelphia.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I would like to know the amount of appropriation intended by this bill. It may be $150,000 or it may be a hundred thousand or three hundred thousand dollars, the way the bill is drawn.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, for the information of the gentleman from Philadelphia, the amount of the appropriation is intended to be three hundred thousand dollars.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair understands the Chairman of the Appropriations Committee advises that the amount is intended to be three hundred thousand dollars.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, if it is intended to be three hundred thousand dollars I do not think the bill clearly states that. It seems to me the amendment brackets here have not been properly handled, and I do not think you can definitely say whether it is three hundred thousand or a hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 938, (House Bill No. 49), on final passage, go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILLS ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 1108, (House Bill No. 820), entitled:

An Act to amend section one of the act approved the second day of May one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine (P. L. 184) entitled "An act to provide revenue by imposing a mercantile license tax on vendors of or dealers in goods wares and merchandise and providing for the collection of said tax" as amended exempting from the mercantile license tax so much of the business of manufacturers and mechanics as comprises the vending of goods of their manufacture from their factories and workshops.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, last week I pointed out certain objectionable features of this bill, and the Finance Committee, headed by the gentleman from Delaware, Senator Heyburn, wisely removed those objectionable features. The bill to my mind has been washed very clean, but it does not lay any claim to godliness. I do not want to appear as being captious, but the fact remains, this bill is still loosely drawn. I will ask the Senators to please turn to the title of the act, practically at the bottom, where it reads, as follows, starting with line thirteen on page one: "From their factories." I should think, if anything, it should read "at their factories" to conform with the body of the act.

Let us turn to page three, line two. Here we have "from" again instead of "at." Let us go down to line 25. Here we have the word "at" in the title, and at the top of page 3, the word "from" is used, but at the bottom of page 3 the word "at" is used, which to my mind is correct.

On page 4, line 15, the words "at" is used. What is meant? To my mind the words "at" and "from" are not synonymous, but are quite different, and if it is the intention of the Legislature to exempt from taxation goods manufactured at the plant and sold at the plant, that is one thing, but if it is intended that they manufacture and sell the goods from the plant, to my mind that is another thing; to be taken from that plant and sold elsewhere, when the goods were manufactured at that particular plant. Therefore, Mr. President, I feel that the bill should be amended, on page 1, line 13, and the word "from" should be stricken out, and the word "at" substituted. Also on line 2, page 3, the word "from" should be stricken out, and the word "at" substituted, to make the bill conform in every respect, and not have a loosely drawn bill passed in the Senate. With that in mind, Mr. President, I ask that this bill go over in order. I have not prepared the amendments.

Mr. GELTZ. I object, Mr. President.

Mr. HEYBURN. I object, Mr. President.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Allegheny state whether the remarks made by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Jaspán, are correct or not.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I do not know whether I understand the question or not. If the gentleman from Fayette means are the remarks correct insofar as how the title of the bill and the sections of the bill read, the remarks are correct.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Then, Mr. President, does the gentleman from Allegheny think we ought to pass the bill with that uncertainty contained in the bill?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I do not agree with the opinion that there is uncertainty. I think a fair interpretation, as indicated by the bill when it came over from the House, is that there was to be exemption for those manufacturing companies of goods sold at their plants or warehouses.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Then, am I to gather from that statement that the gentleman from Allegheny agrees that the words ought to be "at the manufactories."

Mr. GELTZ. No, Mr. President, I do not agree with that. I say I think the interpretation as it is now is such that it would be considered "at" and I do not see that this causes any difficulty in the bill, because it is explained clearly back in other sections, as stated by Senator Jaspán. I do not see there is any confusion or complication in the bill as it reads now.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I think the language of this bill is perfectly clear. In the title it speaks of vending goods manufactured and sold from the factory, which is entirely proper. The gentleman from Philadelphia referred to another section, where it speaks of business transacted at the factory, which again is proper. You would not say "transacted from their factories." It seems to me it is entirely correct in one case to have sales from the factory and in another case to have business transacted at the factories. It is very clear to my mind.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, my objections to this bill is on page 3, line 2. I do not understand the way these brackets were used; the words "or production" are not yet removed from the bill.

Mr. HEYBURN. I have before me printers number 1070, and that is what is on the Calendar.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I am getting a side bar explanation but I still do not understand how the words "or production" are taken out of this bill. Either the printers have adopted a new method of taking words out, or they have left these words in.

I am now told that this bill is going over to the House and can be corrected there. I want to be sure that the record shows, in view of the act which the Chair read, that it is the intention of this Legislature that the words on page 3, line 2, "or production" are not to be included in the bill. I so understand from the Chairman of the Finance Committee, and if that is so, the bracket error can be corrected either in the House or by the Secretary.

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, I just want to point out that there is no error in these brackets so far as I can see. On page 2, line 3, the words "or production" in the bracket that was inserted before the last brackets were put in, are bracketed out by brackets around the whole business.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Now you have confused me a little bit more.

Mr. KEPHART. The way the bill is now amended, it is in exactly the same form the House sent it to the Senate, with the exception of the enactment clause at the top of page 2.

And the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

An Act to amend section four of the act approved the twenty-second day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one (P. L. 720) entitled "An act providing for the taking over by the Commonwealth under certain terms conditions and limitations of certain streets in cities of the second class second class A and third class as State highways and for the improvement construction reconstruction resurfacing and maintenance by the Commonwealth of certain defined widths of said streets imposing duties on such cities and on public utility companies using such streets providing that no assessment shall be made upon the Commonwealth in the elimination of any grade crossing thereon authorizing cities persons associations or corporations to enter into agreements with the Commonwealth to bear a portion of the cost of construction or maintenance providing for the assessment of certain portions of the cost of street improvements on abutting property owners regulating the replacement of certain facilities of public utility companies prohibiting the opening of said streets after improvement without a permit and providing penalty therefor regulating the maintenance of detours authorizing the increase of city indebtedness in certain cases and appropriating money in the Motor License Fund for the purpose of this act" authorizing the Department of Highways to take over structures bridges and viaducts on State highways in cities of the second class A and third class.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

RECONSIDERATION OF SENATE BILL No. 1134
(HOUSE BILL No. 220)

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now reconsider the vote by which Senate Bill No. 1134, (House Bill No. 220), passed third reading.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I voted "aye."

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I voted "aye."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. CARR. Mr. President, before a vote is taken on the motion I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Barr.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BARR. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. CARR. Mr. President, I desire to ask the gentleman from Allegheny the purpose of the motion to reconsider the vote by which this bill passed third reading.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, when this bill was originally drafted, it was a "shall" bill, and I think for third class cities only. When it came to the Senate it was changed from a "shall" bill to a "may" bill, and amended here to include second class cities, that is, second class "A." It is a "may" bill, and I see no reason why second class cities can not come in with third class and second class "A" cities.

Mr. CARR. Mr. President, I want to ask the gentleman from Allegheny if, at this late hour of the session, he feels that it is the proper thing for the second class city of Pittsburgh to inject itself into a bill which was prepared and sponsored and worked for by continuous labor on the part of those who feel that third class cities need this kind of legislation?

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, may I state to the gentleman from Butler that I do not think it is late in the session. I thought that three weeks ago but I think now it is early in the session.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I thank the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Barr, and I ask my colleagues to vote against this motion.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I want to assure the gentleman from Butler, Mr. Carr, that this is not an attempt to sell this bill down the river, as we are just as deeply interested in having this bill made available to third class cities as is the gentleman from Butler; but I want also to assure him we think this is good legislation for the people who reside in third class cities, the people who reside in second class cities "A" and for the citizens of Pennsylvania who happen to reside in cities of the second class. Mr. President, the mere insertion of this amendment, inasmuch as it is a "may" bill, as has been suggested by my distinguished colleague, Senator Barr, will not put an additional burden on the Department of Highways. It will merely permit them, if they so desire, to make available the acquisition of bridges in cities of the second class, as well as cities of the second class "A." I feel and I very humbly suggest that a city of the second class, which happens to be the city of Pittsburgh, is still part of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and we would like to have that recognized occasionally.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I think they are now realizing the fact that there are other parts, these provinces, in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania besides Allegheny and Philadelphia. This bill was introduced as an amendment to the laws pertaining to third class cities. I thought it was a very bad amendment when the gentleman from Lackawanna, Mr. Coleman, introduced his amendment to include second class "A" cities. Now, we have an amendment that second class cities should be included. I see no logical argument against including also the first class cities. The truth of the matter is this, we people who come from rural districts, when we introduce a bill to take care of a rural condition, these boys from the cities team up and kill it with amendments. Then, whenever the people from the first class cities introduce a bill pertaining only to first class cities, we are sold the argument that we who come from rural districts need not be worried, because the bill applies only to cities of the first class, and then, when the gentleman from Allegheny and his colleagues from Allegheny introduce a bill pertaining to second class cities alone, we representatives from the rural districts are told, "Why, you can go along with this bill because it pertains only to second class cities." We representatives of the rural districts, where all of the third class cities are situated, have introduced a bill that would help the rural districts and now come the representatives of cities of the second class "A" second class, and probably first class will make their appearance pretty, soon, and amend to death a bill that was intended to give help to the rural districts and not cities of the second class, second class "A," or cities of the first class.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, in Allegheny County we have third class cities, this is not only a rural bill, and when you mention cities of the first class, whether you know it or not, Senator Cavalcante, the city of Philadelphia receives fifteen million dollars a year refund from the gasoline tax, and the city of Pittsburgh does not receive one cent for maintenance.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I wish to call attention of the Senate to page 4, beginning with line 8, which says:

"But all structures, bridges and viaducts on such state highways in cities of the second class "A" and third class, which are being maintained by the city or county, may be taken over by the Department of Highways upon the effective date of this amendment." Then, Mr. President, the effective date is provided on page 5, line 11, which is July 1, 1941. It seems to me, Mr. President, the bill had better go over for amendment.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. CARR. Roll call, Mr. President.

(During the calling of the roll the following occurred)

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to be recorded as voting "present."

The PRESIDENT. The vote of the gentleman from Philadelphia will be so recorded.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to explain my vote. Since the money provided for in this bill comes from the motor license fund, at least to the extent the Department of Highways shall pay for it, and since Philadelphia has a particular interest in the motor license fund and receives a sum of money annually, I have a personal interest in this bill, coming from a first class city, and I have no right to participate in this bill in any way; so I have come to the conclusion I have a personal interest in this bill, and I, therefore, have voted "present."

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, before the vote is announced I want to say to my colleagues that this bill passed the House with second class cities in it, and it was deleted in the Committee of the Senate.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, having voted under a misapprehension, I desire to change my vote from "no" to "aye."

The PRESIDENT. The vote of the gentleman from Philadelphia will be so recorded.

-------------	-------	-------	----------

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.
Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I desire to explain my vote "no." This bill repeals the existing law that prohibits women from acting as bar maids. We also have another bill some place that permits them to work in these beer gardens or these restaurants or saloons as bar maids, and other dives also, and would sooner see a woman employed somewhere else than in these dives along these highways and in all dark corners of the Commonwealth.

Mr. President, I would not object to any bill that would permit the employment of a bar maid in a hotel where it is open and public and where everybody can see, but I am opposed to these places out in the country where people go, not for the purpose of eating at a restaurant, a bona-fide restaurant, but who go there for other purposes than the purpose of eating and drinking.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I desire to explain my vote "no" on this bill, because if I do not explain it nobody will know I voted "no," but it does not make any difference. My objection to this bill is that in the secrecy of the Republican caucus, I do not know how much time but a long time was occupied in trying to make every member of the Caucus understand whether it was a daughter of the landlord or whether it was the wife of the landlord who could mix drinks behind the bar, and whether the wife of the landlord could bring the drinks to the table or the daughter of the landlord could mix drinks and serve them at the table. My thesis is that if the Liquor Control Board is not qualified and empowered to regulate those things, they ought to be given that power and they ought not take up our very statesmanlike time in trying to decide between the daughter of the landlord and the wife of the landlord, and I object to that.

Mr. SHAPIRO. That is another bill, Mr. President.

Mr. WOODWARD. Then, Mr. President, my remarks may be construed to apply to that bill.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 700, (House Bill No. 99), on third reading, entitled:

An Act to amend sections one and two of the act approved the twenty-fourth day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine (P. L. 806) entitled "An act limiting the number of licenses for the retail sale of liquor malt or brewed beverages or malt and brewed beverages to be issued by the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board defining hotels and prescribing the accommodations required of hotels in certain municipalities" by exempting certain clubs from such limitation and by providing that retail dispenser's licenses may be exchanged or surrendered for liquor licenses without violating the limits upon the number of licenses imposed by such act; and authorizing the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board to effect such exchange or substitution upon compliance with certain conditions.

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 767, (House Bill No. 1095), as follows:

An Act to further amend section six of the act approved the fifth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven (P. L. 198) entitled "An act to establish a county court for the county of Allegheny and prescribing its powers and duties regulating the procedure therein and providing for the expenses thereof" by conferring upon said county court jurisdiction in certain civil actions transferred to it by the Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny County

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 Section six of the act approved the fifth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven (P. L. 198) entitled "An act to establish a county court for the county of Allegheny and prescribing the powers and duties regulating the procedure therein and providing for the expenses thereof" is hereby further amended by adding thereto a new clause to read as follows

Section 6 The court hereby created shall have jurisdiction

(f) In all such civil actions as may be transferred to it by order of the Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny County upon consent of counsel for all parties where the sum demanded or the value of the property replevied does not exceed the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars except in cases where the title to lands or tenements may come in question.

Section 2 The provisions of this act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

And said bill having been read at length the third time, And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. COX. Mr. President, early in the week, three members of the legal profession from Allegheny County attempted to solve a very, very grave problem. Strange to say, or perhaps it is not strange to say, all three members of the legal profession from Allegheny County are absolutely in disagreement. One of the Senators feels that the County Court of Allegheny County should be abolished and for that reason he has started to abolish it by a bill restricting the number of judges from six to four. This particular bill has been emasculated; I think whoever amended it realized that when he did it and now it is not of importance whether the bill passes or whether it fails, because there must be a change of thought on the part of members of the bar of Allegheny County before this bill can accomplish the purpose for which it was introduced, namely, to permit the Common Pleas Court to relieve itself of its very heavy burden by certifying certain cases within the jurisdiction of the county court to the county court.

I could not let this bill come up without adding these remarks to the debate which occurred previously.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I wish to agree with the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Cox, that the three representatives from Allegheny County, who are also members of the bar, are very much in disagreement, and I also agree with him that it is going to take a considerable change in attitude of mind in order to do the right thing. All three seem to agree that one of the grievous things in Allegheny County is that the judges waste too much time with political campaigns, but yesterday, when they had the opportunity to meet that question they voted just the other way in order to add further to the confusion he is talking about.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I have no objection to being in disagreement with my colleagues from Allegheny County, but I do object to the gentleman from Fayette putting words into the mouths of the representatives from Allegheny County.

Answering the remarks of the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. President, I do not agree that our judges spend too much time in politics. It seems to me there is misconception, at least there is insofar as my own personal conclusions are concerned, as to what the prerogatives and the rights of a judge are. A judge is not annointed by God, he is elected by the people, and when he stays out of politics and sits on the bench and goes home every night and ceases attending political meetings, nine years later, when he comes up for re-election, every Republican County Chairman and every Republican committeeman says, "Where have you been for the last nine years; you have not been much help to us while you were on the bench," and he has a hard time getting re-elected.

I want to say, Mr. President, I have no objection to any judge staying in politics, the opinion of the gentleman from Fayette to the contrary notwithstanding; that is how they got elected. They are supposed to be leaders in the community and they should help to crystalize public opinion on public matters, and not bury their talents.

I also want to say to the gentleman from Fayette that when we have a difference of opinion in Allegheny County it is for the common good.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I want to vote for this bill, and if my colleague from Allegheny, Senator Geltz, will permit the amendment, I want to say once again we will be in perfect accord, as we have been through most of this session.

I feel I have the right and a duty to answer the Senator from Fayette. I did not make any comments on the floor of the Senate when this bill came up, because I did not think it was necessary, but now that the gentleman has endeavored to put the three of us from Allegheny County on the spot, I would like to very briefly say that in this Senate we have had bills introduced which would revive the old fifty cent voting certificates, which, of course, was introduced for the purpose of limiting the number of people who would vote; we have had all sorts of measures introduced, but fortunately, thanks to the good sense of a number of the committee chairmen, the bills never reached the floor of the Senate.

We need more people in the United States who are sincerely interested in their government. The word "politics" is not a bad word, it is a good word, and the fact that some people make it a bad word is not indicative of the fact that that is true of every one who is interested in politics. Take for instance, a man who has served on the bench for ten years; he is dealing with economical, social and psychological problems, he is in a position of leadership, and that leadership I know from my own experience with many judges has been very excellent and very fine.

I also object to the Hatch act provisions which unfortunately are placed in our civil service legislation. Again you are taking thousands of people and you are saying to them, "You are working for the Commonwealth, you are working for the federal government, and for that reason you can not have any interest in what your Legislature does or who the candidates for office are." That sort of thing is the very kind of thing that in the end will seriously undermine our Democratic form of government.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

Ordered, That the Clerk return said bill to the House of Representatives with information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments in which the concurrence of the House is requested.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 783, entitled:

An Act to further amend the act approved the twenty-eighth day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five (P. L. 463) entitled as amended "An act providing for the incorporation as bodies corporate and politic of 'Authorities' for municipalities counties and townships defining the same prescribing the rights powers and duties of such Authorities authorizing such Authorities to acquire construct improve maintain and operate projects and to borrow money and issue bonds therefor providing for the payment of such bonds and prescribing the rights of the holders thereof conferring the right of eminent domain on such Authorities authorizing such Authorities to enter into contracts with and to accept grants from the Federal Government or any agency thereof and for other purposes" by changing the method by which notice of the formation of a municipal authority shall be made public further regulating incorporation purposes and existence of the authority defining procedure whereby an authority can enter into contracts and dispose of its bonds imposing additional qualifications and duties on members of the authority imposing civil liability on members of the board and officers of an authority in certain cases requiring annual audits imposing additional duties on the court of common pleas giving authorities right of eminent domain in certain cases extending with certain limitations the power of Authorities to make certain purchases requiring authorities in certain cases to secure certificates of public convenience from the Public Utility Commission imposing duties upon said commission and providing for appeals requiring the filing of financial reports by authorities with and the approval of bond issues by the Department of Internal Affairs and conferring powers and imposing duties upon said department restricting the appointment of members of authorities and limiting their salaries and providing for the voluntary dissolution of authorities.

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments. In explanation I might state these are the amendments I endeavored to offer yesterday but which were incorrect.

The Clerk read the Amendments as follows:

Amend Sec. 1, page 5, by inserting between lines 15 and 14 the following: "(1) the term 'service area' shall mean the municipality or municipalities within the corporate limits of which equipment and facilities are operated or intended to be operated for the accommodation, convenience and service of the public"; Amend Sec. 2, page 11, line 9, by striking out after the word "as" the following: "leasee" and inserting in lieu thereof: "lessee"; Amend Sec. 2, page 15, line 10, by striking out after the word "any" the following: "project" and inserting in lieu thereof: "utility"; Amend Sec. 2, page 17, line 22, by striking out the lightfaced brackets before and after the word "forty" at the end of the line; Amend Sec. 2, page 17, line 23, by striking out the word "thirty" at the beginning of the line; Amend Sec. 2, page 21, line 6, by striking out with light-faced brackets the word "or" after the word "deed" and inserting in lieu thereof: "of"; Amend Sec. 3, page 23, line 22, by inserting after the word "rendered" the following: "or intended to be rendered"; Amend Sec. 3, page 24, line 2, by striking out the following "any one" and inserting in lieu thereof: "such"; Amend Sec. 3, page 23, line 26, by inserting after the word "to" the following: "one"; Amend Sec. 3, page 24, line 18, by inserting after the word "Authority" the following: "and in all existing Authorities after the present terms of the members has expired, the provisions of this act shall apply"; Amend Sec. 3, page 25, line 2, by striking out the word "qualification" and inserting in lieu thereof: "disqualification."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I should like to interrogate the gentleman from Montgomery as to the amendments on page 5. I personally am still confused as to the proper reading of those sections on page 5 of the bill, and inasmuch as I am listed as a co-sponsor, I want to be certain as to what is in the bill. For that reason, Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Montgomery.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Montgomery permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. EDMONDS. With pleasure, Mr. President.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I desire to ask the Senator from Montgomery if he will have the reading clerk read the amendment that was inserted on page 5, and I would like to direct the gentleman's attention to the fact that on line 14, page 5, there is a bold-face bracket before the numeral (1), and according to the way I understood the reading of the amendment, there was also the numeral (1) inserted after the word "municipality" on line 13. I would like to have that clear. I should also like to inquire if the bracket before the word "shall" on line 14, and the bracket at the end of the word "public" on line 17 are to remain in the bill, and if they are, I would like to also ask the gentleman if the bracket at the bottom of the page, at the end of line 29, is to remain in the bill.

Mr. EDMONDS. May I say to the gentleman from Allegheny that is what caused the trouble yesterday. All of these two paragraphs are bracketed out; they are bracketed out by the first bracket before it and the last bracket at the end of the page, and, I think, the lines at the top of the next page, and in place of this there is a new definition of "service area".

The PRESIDENT. Will the clerk read the amendment referred to on page 5.

The Clerk again read the amendment.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, is there another amendment following that on page 5? I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Montgomery.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Montgomery permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. EDMONDS. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I desire to direct the gentleman's attention to line 14, in which there are two left-hand brackets appearing on that line in bold-face type, I would like to ask the gentleman what those two brackets do.

Mr. EDMONDS. The second bracket came out by one of the original amendments made by someone, but the first bracket strikes out those entire two paragraphs. If the gentleman will read them he will discover that the idea of "service area" seemed to be places where there were facilities and we wanted "service area" to mean places where service was rendered or intended to be rendered, so we substituted our new definition.

Mr. WALKER. My interrogation is directed particularly to the brackets that are placed in paragraph one, beginning with line 14, page 5, from there on.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, the whole of those paragraphs are out; lines 14 to 29, inclusive, are out, and also the first two lines I think on the next page; they are all out. They are bracketed out by the first bracket and the last bracket, and they carry with them the other two brackets, and in place of that comes this new definition of "service area".

I think there are still some amendments the Clerk has not read.

The Clerk again read the amendments.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, to go back to page 5, there is purely a technical error, but I think we ought to have no misunderstanding. The gentleman from Allegheny was referring to the amendment inserted on page 5, after line 13, between lines 13 and 14, and referred to the numeral "1". When the gentleman from Allegheny referred to the "1", am I correct that he should have referred to the letter "L". Am I correct, Senator Edmonds, that it should be the letter "L" instead of numeral "1".

Mr. EDMONDS. The gentleman from Lackawanna is correct. It is intended to be the letter "L" instead of the numeral "1". It was misread.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading, as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That said bill as amended be printed for the use of the Senate.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 909, as follows:

An Act to further amend section two hundred twenty-seven of the act approved the second day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. L. 1278) entitled "An act relating to counties of the second third fourth fifth sixth seventh and eighth classes and revising amending and consolidating the laws relating thereto" providing for the appointment of minute clerks in certain courts in counties of the third class

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 Section two hundred twenty-seven of the act approved the second day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. L. 1278) entitled "An act relating to counties of the second third fourth fifth sixth seventh and eighth classes and revising amending and consolidating the laws relating thereto" as last amended by the act approved the twenty-first day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five (P. L. 361) is hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 227 In Counties of the Second and Third Class Appointment of Minute Clerks by the Courts of Common Pleas and Courts of Quarter Sessions and Oyer and Terminer In counties of the second and third class the court of common pleas and the court of quarter sessions and oyer and terminer shall respectively appoint minute clerks of said courts. Such clerks shall receive such salaries as the court making their appointment may fix and shall give bond in such sum as the respective courts may direct. This act shall not affect the power of the prothonotary of Allegheny County to appoint clerks of the county court for the County of Allegheny under the provisions of section five of the act approved the fifth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven (P. L. 198) entitled "An act to establish a county court for the county of Allegheny and prescribing its powers and duties regulating the procedure therein and providing for expenses thereof" or its amendments.

And said bill having been read at length the third time,
On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Miller.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Luzerne permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MILLER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to ask the gentleman from Luzerne whether or not, under the terms of this bill, the judges of the Court of Common Pleas in third class counties do not have unlimited authority to appoint any number of clerks.

Mr. MILLER. I do not believe that is correct, Mr. President; I am not certain as to that statement.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to read a portion of the bill which has very forcibly directed my attention to the fact that they can appoint any number they desire. The bill reads:

"In counties of the second and third class Appointment of Minute Clerks by the Courts of common pleas and courts of quarter sessions and oyer and terminer. In counties of the second and third class, the court of common pleas and the court of quarter sessions and oyer and terminer shall respectively appoint minute clerks of said courts. Such clerks shall receive such salaries as the court making their appointment may fix and shall give bond in such sum as the respective courts may direct."

Mr. President, I desire to inquire of the gentleman from Luzerne whether that indicates they could appoint any number of them, without limit.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I might say the bill was sponsored by myself to promote efficiency in the handling of court work. In the County of Luzerne minute clerks are appointed by the prothonotary of that particular county, and I am definitely of the opinion those particular appointments should be made by a court of the particular county. I do not believe the court has any discretion in the appointment of these minute clerks. I might say, in certain counties, minute clerks are appointed by the prothonotary subject to approval of the court, but that is not the case in my particular county.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 956, (House Bill No. 489), on third reading, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Trustees of the University of Pittsburgh for the general maintenance of and the purchase of apparatus and equipment for the University of Pittsburgh and for the maintenance of teaching facilities in hospitals for students in the School of Medicine

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 1043, (House Bill No. 571), on third reading, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Public Assistance for the purpose of carrying out the Public Assistance Law for the two fiscal years beginning June first one thousand nine hundred forty-one and for the payment of assistance and expenses accrued or incurred prior to and remaining unpaid on May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred forty-one and providing for certain allocations from such appropriation by the Department of Public Assistance and also by the Governor the Auditor General and the State Treasurer or the majority thereof

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

RESOLUTION

REQUIRING INFORMATION FROM SECRETARY OF DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC ASSISTANCE

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. HALUSKA offered the following resolution which was twice read:

In the Senate, July 1, 1941.

Whereas, There has been introduced in the Senate of Pennsylvania, Resolution Serial No. 118, by Messrs, Haluska and Wade, and

Whereas, Such Resolution was adopted by this body on April 2, 1941, and

Whereas, This Resolution was concurred in by the House on April 15, and a copy of this Resolution was transmitted to the Secretary of the Department of Public Assistance by the Secretary of the Senate, and,

Whereas, It is apparent that the Department of Public Assistance has not enforced the contents of the above mentioned Resolution within their rules and regulations covering the granting of public assistance under certain conditions, therefore be it

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Department of Public Assistance report to the Senate by not later than July 7, 1941, his conclusions as to whether or not the contents of Resolution No. 118 will be carried out.

MOTION TO SUSPEND RULE 39

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I did not intend to object to immediate consideration of this resolution, but I think it is necessary that I do so, because of some of the whereas clauses. I am not certain the Senators would want to vote on this resolution until they have had an opportunity to study it. Therefore, Mr. President, I do object to immediate consideration.

MOTION TO PROCEED WITH CONSIDERATION OF CALENDAR

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that we proceed with consideration of the Calendar.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I do not know whether my motion was in order or not, but I moved that we now proceed with consideration of the Calendar.

The PRESIDENT. The motion of the gentleman from Allegheny was in order but the Chair did not hear a seconding of the motion.

Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated as requested by the gentleman from Cambria.

Mr. GELTZ. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Allegheny tell us just what he objects to in that resolution.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I would like an opportunity to examine it. I think I recall some wording to the effect "whereas it is apparent that the Department of Public Assistance has not complied" with a certain resolution, and I am not certain we want to go on record as saying that is a fact.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I certainly thought the resolution would meet with no objection, but I am willing to strike out any objectionable features they would want. All I want is that we have the report here by Monday. I am willing to strike that section out, if there is objection to it.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, that is the reason for objecting to immediate consideration, so that the wording can be corrected and a proper resolution be passed.

The PRESIDENT. There has been objection to immediate consideration of the resolution, which will therefore be referred to the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I desire to withdraw that resolution and rewrite it so that it may meet with the approval of the gentleman from Allegheny, so that we might pass upon it today. I will be too happy to have it rewritten as the gentleman desires.

RESOLUTION WITHDRAWN

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, at this time I ask permission to withdraw the resolution.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is unable to grant the request of the gentleman from Cambria, as it has already been referred to the Committee of Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions. Only by the consent of the Senate can the request of the gentleman from Cambria be granted.

Mr. HALUSKA. I request such consent, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Cambria that he be granted permission to withdraw the resolution? The Chair hears none.

The resolution is withdrawn.

CONSIDERATION OF CALENDAR

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that we continue with consideration of the Calendar.

Mr. FARRELL. I second the motion, Mr. President.
It was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 1071, (House Bill No. 1380), entitled:

An Act to further amend the act approved the eighteenth day of July one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (P. L. 1043) entitled "An act establishing a public school employees' retirement system and creating a retirement board for the administration thereof establishing certain funds from contributions by the Commonwealth and contributing employees defining the uses and purposes thereof and the manner of payments therefrom and providing for the guaranty by the Commonwealth of certain of said funds imposing powers and duties upon boards having the employment of public school employes exempting annuities allowances returns benefits and rights from taxation and judicial process and providing penalties" by permitting certain contributors to contribute on the basis of salary earnable during the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-two one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three or on the basis of salary earnable in the payroll period for which the deductions are made and permitting certain contributors who have heretofore elected to contribute either on the basis of salary earnable during the year one thousand nine hundred thirty-two one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three or on the basis of the salary earnable in the payroll period for which the deductions are made to change their elections and requiring the Commonwealth to contribute on the same basis as the contributor

And said bill having been read at length the third time,
On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I hesitate to take up the time of this Senate to say a word against this bill, because the hour is getting late, and my colleague from Dauphin County and I have such a long way to travel home.

However, Mr. President, I desire to call attention to the fact that this is an amendment to the public school employes retirement system. That system is predicated upon a principle which in substance is that if an employe will save a certain portion of his or her salary, the state will match that portion, and they will have a retirement fund when old age comes on that will be sufficient, or at least partly sufficient, to take care of them for life. A second principle involved in the general law is that the state guarantees the entire fund.

This bill, in substance, from information we have, affects employes who are employed by the Philadelphia Board of Education, and the reason for the bill is that Philadelphia, on account of necessity, reduced the salaries of their teachers, I think the amount was ten per cent. This bill would enable them to contribute either on the basis of their earnings before the reduction was made or on their present basis.

I say to the members of this Senate in opposing this bill that the proper way to approach the question of the foundation of the principle of a retirement system, the proper way to approach a subject of that kind, if Philadelphia is so much interested in having its employes retire on a high plane, or a high basis, is that they should return to the teachers or the employes their original salary, rather than give them an advantage over other employes throughout the state.

Therefore, Mr. President, I ask my colleagues to oppose this measure.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, the question that arises in my mind concerns that section of the act which says the state must contribute an equal amount, which is the present law. Now, if employes received a twenty per cent reduction, and now under this bill it enables them to come in under the highest possible earnings that they could have had in that particular year or group of years, by paying a certain amount themselves to make up the difference between what they received and what they could have received, is it entirely fair to say that the state must also contribute on the basis of what they could have received? That is the point I question, whether or not this is a very sound piece of legislation.

All of us had to take salary cuts during the years of depression, we all were in the same boat, and there was nothing we could do about it; we just had to live through it, that is all and go along on the proposition.

Mr. President, I am not so sure this is very sound legislation, when we say the state must contribute on the basis of highest possible earnings that a person might have received during that period from 1932 to 1939, and I think you will find it will increase very much the amount the state has to contribute to the retirement pension fund. I still can not see the logic of saying Philadelphia teachers alone ought to be the ones that ought to get the benefit of such a benevolent attitude on the part of the Senate and the House. If we are going to do it, let us do it for all the teachers of the state.

Therefore, Mr. President, I quite agree with my colleague from Cumberland, Mr. Wade, and will vote against the bill.

Mr. HOMSHER. Mr. President, I think every member of the General Assembly has a vital interest in keeping the teachers retirement fund intact, and making sure that no legislation be passed which will adversely affect the fund. This bill will not adversely affect the retirement fund. The matter has been gone over most carefully with the actuary for the retirement fund and he has approved passage of this bill, because it will not affect the fund.

This bill, Mr. President, is principally designed to take care of seventy-five teachers in the City of Philadelphia. During the 1932 school year, teachers in the elementary grades were reduced from $2,400 to $2,200 in salary. Most of the teachers at that time continued to pay into the fund on the $2,400 basis, and have continued since that time to pay on the $2,400 basis. Some teachers did not understand they could do that and consequently only paid into the retirement fund on a $2,200 basis. The effect of this bill is that it will cost the City of Philadelphia and the State of Pennsylvania four dollars per year, for payments to the fund during the years that these teachers received the reduced salary. If these teachers retire in later years, their annuity will be increased one hundred dollars.

Mr. President, the school board of Philadelphia is very desirous that these teachers be taken care of, and they can not legally contribute the whole amount, the teacher must contribute his or her part and the State can not now contribute its part.

Mr. President, I think this is good legislation, because these teachers simply acted under a misapprehension when they did not pay on the $2,400 basis for those years. They are given a certain number of years to make up those payments, and if they do not make them up, of course, they do not receive the additional annuity in case they retire. They are given until 1942 to make up these back payments.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I should like to interrogate the gentleman from Lancaster, for the purpose of making clear one point.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Lancaster permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HOMSHER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, is it not true that which we are now doing was previously the law? In other words, did not the teachers have the right to contribute on the basis of their actual earnings.

Mr. HOMSHER. They did have that right at that time,

Mr. President, but they forfeited that right by not acting and this gives them a retroactive right to make those payments.

Mr. SHAPIRO. And the only purpose of this amendment Mr. President, is to give those seventy-five teachers, who misunderstood their right to pay in an additional sum, the same rights as all the other teachers have in Philadelphia.

Mr. HOMSHER. That is correct, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. At a cost of around $300 a year for each year during which this right was lost?

Mr. HOMSHER. That is correct, Mr. President.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I should like to answer the gentleman from Lancaster, when he said there had been unfairness in the statements by the gentleman from Westmoreland and myself, that this would affect the entire school employees retirement system. I do not believe that is correct; in fact, it would have no effect so far as solvency is concerned.

Mr. President, that fund has some $190,000,000 in it, and I think a good bit of that should be lapsed back to the Commonwealth—possibly not a good bit, but a portion of it—so long as we have a law in the State of Pennsylvania, which says: "Regular interest charges payable, the creation and maintenance of reserves in the contingent reserve fund, and the maintenance of employees' annuity reserves and state annuity reserves as provided for in this act, and the payment of all retirement allowances and other benefits granted by the retirement board under the provisions of this act, are hereby made obligations of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania," with that we know that the fund is all right and sound. However, the question at issue now is the disturbance of the equilibrium or balance created by the original act or intended by the original act, to keep it on a level plane all the way through, and let the teachers contribute in proportion to the amount contributed by the state or in direct proportion to the salary they actually received.

If we are going to throw that principle to the winds and disturb the balance of the fund, there is just no place to stop. There is no reason to say this will affect only seventy-five teachers. I say to you, members of the Senate, we do not know how many teachers it will affect, unless we make a survey and find out how many teachers were reduced in salary during the last ten years in Pennsylvania.

Yesterday we had a discussion with the actuary of the State Employees Retirement Fund and found that while possibly only three or four hundred employees were affected, yet a single premium necessary to now re-establish that fund will be about four or five hundred dollars, which would create a tremendous additional obligation on the Commonwealth. Then again, let me remind you that when this fund was first established it required a direct contribution not payable at one time, but a direct contribution of $61,000,000 to set up the fund.

Therefore, Mr. President, I say keep the fund sound, and secondly, keep intact the principle as originally adopted, and do not disturb it by throwing it off balance.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I believe when important bills like this come before us we should try to take into consideration the many angles and try to be fair.

I ask the Senators who intend to vote for this bill whether they in turn next week would vote for a bill, we will say, for a laborer, who during the years of the depression had his wages reduced, or his earnings reduced anywhere from twenty to forty per cent, because of his inability to get the number of hours of work, or else a regular wage reduction. Would you accept the principle next week of saying to the employers of Pennsylvania that if you contribute to the Social Security Board for a retirement pension, an individual social security pension, or an old age pension, would you say to them now we should establish a principle where an employe can say: "in 1935, if I had been working full time I could have earned two thousand dollars, whereas actually my earnings were only about nine hundred dollars; however, I want to increase the benefits that I shall receive when I come to the age of retirement, the actual benefits that I would receive from unemployment compensation if I had been able to pay on the basis of my full wage or my full salary, and therefore I want to come into the Legislature and ask permission to pay on the basis of what I might have earned or could have earned if I had worked full time."

Mr. President, I think you are establishing a principle here that you have got to be willing to carry further. You can not say that school teachers ought to be allowed to retire on the basis of what he or she could have earned, and then say to the common employe in industry, they can not retire on the basis of what they could have earned; but say to such an employe "you are a victim of the depression; you can only get that amount which you in turn paid into the fund."

Mr. President, I think this is very unsound legislation, unless you are willing to go the whole way and take care of everybody on the same basis.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, we have on our Calendar a whole series of bills which I might call personal bills, for persons who desire to get in under the retirement system. We passed one of those bills today, which cut down the number of years of service from fifteen to fourteen. It was said that bill would only permit one or two persons to get a pension under the retirement system, but that might mean we would give pensions to one, two, three, four or half a dozen persons who were not heretofore entitled to pensions. It was purely and simply a personal bill for those few persons, and we really should not have passed that bill.

This is another bill of that character. It is said it affects only a few teachers in Philadelphia but I do not concede that is the case. If I recall rightly, in my own county in some of our school districts, the teachers were reduced in salary during the years of depression, and I do not know how much this would require the school boards of those districts to make up, to pay into this fund. Then, also, the state will have to go back to those years and pay in a certain amount of money in order to make the fund solvent. My information is that at the present time the State of Pennsylvania owes both the employes retirement fund and the school teachers retirement fund a number of millions of dollars, nine million dollars or more, which will be required to pay out the amounts which will be required under these acts. We do not need that money immediately, because under the ordinary course of events it will not all be demanded, but in order to make that fund actuarially sound the State of Pennsylvania owes a considerable number of millions of dollars.

I think the principle of this bill is wrong, as the Senator from Cumberland has said. There was a provision in the act originally governing those persons up to September, 1935, to make this election. Now it is changed to 1942, and next session you will want to change it to another year, and say you want to permit certain other teachers to have that advantage. Why, now, there are fifty or seventy-five teachers, whatever it might be, who would come in under this provision, and every time we pass one of these bills permitting someone who did not take advantage of his rights when he should have, to come in now and make contributions for previous years we are putting an additional obligation on the State and the school districts.

I think the bill is wrong in principle even if it only takes a hundred dollars out of the state.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

ARTHUR H. JAMES.

BILL INTRODUCED

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, on February 26th, we presented a resolution in the Senate calling upon various boards, departments and commissions of the Commonwealth to furnish the Committee on Judiciary General of the Senate with copies of their rules and regulations. We were served with a large volume of rules and regulations that had been reduced to writing, and we also received long verbal reports from a number of boards and commissions which had never bothered to reduce their rules and regulations to writing. They were operating under the same old principle that we used when we were kids and played "cowboy and Indian"; they made up rules as they went along. We have had some examples since February of the evils of legislation by bureaucracy, and we feel it is time we should put a stop to it by some tangible, effective method.

This afternoon on the floor of the Senate, Mr. President, attention was called to a situation that has arisen, where one of the departments on the Hill has ignored a joint resolution of the Legislature. In referring to the Department of Public Assistance I do not want to convey the impression I am picking it out for criticism, because I find that generally there is a lot of legislation by bureaucracy going on all over the Hill.

I called the Department of Public Assistance this afternoon and asked them if they were aware of the joint resolution referred to by the gentleman from Cambria, Senator Haluska, and they said they were. I asked them if they were going to recognize it, and I was told very carefully by Mr. Bowman, deputy secretary, that the State Executive Board had made a rule of its own after being served with a copy of this joint resolution. I explained to him the rule they had adopted was contrary to the joint resolution and he promptly explained to me that they did not have to take recognition or cognizance of any resolution passed by the Legislature.

Mr. President, I hesitate to resort to gutter talk on the floor of this Senate, but it looks to me as though a department created by the Legislature is "thumbing its nose" at the authority that created it, and that is a situation highly intolerable if our democratic system of government is to endure. That department was put over here by the Legislature and now they have passed rules and regulations that are circumventing the expressed will of the Legislature.

The Joint State Government Commission, which was created and which had an appropriation at one time, made a very thorough study of the rules and regulations of the various departments and boards, and they are preparing a detailed report which will be presented to the Legislature in the near future. The Committee on Judiciary General in the Senate cooperated with the Joint State Government Commission's sub-committee working on that detailed report, and we feel that the Senate should not be cursed with two reports dealing with an identical subject, and therefore we are leaving the detailed report to the Joint State Government Commission, in the hope that eventually they will have an appropriation and be able to put the report on the desks of the Senators.

Mr. President, in order to effectively curb this legislation by bureaucracy, the sub-committee on Judiciary General desires to offer a bill, and I want to say, Mr. President, we are not optimistic; because we are still firmly of the opinion that you and I will decorate a Christmas tree this Christmas during a session of the Senate.

BILL INTRODUCED

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to introduce a bill at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. WALKER read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 1307, entitled:

An Act requiring approval by the Attorney General in order to make effective any rule or regulation prescribed, proposed or adopted by any department, board or commission of the Commonwealth; and imposing duties on the Attorney General.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I desire permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Washington may proceed.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, much has been said this afternoon about the action of the Department of Public Assistance. As I view it, the Department of Public Assistance is working under the law; they are working under the act of 1937. I hold no brief for the Department of Public Assistance, because I fought them even before passage of the act of 1937. I vehemently opposed passage of that bill on the floor of this Senate; I voted against it, and I did everything I could to prevent its passage. The Department of Public Assistance is today working under that Act of Assembly, and they are lawfully working under that Act of Assembly, and the only way I can see that you can get rid of their activities is to repeal that Act of Assembly. That is the legal way to do it.

The gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Woodward, had the right idea; he presented a bill here to repeal the act of 1937. That is the act under which the department is working today, and it does not make any difference how many resolutions are introduced in this Senate, if the Department of Public Assistance can say, "we will not recognize them, because they are not legal; we are working under a law properly passed by the House of Representatives and by the Senate and signed by the Governor," and until the proper legal procedure is followed to do away with that Act of Assembly, to cut the foundation out from under the Department of Public Assistance, the director can still say to us here in the Senate, "you can pass all the resolutions you want, we will work under the Act of 1937 and we will be within our legal rights."

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 1079, (House Bill No. 1597), as follows:

A Supplement to the act approved the twenty-second day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one (P. L. 594) entitled "An act establishing certain township roads as State highways authorizing their construction maintenance and improvement under certain conditions and restrictions limiting the obligation of the Commonwealth in the construction of certain structures located on such highways conferring certain powers upon the Department of Highways and local authorities, persons associations and corporations for sharing the cost of the maintenance and construction of such highways and making an appropriation to carry out the provisions of said act" establishing an additional route in the County of Lebanon

Section 1 In addition to the township roads adopted as State highways in the County of Lebanon by the act to which this is a supplement the following section of township road in said county is hereby adopted to be taken over and to be maintained and constructed at the expense of the Commonwealth upon the terms and conditions and subject to the limitations and conditions provided in the act to which this is a supplement

Beginning at a point on Route 38048 about 0.5 of a mile west of its intersection with Route 38062 thence in a general northerly direction through Union Township to a point on Route 38003 in Lebanon County a distance of about 1.1 miles

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That said bill as amended be printed for the use of the Senate.

PERMISSION REQUESTED TO INTRODUCE RESOLUTION

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 1212, (House Bill No. 1760).

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I ask that the bill be read at length.

The PRESIDENT. That is not necessary; the rules of the Senate provide proper procedure.

The Clerk will read the bill.

PERMISSION REQUESTED TO INTRODUCE RESOLUTION

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, in order to expedite the business of this session, I ask unanimous consent to offer a short resolution at this time, and I ask its immediate adoption.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the request of the Senator from Cambria?

Mr. GELTZ. There is objection, Mr. President. There has been a motion adopted by this body that we proceed with consideration of the Calendar. I will have no objection to the presentation of the resolution when we have completed consideration of the Calendar.

The PRESIDENT. There is objection to introduction of the resolution.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I have listened time and time again while we have deviated from the order of business, to permit bills to be introduced, we have even permitted committee meetings, we have permitted reports of committee to be made and there was no objection. I have shown my colleagues that courtesy and at no time have I objected to that procedure.

I offered a resolution this afternoon to which the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz, objected I then asked that it be withdrawn to give me sufficient time to prepare another resolution which I now have and which I am sure will meet the gentleman's approval. The gentleman from Allegheny has not shown me the courtesy of permitting me to offer this resolution, which would take about two minutes to read.

Therefore, Mr. President, while I feel that some of my friends would like to get home, and I also want to go home, I shall stand pat and ask, Mr. President, that every bill be read in full and in detail until the gentleman makes up his mind to extend to me the courtesy I have extended to him.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, may I answer that by saying it is not a question of showing anybody courtesy. We have been here three hours and have only reached page twelve of a forty-two page Calendar, and it is necessary that we proceed with the Calendar and transact our business in an orderly manner.

Mr. EALY. I would like to ask the gentleman from Cambria whether he will reconsider his request; it will not take very long to complete the calendar.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I am not known to weaken too often, but the gentleman from Somerset has been very courteous and I am going to withdraw my request, but I want to go on record as stating that I want to be treated as I treat others. I do not care when we adjourn, and if once again they tramp on my toes I promise all my colleagues I will stand pat and request that every bill be read in full; I shall use my prerogatives to the fullest extent. I think I have been treated very discourteously by the gentleman from Allegheny, but in view of the request of my colleague from Somerset, Mr. Ealy, I shall yield. After we are through with the Calendar, I trust the Chair will recognize me and give me opportunity to present my resolution.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair gives notice he is prepared to stay here as long as is necessary.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Kephart.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. KEPHART. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I should like to know why the gentleman removes the purpose clause from the bill; I think the purpose clause is very important.

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, the purpose clause says:

"Section 1. Reason and purpose. (a) The Legislature hereby finds that the existence in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania of the practice whereby employers sell or procure for sale to employees or other persons any merchandise not of the employer's own production or not handled in the regular course of the employer's business is detrimental to the health, safety, morals, convenience and general well-being of the public, in that such practice (1) results in the loss of taxes to the Commonwealth and the various taxing instrumentalities existent in the Commonwealth; (2) unreasonably interferes with and diverts the proper and normal flow of trade and commerce; (3) constitutes an unfair method of competition by such employers against others engaged in commerce:

"(b) It is hereby declared to be the policy of this act through the exercise by the Legislature of its police powers to correct and to eliminate the conditions referred to above declaring certain sales to constitute unfair competition and prohibiting same."

Mr. President, it will be noted that the first reason given as to why it is detrimental to the health, safety, morals, convenience and general well-being, is that it results in loss of taxes to the Commonwealth and the various taxing instrumentalities existing in the Commonwealth.

Now, Mr. President, to make that declaration as a finding of this legislative body, without any investigation to prove it, I think is unsound; if it does do that, the place to correct it is in the taxing laws in the Commonwealth, not in a declaration of policy in this bill.

The other two points are likewise subject to the same criticism, and it seems to me the whole paragraph is what might come under the heading of "fooferaw."

Mr. President, the body of the bill is contained in the second section, and that is all that is necessary. You do not need all these appendages and they can be very well dropped and thereby the amount of material in the pamphlet laws will be reduced by that extent, by eliminating this unnecessary paragraph.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the gentleman's association with a lawyer of high standing in the Commonwealth has made him very able, I am quite sure, but at the same time if the gentleman intended to kill this bill I think it would be much more to the interest of the Senators that he say so. He takes out the entire purpose clause of the bill. I agree with him there is nothing in this bill I can see offhand which will protect the health of the community. There may be something in it as to morals, because we all know and our committee agreed—while the Senate has not yet studied the bill, the Committee on Judiciary General studied it, and we came to the conclusion there is a great deal in the transactions effected by this bill which affect the morals and fair trade in a community—and it is my opinion essential that this bill shall have a purpose clause in order to establish its standing and for the purpose of giving a court the intent of the Legislature when this bill comes up for action, as it certainly will, concerning those who have in many instances corrupted the morals of the community in their methods of handling sales of these goods they do not themselves manufacture, and in which they deal with their employees.

Mr. President, if we want to kill this bill let us vote it down, but if we do not want to kill the bill let us not have amendments in the eleventh hour, at a time like this, when the bill has been in and out of committee on several occasions, at which times the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Kephart, who is a member of the committee, could have raised these questions.

I seriously and sincerely object to the introduction of amendments to the bill at this time and ask my colleagues to vote "no" on the amendments.

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, with reference to this bill being in and out of a committee of which I was a member, I was present at a meeting at which this bill was first considered, and it is my recollection that the action of those who considered it was to indefinitely postpone it. Who put the breath of life in it after that time I do not know.

With respect to the suggestion that this bill might have something to do with public morals, may I refer the gentleman from Philadelphia to page 3, lines 10 and 15, which state the same things which are being cut out, namely, that this constitutes unfair competition.

In further reply and in further answer to the gentleman from Philadelphia, may I point out to him the other provisions contained in this proposed amendment? This bill prohibits employers from selling goods not produced by them, or goods out of the course of their ordinary business, not only to employees but to any other person. In other words, if I were to manufacture or sell a certain type of goods and had a piano I wanted to sell, I not only could not sell the piano to my employe but I could not sell it to any other person. Certainly the Legislature did not intend to make this bill cover that situation and therefore the words "or any other person" were deleted.

Mr. President, the next amendment is at line 25, page 2, where, "beverages" is included. The bill does not apply to the sale of beverages, just the same as with meals, candy, cigarettes and cigars, so that those corporations that sell meals, candy, cigarettes and cigars may also sell Coca-Cola and soft drinks.

The other provision that was amended, Mr. President, is on page 3, where the remedy clause is clarified so that everybody knows the only action that can be had under the bill is an action in equity, and that an action for damages could not be brought.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, as I understand the bill, as it started out, it was to protect retailers and persons holding mercantile licenses but it now covers manufacturers, for instance, who, under the guise of selling their own goods, have developed the what is known as "I can get it for you wholesale" racket.

In other words, Mr. President, a purchasing agent of a large concern has access into many, many manufacturers who produce household goods and necessities and semi-luxuries and luxuries. Take an agent whose livelihood is not based upon what amount of goods he can sell but upon the fact that he works for a certain company—he can sell half a dozen refrigerators on a low margin proposition of five or ten dollars, a sort of gift proposition, which cuts out all persons in the State of Pennsylvania who do a legitimate business selling refrigerators and other household necessities. That is all the bill started out to be.

I learned long ago, Mr. President, there are three ways of killing a bill. One way is to have it killed in committee, never have it come out of committee; another way is to have it committed to Senator Chapman's Appropriations Committee, and a third way is to have my friend Senator Kephart amend it. Mr. President, it looks to me like the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Kephart, has learned his lesson very well because if this goes through it certainly will allow everything that has been done before and if you want a refrigerator or a fur coat or a set of tires, for instance, you can get them wholesale. I could add maybe I could get you a set of tires wholesale, but I will not.

I just want to say let us be fair in this thing. Mr. President, this bill has been before us quite a long time. There is no necessity for amendments in the last minute. I do agree with the gentleman on the beverage amendment, I think that is entirely fair. But, however, you have a few other things in there I am not so sure of; much as I admire and respect the gentleman from Philadelphia, I am not so sure he is doing exactly what the sponsor of the bill wanted done, and I think it is unfair to take a bill sponsored by a man—I have made similar statements previously in connection with the tax abatement bill—when I introduce a bill or you introduce a bill, I think the thing you start out to do ought to be left intact. You may amend the way in which I try to do it or you try to do it, but it is unfair to change the entire purpose of the bill and at the same time still leave on it the name of the sponsor of the bill, because then that man, who probably deserves credit for putting in the bill, is entirely to blame for something he never intended to do.

Mr. President, I would suggest to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Kephart, that if he is sincere with his amendments—and I believe him to be sincere—then he should allow the amendments to be inserted in the bill, without agreeing to the bill as amended, in order that we may look the bill over and see what it amounts to.

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, the suggestion of the gentleman from Westmoreland is agreeable to me.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, we can not do that. These amendments should be voted on separately.

Mr. DENT. Thank you, Mr. President. The reason we should not vote on the amendments separately—and this is very practical now, is that the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Kephart, is a Republican and I am a Democrat, and if he insists he will get the votes, so I suggest that the amendments be printed in the bill so that we may look them over from a practical viewpoint. However, Mr. President, I am willing to stay here and vote on them separately, if it is so desired, but I think my solution of the problem is better than the one which has been suggested.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I would like to ask some of the Senators who know more about the origin of this bill than myself as to whether, in its original form, it was not identical with the Wisconsin statute on this subject, a statute which has been interpreted by the courts? If so, would there not be an advantage in carrying this bill in the original form on which the courts have already passed? Am I correct in so understanding?

Mr. SHAPIRO. That is correct, Mr. President. That is the reason I am objecting to the first paragraph being taken out.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I have enough difficulty in taking care of my responsibilities to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and accordingly I can not answer the interrogation of the gentleman from Montgomery concerning Wisconsin, but I would like to make this comment: to the everlasting credit of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Kephart he has incorporated more of his ideas in Senate bills through the medium of amendments than any other member of the Senate.

I do not question his motives; on many occasions perhaps his amendments have had a clarifying effect on bills, but I am inclined to think in this particular instance his amendments destroy the original purpose and intention of the bill and I want to raise my voice in feeble protest against the insertion of the amendments in the bill and ask my colleagues to vote them down.

Mr. KEPHART. May I say, Mr. President, in reply to the remarks of the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, the gentleman from Lackawanna, Mr. Coleman, and the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, that it is perfectly O. K. with me to put these amendments in as a whole and let the bill go over in its order, without reading, and it is also perfectly all right with me to vote on them separately.

MOTION TO VOTE ON AMENDMENTS SEPARATELY

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I move we vote on the amendments separately.

Mr. DENT. I second the motion, Mr. President.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, before the motion is acted upon I want to say I talked to the head of a business concern in Philadelphia, who was formerly from my county, and he told me at the present time there has been deflected out of the retail trade in my county approximately three millions of dollars and that in Philadelphia at present there is, he said, roughly twenty millions of dollars taken away from retailers by the fact that these people can sell at wholesale prices.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I think we should not only vote down all the amendments, but we ought to vote against the bill itself. We have heard all the discussions for the protection of those who are retailers, but we have not heard a word from anybody about protecting the rights of the people who buy these necessities of life.

Mr. President, I am in favor of permitting the people of this Commonwealth to buy their necessities of life where and how they can buy them, for as cheap a price as possible, and this bill is intended to keep prices up, to protect surely the retailers, but it also makes the people who buy these necessities of life pay a higher price, and I think that we ought to soon turn our minds towards the proposition of making it just as convenient and cheap as possible for the people of this Commonwealth to buy their necessities of life.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I do not want to disagree with the gentleman from Fayette, but I just want to call attention to a few things that he has overlooked. Everybody must operate in the sphere that they are entitled to operate by the activities that they engage in, and if a magistrate at home or a justice of peace can give me certain legal advice, because of the fact that he is learned a little of the law, I am not permitted to get it from him because the lawyers do not think it is right. Attorneys have to study law, attorneys have to go to school and attorneys believe they are entitled to the sole privilege of dealing in matters pertaining to law. So, those who have mercantile licenses in Pennsylvania certainly should have the right to sell at retail, they certainly ought to be protected by the licenses they obtain, for which they pay a license fee, and no person, because he receives a five or ten dollar commission on an article that normally sells for two hundred fifty or three hundred dollars—when he is not compelled to have a license, he is not required to pay a legitimate license fee for doing a mercantile business—certainly that man should not be allowed to do that type of business.

Mr. President, I have voted to protect lawyers in their sphere of things, I have voted to protect doctors in their sphere of things and their sphere of activity, and I have voted to protect laborers in their various activities, and I shall vote today to protect the retail merchant in his sphere.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, as I understand this bill, from a reading thereof and from communications I have received from various retailers, this bill will only affect a favored few; it will not affect all the people; it will affect those who are close or friendly with certain wholesalers or certain employes. They will be the ones that will be favored, but the majority of the people will not be favored, and I think this is a good bill. I agree with the Senator from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, that the little retailer today must have some protection.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I am surprised to hear the Senator from Fayette, who has always been a champion of the cause of the underdog and a champion of public rights, now become an advocate of special and vested interests.

As the gentleman from Washington has very well said, this gives the privilege of purchase alone to employes of certain corporations, and the Senator from Fayette would have us believe this is a privilege extended to all the people of Pennsylvania. I reiterate that this is very much tainted with special privilege and it is contrary to many things the Senator from Fayette has advocated in the past.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I should like to say a word in explanation of my asking for a separate vote on these amendments, first, because I think the real amendment that should be voted down is the one which takes out the purpose clause, section 1. That will make necessary voting separately on those changes which have been offered to change the section numbers.

With regard to the other two amendments, I think there is merit in what the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Kephart, says about taking out the words "or to any other person." It should not be made so that a man can not sell his own piano to someone else, so if we vote on these amendments separately I think we can do what is right by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Kephart, on his meritorious amendments, but I think the main thing is, in my opinion, to defeat the amendment which takes out the purpose clause, which is necessary because the act has already been sustained in other states, of which this bill is a model.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

The Clerk read the first amendment.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I do not know whether separate motions are in order for these individual amendments or not, but if so I am about to move that this amendment be adopted.

The PRESIDENT. For the information of the gentleman from Allegheny that is what we are doing, proceeding section by section.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I can not see the necessity or the reason for the purpose section, section 1 (a) of this bill. It seems to me it serves no good purpose insofar as making constitutional legislation is concerned. All that it does is make certain statements, particularly on page 1, where we have a finding of fact set forth, which has never been made or found by a legislative body, just the same as in many of the resolutions which are introduced in this body, Mr. President, in connection with the whereas clauses, which on many occasions spoil the resolution instead of adding thereto, and in my judgment the reason and purpose clause set forth in House Bill No. 1023 spoils this bill instead of adding anything beneficial to it.

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, I have read the Section 1 that we would remove by this amendment, and now I want to direct the attention of the Senate to Section 2, which, if this amendment is adopted, will be what is left in the bill, and it says:

"No person, partnership, corporation or association engaged in any business or trade in this Commonwealth, shall by any method or procedure, directly or indirectly, by itself or through a subsidiary agency, sell or procure for sale or have in its possession or under its control for sale to its employes or to any other person any article, material, product or merchandise of whatever nature of his or its own production or not handled in his or its regular course of trade or business, provided that —" and then follows the exceptions, so the meat of the bill is still left in there, even though you take this unnecessary clause which makes a finding of fact where we have had no investigation and have no evidence and do not know whether it is so or not, out of the bill.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I would like to say with regard to the legislative finding of fact, if the gentleman will look at the Calendar he will find we have at least three bills in which the whereas clauses make special findings of fact by the Legislature, to which I could reply we never made such an investigation or finding. I suggest a reason, by passing this bill we are making a finding, and we all know as a matter of experience that this method of doing business is injurious in several ways, some of which have been mentioned in the preamble. We all know that the Supreme Court of this Commonwealth has said the Legislature must indicate its intention, and when there are emergency measures or measures which arise because of certain conditions, they must declare those conditions as part of the bill in order to establish the right to pass the legislation, and it is my thought, if that is so, we should have that clause in the bill. If it is not so and if the clause does not help the bill at all, it certainly does not hurt it, and will not affect its constitutional standing, and I view with alarm the procedure at this time of taking out the purpose clause, which is included by every state which has enacted this legislation, and in other legislation enacted on the basis on which this is being passed we have added this purpose clause, and that is the legislative intent.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I appreciate the explanation of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, but if we pass the bill as it is this body makes certain findings of fact. I, for one, do not by any action of mine want to make a finding that the policy as declared in this bill affects the health of the people of this Commonwealth, nor do I want to make a finding that it affects the safety of the people or the morals or the convenience.

Mr. President, if you want to put a purpose clause in here, put in the real meaning; if you would amend it by adding that it affects the pocket-books of certain merchants, I would be glad to go along with that, because I think we could make that finding of fact.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment as read?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. SHAPIRO and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—15

Bartlett, Becker,

Crider, Ealy,

Heyburn,
James,

Snowden,
Wade,

Cavalcante, Chapman,	Farrell, Geltz,	Kephart, Mallery,	Wilson, H. I.,

NAYS—21

Coleman, Cox, Crowe, Deltrick, Dent, Edmonds,	Haluska, Homsher, Jaspan, Lanius, Letzler,	McCreesh, Miller, Mundy, Reed, Ruth,	Shapiro, Stevenson, Stiefel, Thomas, Walker,
--	--	--	--

So the question was determined in the negative.

The PRESIDENT. The Clerk will read the next amendment.

The Clerk read the amendment as follows:

Amend bill, page 2, line 15, after the word "no" by taking out the number "2" and inserting in lieu thereof the number "1".

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, that now becomes unnecessary, because we have already defeated the first amendment.

AMENDMENT WITHDRAWN

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, I withdraw that amendment.

The Clerk read the next amendment as follows:

Amend section 2, now section 1, page 2, lines 20 and 21, after the words "employees" and before the word "any", by taking out the following words: "or to any other person".

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I should like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Kephart.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. KEPHART. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I can see some point in the gentleman not wanting to have the bill read so that a man who owns a piano will not be able to sell it to someone else, but if the gentleman will look carefully at what he has done, is he not merely restricting one class, by saying a manufacturer must not do this for his employees, but he may do it for anyone else who is not an employee? I think by taking those words out it narrows the purpose of the bill to one class of people.

This business of selling at wholesale is not confined to the employees of a manufacturing establishment. For instance, one of the greatest vices is the case of a manufacturer who produces steel and sells that steel to a manufacturer of refrigerators, and the steel manufacturer through the purchasing agent, will have refrigerators sold and delivered to his customers, counsel and friends, at wholesale prices, to their friends and people who do business with them.

By taking out these words as suggested by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Kephart, it will have the effect of confining that wholesale restriction to employees only of the concern, but will allow one equally vicious vice to continue, namely, selling to friends, clients, business houses, people with whom they do business, and I think if we want to maintain the purpose of the bill we had better not put that in.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, it seems to me there is some mix-up in connection with the other amendments, because of the defeat of the first amendment, and I suggest that the amendments be withdrawn and the bill go over in its order.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I ask permission to address the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. If there is no objection, the gentleman from Cambria may proceed.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, this afternoon we had a simple demonstration of right versus might. I am satisfied that I was right and I am also satisfied the votes were against me. When right and might come together something must happen in time, and I hope I shall be in this chamber when right will once again prevail over might.

I had a resolution which I prepared and by which I tried to enlighten my colleagues so that they might be in a position to answer my interrogations.

This afternoon, Mr. President, I interrogated a number of Senators upon the resolution, serial number 118, and no one seemed to have any knowledge of its contents. Therefore, I prepared a resolution asking that the Secretary of Public Assistance give this body the information desired. My colleague from Allegheny objected and did not give my opportunity to present that resolution.

Fortunately, Mr. President, I have before me now the required information, but I will be selfish, I will keep it to myself. It was given to me by one of my Republican friends, a colleague in this chamber. I shall study this letter, an answer from the Department of Public Assistance, and on Monday if I may be permitted, I shall interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny County upon the contents of this letter. I trust he will be in position to answer me, because I expect to bring that resolution to a head.

Therefore, Mr. President, I will not introduce my resolution, and if the gentleman desires any more information let him present his own resolution, and have it passed by this body and be prepared to answer my interrogation on Monday.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I am sorry my colleague from Cambria, Senator Haluska, has decided not to introduce his resolution, for I was about to give another example of might or right, as the case might be, by seconding his motion for immediate consideration.

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. KEPHART from the Committee on Agriculture reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 1308, entitled:

An Act to further amend the first paragraph of section three of the act, approved the twenty-second day of May, one thousand nine hundred thirty-three (P. L. 912) entitled "An act to protect the public health; defining and providing for the licensing of bakeries, and regulating the inspection, maintenance, and operation of bakeries and premises, stores and shops connected therewith; defining and regulating the manufacture, sale and offering for sale of bakery products; conferring powers on the Department of Agriculture; and providing penalties," by extending the exception from registration and licensing requirements.

PRAYER

The Chaplain Rev. Donald McFall offered the following prayer:

Gracious God, our Father, we confess unto Thee our sins and shortcomings. The good which we should do we so often do not do; and the evil which we should not do, that we do. Our wills are weak. Our faith in Thee needs to be rekindled. We are so prone to make wrong choices. Give each of us, our God, the honesty to recognize our true condition. Grant unto us the power of Thy Spirit, which will help us to do that which we ought to do and to love that which we ought to love.

Bless our homes and our loved ones. Make us worthy citizens of this great Commonwealth. This we ask in Jesus' name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday, when, on motion of Mr. McDOWELL, unanimously agreed to, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal approved.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Section 2 The provisions of this act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. CORDIER. Mr. Speaker, the bill immediately before the House, House Bill 448, and the following bill, House Bill No. 413, are rather of a companion nature; they pertain to the same subject, and to conserve the time of the House, and with the permission of the Speaker, I should like to address my remarks to both measures and save the time of the House.

Mr. Speaker. It is unfortunate that the two measures before you, dealing with 'subversive activities, were amended on second reading on the floor of the House, in the manner in which they were and, which—in my opinion, materially weakened the bills.

These measures were sponsored by myself and Representative Kenehan—not for the purpose of satisfying any hysteria or any plaintive cries of any particular group, but upon calm reflection of the fact, testified to by happenings in this Commonwealth and the nation over the last few years, that there is a sincere need for this type of legislation.

I say it is unfortunate that the bills were weakened because of the fact that the federal government is taking drastic steps to purge these subversive groups from the defense jobs and the federal government did not wait until an overt act was committed to bring about these dismissals.

The newspapers the last few days have had many items showing the intense manner in which it is the desire of your administration at Washington to completely purge in all of the defense industries these subversive individuals and so, by the language of your amendments, you have ham-strung the state government of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in its desire to dismiss from its employ any of these subversive groups or individuals.

Your amendments are out of step with the national desire. The amendments as inserted are clearly the responsibility of the Democratic party because the subcommittee who presented the amendments was composed entirely of Democrats. I hoped that we would be able to work this matter out on the bi-partisan and non-political basis. However, that did not prevail and the amendments of the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, were defeated and it is my hope that the Senate of Pennsylvania will so amend this bill as to put the necessary teeth in it to satisfy the desires of the vast majority of our citizens who are insisting that only those who believe in our American form of government, who believe in the Constitution of the United States and are willing to accept the responsibility designated in that Constitution, shall be employed by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and all of its political subdivisions. If anything further were required to impress this General Assembly with the urgent need for stringent laws to bar these un-American elements from positions of public trust in the Commonwealth, it was supplied by the combine that rushed to the legislative halls to attack these pieces of legislation. I was rather amused to see the banners that they displayed on their lapels saying that House Bill 413 was un-American, when House Bill No. 413 simply provided that no person who advocated the overthrow of our American form of government by means not provided for in the Constitution shall be dismissed from public jobs. Surely, no one worthy of the name "American" could reasonably favor the employment in such posts of public trust of those who would defy the Constitution and overthrow our government by force.

During the past few weeks, these un-American groups were squirming and squawking at the prospect of a law on our statute books that might dislodge some of their adherents from public jobs. You are familiar with the character of the opposition and the charges of discrimination by those who would be given the authority of dismissal under this Act, but I ask you this one simple question. "Was there even one state employe who would be affected by this Act and whose looks, demeanor and natural characteristics would clearly stamp them as real Americans who uttered one word of protest against the passage of this legislation?" Your answer to this question must be a crystal-clear "No."

It takes a lot of gall to defend this so-called right to undermine the government on one hand and on the other to depend on any agency of government to pay your salary while doing the dirty work. It takes a lot of gall to even suggest that a measure designed to kill a snake before it spreads its venom should be permanently pigeon-holed. But these subversive elements have gall and plenty of it. They are without shame or they wouldn't belong to these subversive groups. They may be smirking today because they have, to some extent, impressed the Democratic leadership with their arguments. However, I am confident that the Senate of Pennsylvania has the intestinal fortitude to put language into this bill to make it clear that no one who attempts to undermine the confidence of the people in our Constitution and government, shall be paid funds in positions of public trust created by that Constitution.

As an American, I have a right to be a Republican, Democrat, Socialist, Christian, Mohammedan or Jew. I have the right to advocate, argue for or against, urge the adoption of anything and everything rightful or wrongful, except the privilege or right to urge, advocate, argue for and listen to arguments advocating the overthrow of the Constitutional Government of the United States, and of the several Commonwealths thereof, by violence and force or other means not provided for in the Constitution.

As an American, I have a right to speak and print, and to listen to and read speeches and literature. I have the right to enjoy the exchange of opinions on all subjects freely and without restraint except I have not the right to speak, preach, print and advocate the overthrow of my American Constitutional government by force and violence, that is one liberty that I cannot possess and am not entitled to possess, and if I ever had it, I surrendered it when I became part of a government that is ruled by majority vote.

As an American, I am bound to respect, honor and obey the decision of the majority as expressed at a free and open election.

As an American, I have no privilege to urge and advocate the adoption of reforms or so-called reforms by any other means than free and open election and especially not by force and violence.

When the American Constitutional government was created by the people and for their benefit and for their protection it was given the inherent right to protect itself against all of its enemies who advocate its overthrow by other methods than constitutional ones, and by reason of that inherent right or power delegated to it by the people, it has the undoubted right to enact laws making it a crime for anyone to advocate by speech, written or printed matter, or act its overthrow by force and violence and it has the undoubted right to expell from its employ all of those who refuse to accept the principle placed in the Constitution by the people, for their benefit.

Its inherent right to make these actions crimes is stronger than the rights reserved in the Constitution to the people. All of the rights reserved to the people are not infringed upon when that Constitutional government makes it a crime with a penalty for any person to advocate its overthrow by force and violence.

People have a right to change their government but the American people have by agreement, custom and usage, accepted the principle that their government should only be changed by Constitutional means, and those that seek to change it by other means commit the gravest and most serious crime that can be committed against the peace and happiness of a free people.

The government of the United States and of the several states, under the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of the several States, has undoubted Constitutional powers to enact any and all legislation necessary to preserve the continuance and existence of itself against all violent attempts to overthrow it by force; and to continue its existence they have the undoubted Constitutional right to enact laws making the preaching and advocating of either overthrow by violence, or other means, rather than by a free open election, a crime.

Every officer is in duty bound by his oath of office to support the several constitutions and the government created under them and every citizen who is naturalized takes an oath to support the Constitution and not to overthrow the government by any other method than by a free and open ballot.

The advocacy of an idea teaching the overthrow of the government by armed and potent minority is the highest crime against the Constitution and the nation and the States that any person could be guilty of.

Nothing can be unconstitutional that supports and preserves the American Constitutional system of government. The very creation of this system of government by the people gave to the government all of the needful and necessary powers to preserve and continue itself and modify itself only in accordance with the provisions prescribed in the Constitution itself. And one of these undoubted powers is the right to enact laws to prevent its overthrow by force.

In whatever form these measures finally clear the General Assembly and reaches the Governor's desk, it is my belief that it will serve warning to these subversive groups that the people of Pennsylvania are cognizant of the danger, are awake to its realities, and are definitely on guard against any movement that will seek to weaken the only form of Government which, today, can be called free, and the only form of Government on the face of the globe today under which you and I can really enjoy life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and it is my fervent prayer that this form of Government shall never change for the American people. Mr. Speaker, in spite of their weakened condition, I ask the House to vote affirmatively on these Bills.

Mr. BROWN: Mr. Speaker, I extend my remarks and my comments on these bills, and I shall not endeavor to cover the same points at this time. However, I should like to tell my good friend from Lackawanna, Mr. Cordier, that it comes with ill grace when he tries to accuse the Democratic party, because I happen to be a Democrat, and happen to be on a committee and happen to sponsor some of these amendments,—it just so happens perhaps at that time I was able to convince the members on this side of the House with whom I had the opportunity to caucus that my amendments were right.

I would not say that the Republican party would be held accountable for the amendments of Mr. Turner, had Mr. Turner's amendments prevailed, and I think in a thing of this kind we ought to be fair minded and not try to make the thing a party issue when everybody knows it is not. I agree wholeheartedly with everything the gentleman has said; I think we all do; we all believe in the Constitution, but I think the gentleman's error is in the interpretation of the Constitution. I think the gentleman should reread Article VI of the Constitution and he ought to read some of the decisions of the courts in interpreting the Constitution, and by that he will see that this legislature has no right to pass laws that are uncertain, that are ambiguous, that are vicious.

I tried to point out last night that there were two types of legislation in this field; one was the type that was unconstitutional because of a definite limitation prohibition in the Constitution. The other type was that type offending the spirit of the Constitution.

Now, as to whether I am unpatriotic in demanding that every man has a right to his full day in court I will leave to the future to decide. The only thing I have done and the only thing that I think the gentlemen on this side of the House have done, and the only thing we intend to do is to see that no law is passed in this House or in the United States Congress or anywhere else that denies a man's rights to appeal to the highest court of this land.

I stand in my position on these bills with the learned Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. By the way, may I say that not so long ago Chief Justice Hughes was described as the greatest Chief Justice the United States ever had, even greater than John Marshall, because at the time Chief Justice Hughes had greater problems confronting him. I stand one hundred per cent on every word of this principle which I stated last week, and which I repeat here and now as my full philosophy concerning each and every one of these bills.

I repeat the famous quotation of Chief Justice Hughes in the case of DeJonge v. Oregon, 299 U. S. 334, 1937:

"The greater the importance of safeguarding the community from incitements to the overthrow of our institutions by force and violence, the most imperative is the need to preserve inviolate the constitutional rights of free speech, free press and free assembly in order to maintain the opportunity for free political discussion, to the end that government may be responsive to the will of the people and that changes, if desired, may be obtained by peaceful means. Therein lies the security of the republic, the very foundation of constitutional government."

The SPEAKER. For the information of the members, I believe there is collusion between the cooling engineers and the Governor to get us out of here.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, perhaps the engineer and the cooling system are taking the advice of John Cummings in his articles which he has been writing in the newspapers, but I do not believe that there is a cooling system in the hot weather that can change the obstinacy of man. As we have learned in China and over in Great Britain, the more you press a man the more resistance you build up in him. It is like a piece of steel, the harder you hammer it the more you temper it to sustain great stress.

Mr. Speaker, I had not intended to infringe upon my colleague from Lackawanna who has so ably spoken on this subject on a number of occasions, but I can not help but answer to some extent the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown.

I do not think there are any of us who have advocated these bills who would deny that the gentleman from Allegheny Mr. Brown is perfectly correct in the statements which he has made. We can wholeheartedly subscribe to certain of these statements,—I won't say we subscribe to all of them, but I think we subscribe to most of them and I think we are bound by the opinions of the authorities that he has cited, and I think we would go along with the opinion of the Chief Justice as expressed in the opinion which the gentleman from Allegheny has just read. But the gentleman from Allegheny says he thinks it is unfair on the part of the gentleman from Lackawanna, Mr. Cordier, to talk about the Democrats and this bill as a party measure.

Let me read to you an editorial from the Harrisburg Patriot, which as everyone knows is a Democratic paper. This editorial is entitled "The Risk of a Red Label":

"One of the most astonishing things which have happened in these last days of the legislative session has been the hesitancy of House Democrats to take a definite stand in favor of bills against the Reds.

This attitude has brought humiliation to members of the Democratic party who yield to none in their devotion to fundamental Americanism and their opposition to all subversive organizations. The very idea that members of their party in the House should have differences of opinion on an issue of this sort creates a mystery impossible to understand.

The Democratic party cannot afford to risk being tagged as the defenders of those who would tear down the American form of government. It is bad enough to hear charges that the national administration has been too tolerant of radical groups, too ready to entertain them on the White House lawn, too generous in its encouragement of the un-American movements which in later days have done so much damage to the defense program.

Every day the American spirit flames hotter against agencies and movements out of sympathy with the American way of life. Any political party, be it Democratic or otherwise, which seems to condone radical movements runs the risk of being labeled as the "Red" party which in times like this opens the door to party suicide.

One hopes that without further delay the House leadership will clarify the air and demonstrate by votes that it is as bitterly opposed to Reds and other subversive agents as were the patriots of old."

In reading the opinions of the Chief Justice and of other learned Justices interpreting the Constitution, I feel sincerely that the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, with his fine legal knowledge, with his studious approach to all questions, has gotten himself so far on the side of the technicalities of the law that he is obscuring his usually clear vision, he is obscuring the clear vision of many members of this House, and is bringing upon his Democratic colleagues a disrepute to which they ought not be subjected. I do not think my opponents or my colleagues on the other side are Red; I do not believe they are Communists. I know a great number of the men on the other side of the House, whom I call my very close personal friends, who feel very severely the place in which they are put by the leadership that is being imposed upon them, by the very able and learned mind of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown.

I hate intolerance. I believe firmly in this Constitution of ours which, while it is set up for the rule of the majority, is able to protect the minority. All through the debates in the Constitutional Convention, all through the Federalist run those lines which clearly tell anyone who has the power to read that this Constitution of ours will protect minorities. I understand very well the feeling of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, that he does not want to see the door opened for persecution of minority groups for things that do not directly bear upon the question that is uppermost in the minds of many of our people. But on the other hand, I appeal to the patriotism of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, I appeal to him to look beyond those questions which he has raised, to look beyond the decisions which he can read just as ably as I can, perhaps more ably, and to see that there does come a time when freedom of speech has to be in certain degrees curtailed, when freedom of speech gets beyond the point of what we ordinarily term it.

The other day in the debate in this House, I said I have no objection to Communists holding a meeting and discussing Communism; I have no objection to their standing on a soap box and advocating Communism, but to take these bills after the five or six months they have lain in committee and then amend them, not to find a way to reach the problem before the people, but to say that they must advocate openly and actively participate in insurrection and a movement to overthrow the government is not reaching the problem. As the gentleman from Lackawanna has so ably said, our Federal government is saying to our labor unions, "You must purge yourselves of Communism." The Federal Bureau of Investigation only in the last couple days has found some twenty-one or twenty-two, or whatever it is, spies or a ring of spies in the United States who are passing on information as to vital secrets and who are maintaining communications with agencies that are foreign and are opposed to the government of the United States.

We know, we must know, we cannot help but know, as we read the newspapers, that these agencies are trying to obstruct the course of national defense. They have been trying to disrupt our defense industry. We know from the record in New York State where a professor in one of the colleges was convicted of perjury, and that there was a ring in that college of teachers who were teaching Communism. They were not all actively, outwardly participating in a movement to overthrow the government but they were preaching Communism and changes in our system of government, which I contend was handed to us as our inalienable right.

Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, I read to you the other day this statement from the opinion of Mr. Justice Holmes in the case of Schenck v. U. S. I do not believe the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, was here at the time I read this statement. The Justice had this to say:

"We admit that in many places and in ordinary times the defendants, in saying all that was said in the circular, would have been within their constitutional rights. But the character of every act depends upon the circumstances in which it is done. Aikens v. Wisconsin, 195 U. S. 194, 205, 206, 49 L. ed. 154, 159, 160, 25 Sup. Ct. Rep. 3. The most stringent protection of free speech would not protect a man in falsely shouting fire in a theater, and causing a panic. It does not even protect a man from an injunction against uttering words that may have all the effect of force. Gompers v. Buck's Stove & Range Co. 221 U. S. 418, 439, 55 L. ed. 797, 805, 34 L. R. A. (N. S.) 874, 31 Sup. Ct. Rep. 492. The question in every case is whether the words used are used in such circumstances and are of such a nature as to create a clear and present danger that they will bring about the substantive evils that Congress has a right to prevent. It is a question of proximity and degree. When a nation is at war many things that might be said in time of peace are such a hindrance to its effort that their utterance will not be endured so long as men fight, and that no court could regard them as protected by any constitutional right. It seems to be admitted that if an actual obstruction of the recruiting service were proved, liability for words that produced that effect might be enforced."

The difference between the gentleman from Allegheny and myself is this: insofar as he is seeking to protect us from people who are employed under the Commonwealth from actively advocating and participating in overt acts, I cannot object to that, but that is not reaching the problem that we have sought to reach and is not reaching the problem that we have tried to reach during the last few months. That is not reaching this problem of teachers in the schools; that is not reaching the problem of the people who are employed by the state government, who have a less right while they are teachers and while they are employed by the state government to advocate those things than perhaps the average citizen might have.

Mr. Speaker, I heard the gentleman from Allegheny the other night read the preamble of the Constitution of the United States as endorsing those things which he advocated. I could agree with him on that matter but let me read it to you again:

"We the people of the United States in order to form a more perfect union,"—those men had been through five or six years of chaos and anarchy. They knew that the Union which had been formed in that great war was imperfect and loose, and it could not function efficiently. "Establish justice,"—they wanted to establish justice with their vision of government, with their ideals of the right of men to form a government. "Insure domestic tranquility,"—they had seen insurrection, they had seen chaos, they had seen anarchy; they wanted to secure "domestic tranquility." "Provide for the common defense,"—they knew that the thirteen original states gathered together in a loose confederation could not possibly form a strong army against the aggression of a foreign government. "To promote the general welfare,"—certainly any group of men who had their ideals of government wanted to promote the general welfare. Then what did they do? It seems to me everything in the preamble leads up to this "And secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and to our posterity do ordain and establish this constitution for the United States of America."

To secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity,—that is what they wanted; that is what they had fought for; that is why they had offered themselves as a sacrifice on the field of battle; that is why they were willing to sacrifice their fortunes, their personal liberties and their lives, it may be everything to secure to us the blessings of liberty.

Is there any liberty for a man in Communism? Is there any liberty for a man in Fascism? Is there any liberty for a man in Nazism? I do not think there is any man who will stand here upon the floor of this House tonight and contend for a moment that there is liberty as we have known it for one hundred and fifty years under the American system of government in any of these things. If the Federal Government can now say, "Root these people out of industry," if the Federal Government can go out and seek out these people for trying to undermine our government, who do not themselves perform an overt act except that they are capable of explaining, then if they can, why can't we do the same?

Mr. Speaker, as to making the terms certain, if these terms are not certain enough to meet the legal requirements, if they do not protect the rights of those who might be falsely and wrongfully accused, then let us get together around the table with the skill of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, and others, and let us find language that does, but I say let us not in an hour like this when our country needs every ounce of defense and every ounce of patriotism that we can get, let us not quibble over technical and legal terms that might be employed in Quarter Sessions Court in order to get some culprit off; let us get down to the real problem. It is not the problem of a man who openly advocates and participates—the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown makes it "and participates," he makes it conjunctive. He must do both. But let us get down to those who advocate in their teaching and in their daily lives in and about the offices of the government those who are on the public payroll of a great free country, on the payroll of a nation that has pledged itself and has dedicated itself to secure the blessings of liberty to its posterity, let us get down to that and draft bills that will meet that problem.

I have no apology for the language that was inserted in the bill which I introduced in reference to the Tenure Act. I have no pride of authorship in that; I am willing to accept any language that will properly, within legal bounds arrive at a solution of the problem, but again let me say to the gentleman from Allegheny that he ought not to place these good colleagues of his in the position in which they are now placed, and in the embarrassment which they now have before the public.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, certainly I should apologize for rising again, but I hope you will bear with me. This is a very important matter, because we are dealing with the fundamental liberties of the people. I do not subscribe to the learned argument of the former speaker of this House, a gentleman whom we all admire, the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner. I do not agree when he says that there is a set of liberties for one set of people and not the same set of liberties for the other set of people. You cannot divide liberties. Liberties that we enjoy here ought to be the liberties that every other citizen enjoys, and if we have come to this point in our system of thinking in this country whereby because of the present status, because of a certain standard, one man's liberty would be different from that of another, we have lost the essence of all democratic process.

Mr. Speaker, as to the article which the gentleman read from the Harrisburg Patriot, I subscribe to that, too. I am glad the Patriot brought that matter out, as it had a right to, but that does not make it true. We hold that the Patriot had a right to bring the matter out.

In connection therewith, Mr. Speaker, I would like to read Section 7, of Article I, of the Constitution. I think sometimes with the reading of these provisions of the Constitution we get back to the fundamental principles, and we do not have to indulge in facetious and fanciful arguments.

Article I, Section 7, reads as follows:

"The printing press shall be free to every person who may undertake to examine the proceedings of the legislature or any other branch of government, and no law shall ever be made to restrain the right thereof."

The Harrisburg Patriot is exercising its fundamental right of freedom of speech. In connection with that same thing, I agree with the Harrisburg Patriot because I believe in the principle laid down by Mr. Justice Holmes in the famous case reported in 279 U. S., 644, as follows:

"If there is any principle of the Constitution that more imperatively calls for attachment than any other, it is the principle of free thought, not free thought for those who agree with us, but freedom of thought for those we hate."

Mr. Speaker, I do not hate the Harrisburg Patriot, but I disagree with them. They have a right to say that, and the Harrisburg Patriot would fight to the last ditch if this Legislature or any other Legislature sought to put any restriction of any kind, or any limitation on anything the Patriot might say or any other paper that is protected under the Constitution of the United States. That is all we are fighting for here. I agree with the Schenck decision. That decision bears out exactly what we are trying to do with these bills, because the learned judge said, "There must be an actively obstructive process." That is all we are trying to do here. Mr. Speaker, I am sure the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, is sincere when he gives us such flowery language, but after all when we introduce bills which become laws, I give you again what I said last night, the words from a great philosopher, a statesman we all love to read about, read his language and peruse his thoughts—the Honorable John Dickinson who made this statement: "Miserable is the servitude when the laws are uncertain." I will never be a party regardless of what is sought to be obtained, to passing any laws that are uncertain, because I believe with John Dickinson, "miserable will be the servitude."

Mr. CORDIER. Mr. Speaker, in response to the remarks of the gentleman from Allegheny pertaining to the charge that the Democratic party is responsible for the amendments to this bill, I made those remarks with no acrimony to any member of the Democratic party. I merely recited the history of this legislation as it appeared on the record books in the halls of the Legislature in the State Capitol.

I am quite certain, Mr. Speaker, that the gentleman from Allegheny is sincere and that the membership on the other side is sincere in its desire to lead to the same goal that we are. However, we differ in the method of procedure. In this democracy the people have the right to form opinions. In that connection, Mr. Speaker, I have before me a letter from one of my constituents who has been greatly interested in this question and who incidentally happens to be a Democrat. I am going to read one excerpt from that letter a follows:

"During times of unprecedented confusion it would seem the strategy of the Democrats in regard to anti-Red suppression has been baffling and disturbing to those who have the welfare of the state and nation at heart! Furthermore it has brought humiliation to those members of the Democratic party who are as equally devoted to the fundamental principles of Americanism as are Republicans. It is a serious thing to risk being tagged as the defenders of those who would destroy our government."

Mr. Speaker, I might say in several states of the nation there are safeguards against subversive activities which have now become laws. The states of Arizona, Washington and Wisconsin now have laws pertaining to subversive activities on the statute books. In many of the other states bills of similar nature are now being considered.

Mr. Speaker, I might say in regard to the question of liberties, as it was so ably put by the gentleman from Allegheny and on the question of constitutionality of this bill as it was originally introduced, House Bill 413 merely prohibits the employment by the Commonwealth of any person or persons whose philosophy proposes a change in the government of the United States by means not provided for in the Constitution of the United States.

I leave with the House the question as to whether or not any such legislation can be unconstitutional.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I am not at all surprised that in the final days of the session, especially when House Bills 413 and 448 are on third reading and final passage, that the gentleman from Lackawanna and the gentleman from Delaware have attempted to brand the Democratic party as the Red party in Pennsylvania. I think in the discussion on these bills the various members of the Democratic party on this side of the House have expressed themselves very ably regarding Communism and Naziism, and I think the implication raised by the gentleman is unfair and does not deserve the attention of this House.

The truth of the matter, Mr. Speaker, is that the amendments that were adopted in House Bills 413 and 448 do not weaken the bills, but strengthen them in an American way. As far as partisanship is concerned, I might remind the gentleman from Lackawanna that last week in the State of Georgia a Democratic Governor raised objection to a mid-western teacher in the University of Georgia for teaching the students in that University that there should be colored students admitted, and the Governor of the State of Georgia who was a Democrat, and with who I utterly disagree, raised this objection. He said, "I am tired of listening to the rantings of the Communist from the mid-west."

I say to the gentleman from Lackawanna, if the bill as it originally came out of committee was intended to prove statements such as came from the mid-western teacher in the University of Georgia were Communistic, then I say thank God that the amendments were included in the bill.

I do not know the ideas of the gentleman from Delaware or the gentleman from Lackawanna relative to the results of a bill of this kind, and I certainly would not question for one moment the sincerity of the gentleman from Delaware, but I say to him in all fairness in an American way that the bill that it is before the House is the American way of combatting subversive activities.

Certainly the gentleman from Allegheny raised a question of security of minorities. The gentleman from Delaware admits that the Constitution is built around the security of minorities by the majority, but I ask him how can you secure the rights of minorities if you are going to place on the statute books of Pennsylvania the right of any Department head to determine a man's philosophy, doctrine or goal without appeal? That is the underlying question in these two bills, and I say to the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner and to the men on the other side of the House that the bills as amended are correctly drawn, and these are the ones that should be enacted into law.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LEVY. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker I would like to know from the gentleman whether the amendments which were inserted into the bills under discussion now make these two bills satisfactory to the group with which he met in Philadelphia and about which he spoke on the floor of the House in answer to the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, a few days ago?

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside, I might say relative to the rally before which I spoke in Philadelphia, which was very thoroughly discussed last Thursday, that the charges made by me in my answer were never answered by the gentleman from Delaware. I said at that time that if the gentleman from Delaware or any other Member of this House had any cases of where Communism was taught in the Philadelphia schools it was their duty to bring that information to the constituted authorities. Mr. Turner arose and read a letter from a very prominent citizen of Delaware County in which he lauded Mr. Turner's stand on anti-Red bills. Mr. Turner never mentioned the name, and at that time I asked Mr. Turner and requested him to name names and places, but he failed to do so.

If the reference of the gentleman from Dauphin is to a teacher's union in Philadelphia that is charged with being Communistic, I said to the gentleman from Dauphin and to his colleagues that they were investigated on numerous occasions by the Board of Public Education in Philadelphia and were exonerated of any charges, and I further pointed out that the main purpose of these bills is to amend the Teacher's Tenure Act and weaken the security given them by a previous Democratic administration. I stated the case of Miss Burchett in Philadelphia and I proved to the membership that she was fired under the Teacher's Tenure Act, and that if there were any teachers in Philadelphia teaching Communism they could likewise be fired. I heard no resounding answer from the gentleman from Delaware or the gentleman from Dauphin.

In answer to the gentleman from Dauphin, I will only say to him that I am not responsible for drawing up the amendments, but I subscribe to them, I am proud of them and in my philosophy they are the American amendments.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman thinks very rapidly on his feet. He has been on his feet now ten minutes answering the question, but I still have not been able to find out whether the answer is "yes" or "no."

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to hear the question once again.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I asked the gentleman whether the amendments that were put into these bills now make them satisfactory to the group to whom he spoke in Philadelphia?

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from Dauphin, I do not know. I never received any communication from the American Federation of Teachers in Philadelphia relative to the amendments, and I do not know their attitude on the amendments.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman assume that they are now satisfactory to them?

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman, the question the gentleman just propounded is as vague and uncertain as House Bill 413 was when it came out of committee. We are not assuming anything here. I might point out to the gentleman from Dauphin that we are passing laws, laws that are to remain on the statute books to govern the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and I certainly would be a poor Legislator if I were to answer that question.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I still think the gentleman ought to answer the question "yes" or "no," and he has not done so.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, in answer again to the gentleman from Dauphin, we are not assuming things, and it is not my business to assume what a certain group in Philadelphia is thinking. I answered the gentleman; I said that I subscribed to the amendments and I think they are the proper thing.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I understand the gentleman attended a mass meeting in Philadelphia. There were some indications that that mass meeting was composed of some people who were active in the Teachers' Union. Whether that is correct or not, the gentleman himself knows.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know whether it is proper for a member to question another member about his activities outside of the halls of the legislature?

The SPEAKER. The Chair has been very lenient toward Members on both sides.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I raise the point of order that the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside, is out of order in his present interrogation.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is of the opinion that the point of order is not well taken. The Chair has been very lenient in this debate.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I might inform the gentleman from Allegheny that I very heartily welcome the interrogation of the gentleman from Dauphin because I think I know what he is thinking, and I know he generally thinks incorrectly. I ask the gentleman from Dauphin to proceed, and I will attempt in the best English I know to answer him.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman would answer my question it would save a lot of the time of the House. He takes a lot of time to answer, and now he is concerning himself as to whether I am thinking or not.

Mr. LEVY. The gentleman from Dauphin asked me whether I assumed that the American Federation of Teachers subscribed to these amendments, and I said to him that as a member of the House for a few sessions I believe this is the first time we were called upon to answer what we assume might be the condition with this particular union. I say to him in all sincerity that I do not care what the American Federation of Teachers thinks of these amendments; I subscribe to them, I am proud of them, and I say to him if he is not, then let him vote against the bills, that is all.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, every time I ask the gentleman a question he makes a speech on something else. In this particular speech he said something that was very interesting. I didn't ask him whether the American Federation of Teachers was opposed to this bill; I asked him whether the group with which he had met was in favor of these amendments, and he assumed it was the American Federation of Teachers, so I think we can now safely assume that the group was the American Federation of Teachers in Philadelphia that was thrown out of the American Federation of Labor because of their Communistic leanings and activities, or if it was not that group, then there was a close connection between the two, because I did not think the American Federation of Teachers was the group he was meeting with. I said the group he was meeting with. I am wondering whether he was not interested enough to find out what their opinions were as to these amendments. I think he should have endeavored to find out what their attitude on this situation is, and I think he knows. I think he knows whether these amendments were satisfactory to the group with which he met, whether they are satisfactory or not satisfactory, that is the question I am asking him and the question pertaining to this bill that he refused to answer.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from Dauphin I only want to say that I do not believe he knows how to ask a question. I repeat, Mr. Speaker, over the laughter, that I do not believe he knows how to ask a question. I think he is trying to get me to say something and he doesn't know how to ask for it. I want to say to him that if he had listened to my reply to the gentleman from Delaware on Thursday of last week he would have heard very distinctly that I attended no meeting or discussion on House Bill 413 or House Bill 448 with this union known as the American Federation of Teachers. He heard me distinctly say on the floor of the House that I was invited to address a rally and that I spoke, and that I did not see any "Peace" signs hanging around the wall and I did not see any Hammer and Sickle coming down from the ceiling, and I did not see any Reds with long whiskers, as the gentleman from Delaware might infer. I saw, Mr. Speaker, on the other hand, five to seven hundred fine, clean-cut American citizens, and I say to the gentleman from Dauphin if he is questioning the philosophy, doctrines or goal of the people who were in attendance at that rally in Philadelphia then, thank God, that "philosophy, doctrine and goal" has been taken out of House Bill 413.

Mr. Speaker, I want to say to him further that I am more proud, and I say this on the floor of the House, to have addressed that group of teachers in Philadelphia than I would have been to address the Republican Women of Pennsylvania who eulogized in 1938 a teacher who openly taught racial intolerance in the South Philadelphia High School, and who was, Mr. Speaker and Members of the House, fired and dismissed by the Board of Public Education in Philadelphia under the horrible Teacher's Tenure Act that the gentleman from Delaware is crying so much about.

I say, Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from Dauphin, I do not deny that I spoke at a rally, and I spoke in protest of pending bills in the Assembly and I have every right to do that, and if the gentleman from Dauphin thinks not, then let him say so. But I am proud to have been there and I am proud to have voiced sincere objections to a bill that was an un-American bill as it came out of committee.

Mr. WOODSIDE. "Me thinks the gentleman doth protest too much." I think the truth of the matter is pretty well out, Mr. Speaker. It seems to me that these amendments will be very satisfactory to this group to which the gentleman from Philadelphia spoke, and which he has eulogized so much. Whether there is any connection between that group and the American Federation of Teachers, which was thrown out of the Union for being too Communistic, I shall leave for your own sound judgment. I sometimes am accused of being a little politically minded. Maybe that is the thing that brings me down from the level of the discussion of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, and the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, on a high constitutional plane, and something which I think may indicate whether these bills are truly American or whether they are not.

We sometimes ought to look to the people to whom those interested in these bills are speaking and listening, and I think if we do we can then sometimes determine what the motives involved in amendments or legislation are. I think, Mr. Speaker, that my point is clear and that every Member of this House understands exactly what I mean.

I just want to say one other thing concerning the debate between the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, and the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner. It reminds me very much of a story which my mother told me when I was very young and which I have remembered every since. It was a story about a farmer who came over to this land of freedom. He was not here very long until he hit a fellow on the nose and was called into court. The judge, about to pronounce sentence on him, said, "Have you anything to say in your defense?" And he said, "Yes," he said, "I came over here because I thought this was a land of liberty, this was a land of freedom." The judge replied, "Yes, sir, but you must understand that your liberty ends where the other fellow's nose begins." It seems to me that the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, was talking entirely about this being the land of freedom and that the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, was reminding him that freedom ends where the other fellow's nose begins.

Mr. CORDIER. Mr. Speaker, after listening to the gentleman from Dauphin and after listening to the speech of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, I think it would be proper to ask a question at this point. Who is getting hysterical now?

Mr. LEVY. In answer to the gentleman from Lackawanna, I would say that the only person I can find who is hysterical would be the author of a bill like House Bill 413 as it came out of committee without amendments.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I am going to vote for this bill because it is possibly some step in the right direction, but I submit to the Members of the House that these bills with these amendments submitted by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, do not go nearly far enough. In other words they take the teeth out of the bills, and I do not refer to the amendments which give the right of appeal. I am heartily in accord with those amendments.

However, Mr. Speaker, I refer again to the amendment which says that they must openly advocate and actively participate in an overt act. I submit to you, Mr. Speaker, that a teacher who teaches Communism in a school, as the Philadelphia teachers are doing and for which they were thrown out of the American Federation of Labor, a teacher who teaches that this government should be a collectivistic form of government instead of a republican form of government as set up by the Constitution of the United States, a teacher who teaches that this form of government is only an experiment in government the same as other governments in the world, cannot be reached under this act, and they are the class we are trying to reach. We know that the school boards do not have the authority under the Teachers' Tenure Act to throw out a teacher for teaching Communism. Under a recent decision handed down by Doctor Haas, Secretary of Public Instruction, he made the specific point that under the Teachers' Tenure Act a school board does not have the power to fire a teacher who has been engaged in Communistic activities. Under no stretch of the imagination do I believe school boards or the courts would oppose a school board in firing teachers who teach those "isms," collectivism, socialism and communism, because it would not be possible under the interpretation of the court to determine this act as being an overt act, as set up by the amendment in this bill. I submit to you that we are here simply begging the question. We have asked, as Doctor Haas has asked, that bills be reported out here giving school boards the authority to fire this kind of teachers, and no bill of that kind has yet come out. I only hope that the Democratic party on the other side of the House and the Chairman of the Educational Committee will heed those requests and report such a bill out.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I wish to call the attention of the Members of the House to an editorial that appeared in the Pittsburgh Sun Telegraph of Tuesday, June 24, 1941. I can say in all probability the reason this editorial is so commendable is that the editorial sets forth the same fundamental truth which was promulgated by Thomas Jefferson way back in 1804.

Mr. Speaker, this editorial in discussing the freedom of the press states that Thomas Jefferson said in the following quotation:

"Man may be governed by reason and truth. Our first object, therefore, should be to leave open to him all the avenues of truth. The most effectual hitherto found is the freedom of the press."

In my opinion, Mr. Speaker, freedom of speech is just as essential as freedom of the press. The rest of this editorial goes on to state that the courts cannot expect that freedom of the press will not be interfered with. It states also there is no "divine right" doctrine in our American institutions, and that it is a heartening event in these days of the gradual narrowing of individual liberties to have the Supreme Court of the state concede the right of the press to criticize the courts after the cases are no longer before such courts. The editorial concludes, Mr. Speaker, with the following words:

"And the Courts of the United States have no greater friend or bulwark than our free, critical press."

I just wish to suspend, Mr. Speaker, for a moment to inform the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Auker, that I have had no communication from the State Superintendent of Public Instruction relative to any bill which he favors to take care of any of the situations described by the gentleman from Blair. I would further state that the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Auker, seems to be under an erroneous impression concerning the import of the decision of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction. The State Superintendent of Public Instruction, according to a copy of the opinion which I have, does not say that the teachers who teach Communism or un-American doctrines cannot be dismissed. The State Superintendent in that particular decision did not dismiss the teacher concerned because the State Superintendent found that the teacher's act, the act that was complained of, was a legal act which the State Superintendent said he had a right to do. If the State Superintendent of Public Instruction believed he should have been dismissed he would have dismissed him.

I would like to say to the membership that I think it might be a good idea if after we adjourn today we would walk down the front steps and turn around and come back and read the inscriptions engraved in the stone surrounding the steps there. I noticed there was a quotation there by Benjamin Rousseau which said, "Freedom can exist only in the society of knowledge." I noticed another quotation which reads as follows: "Where liberty dwells there is my country," which was a quotation from that eminent patriot, Benjamin Franklin. Then I noticed another quotation which I would call to the attention of those men on the other side of the House who are so eager to get a law passed, regardless of what its meaning may be, from Benjamin Franklin which I think sums up the whole question and sums up my attitude and the attitude of many of the Members on this side of the House; this quotation is "Those who would give up essential liberties to purchase a little temporary safety deserve neither liberty nor safety."

I say to the Members of the House that Benjamin Franklin was employing his wisdom at its greatest when he wrote those words. We should consider those quotations and what they mean, and I think if we do we will realize that those men on this side of the House who in their earnest solicitude to pass good laws have proffered amendments have been acting for themselves and for their constituents and they have not been acting for any selfish group. They have not been trying to protect anybody who might be guilty of any subversive activity of any description. For my part I have been interested in protecting the rights of all the 100,000 people in my district, people who day after day take their lives in their hands with their daily toil, people whose patriotism has not been questioned in the past and cannot be questioned now, and I say to you that coming from the greatest industrial district in the great state of Pennsylvania, a district where the defense program has its heart, that we are not bothered by this problem that the people from the eastern part of the state seem to feel is so important and so vital. We do not have these subversive people out in our part of the country, and I say to you that we want our liberties protected because we believe in the fundamental rights guaranteed to us under our form of government.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny Mr. Harkins.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HARKINS. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TURNER. I would like to ask the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Harkins, whether he is willing to have a teacher in the schools advocate Communism without actually participating in overt acts.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman's question, I would say that I am not in favor of having any teacher in the schools who is a Communist. I am, however, in favor of a definite, straightforward policy throughout all our law, and I do not believe in making it possible to dismiss a teacher for a cause and on the other hand say that the teacher has the proper right to do the thing of which we complain.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, the amendments which were placed in this bill provide that they must advocate and openly participate. Now, I ask you, how are you going to follow the contradictory statements of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Harkins, who says that he does not want any communistic teacher in the schools, but he next says that they must advocate and openly participate in the movement. Therefore it seems to me on the very face of it the absurdity of the argument is demonstrated.

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, this argument has gone along for some time. It seems as though for once, since I have come to this legislature early this year, the House is very seriously appreciating the importance of the teaching profession in Pennsylvania. Not long ago we had some salary increases up here; we had other salary increases bills and I am sorry to say, gentleman, the teachers receive the lowest, after the increase, of any salary yet put out of this House. Isn't it strange that we can come now to a realization that the teaching profession is so important in the state of Pennsylvania?

I am a teacher, and I am not ashamed of the profession. Coming from Indiana County, naturally a rural section, where not much is given and little expected, you couldn't expect me to take much part in this fight, but I do want to say to the Members of this House that the teachers in Indiana County,—and I know practically every one of them personally, do not subscribe, will not tolerate nor be a part of a profession that will teach Communism.

We are an agricultural county, live rather closely to the soil, and that I think is somewhat good insurance against some of the "isms" that infest the metropolitan areas. As a teacher I feel it my duty right here on the floor of this House to make my position clear on this Communistic issue.

After viewing the imported lobbyists from Philadelphia I can well understand the position of a few of the gentlemen from Philadelphia who so courageously fight this legislation. After hearing them and listening to some of their conversation, being button-holed by some of them, not only by those teachers but some of the people who are sitting along the aisles of this room right now, I tell you, gentlemen, as someone mentioned about a Communist being a gentleman with a hairy face and big long beard, and so forth; many of them hide behind dark glasses and things like that,—you don't know them from the other gentlemen in the hall. They mix with us and they remind me somewhat of a little story I heard, when I see them out here in the vestibules with their hats down over their eyes, of the mother skunk and her little skunklets. The mother skunk and her little skunklets were out strolling one fine, juicy, foggy evening, strolling down the road and they saw in the distance a hunter with a dog and a gun. The little skunklets immediately became very, very much alarmed and gathered around the mamma skunk and cried "Oh, mamma dear, what shall we do; what shall we do?" The mother very gently got them around her and said "Now children, bow your heads and let us spray."

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. TARR. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Fayette will state his point of order.

Mr. TARR. The gentleman is not speaking on the bill before the House.

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, I am simply making an analysis of my stand on Communism and its relation to this bill.

The SPEAKER. Didn't the gentleman enjoy the skunk story?

Mr. TARR. Mr. Speaker, I am Chairman of the Game Committee, and any skunk matter would have to come to my Committee. I misunderstood the gentleman; I thought he was over on one of my game bills; I am sorry.

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, we talk about these people actively engaged and participating, taking an active part, committing overt acts as they are called, and spreading the doctrine and principle of subversivism into our lives. We do not find them in that activity, as the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, has well said; we find them mixing with the Legislators, button-holing them and brooding with them; you find them out here in the lobby. That is the type of gentlemen we have,—pardon me, the other animal is a better reference in my estimation. Naturally, I believe every man, regardless of where he works has a certain amount of tenure due him as long as he produces a piece of work, as long as he does that for which he is paid, but I also feel that as a teacher, when he does not do that job and do it according to the principles of the government that employs him and that supports him, the door should swing out as well as in for him. I am willing right now to make this statement as a teacher, that if,—and I say "if," gentlemen,—if it is necessary for us as a teaching profession to give up every inch of the Teacher's Tenure Law, if it is necessary for us as a people to scrap every bit of civil service, everything behind which these people are hiding and issuing their poisoned arrows, then I say we had better scrap everything behind which they hide.

While it may protect me individually as a teacher in my job, yet if I protect this thing behind which these people are hiding, and they in turn lose everything for me, what have I individually to gain? So I say, if it is necessary to scrap all these things, let us scrap them. After all, it is a choice, and we run into the question right here of just which is the worst of the two evils, political patronage or civil service and Teachers Tenure, behind which these subversive elements hide. Gentlemen, you can change your politicians, and that in turn will change the complexion of the departments; you can put your finger on it, but today the taxpayer, the man who pays the bill, cannot get his finger on the people who are teaching his children these things he does not want taught to them, and I submit to you, gentlemen, that I am willing to submit my case to the parents whose children I am teaching.

I have right here,—and I do not think I need go very far,—right here a list of seven hundred deportable aliens that are harbored by the United States Department of Labor, and I think you are all aware, very well aware of Irving Cobb's very apt description of the lady who commands that department. I think that - - -

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his point of order.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I have listened with a great deal of amusement and disappointment to the charges of Red flag waving and everything else, but I am not going to sit here and listen under the flag of Communism to one of the members of President Roosevelt's cabinet being castigated by a Member of the Assembly. I say to you, Mr. Speaker, that remark has no business on the floor of the House.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Dauphin will state his point of order.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman who has raised the point of order is not raising a point of order at all; he is making a speech. If he wants to raise a point of order he ought to raise it. He is making a speech.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is within his rights in criticizing a public official. The gentleman from Indiana has the floor. He will confine his remarks to the bill before the House, House Bill 448.

Mr. McMILLEN. Thank you, Mr. Speaker, I am talking on the bill and I can well appreciate the gentleman's objection.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of information.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know whether the gentleman as a Member of the House knows when he is talking on a bill?

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, I have listened to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, for a good many months, and I have often asked myself that same question.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his point of order.

Mr. LEVY. I raise the point of order, Mr. Speaker, because I think the gentleman on the other side is attempting by subterfuge to speak about a member of the President's cabinet, and that in all decency has no reference to House Bill 413 or House Bill 448.

The SPEAKER. The Chair has ruled on that question.

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, I just want to conclude with this statement, that it is very evident to me that the time has come when you are either for us or against us, and on that we had better soon decide.

Mr. BAKER. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question.

The motion was seconded by Messrs. Wolf, Paul A. Brunner, McIntosh, Croop, Owens, Chervenak, O'Mullen, Corrigan, Williams, Pettit, Polen, Tate, Burns, Tarr, Finestone, Boies, Matthew J. Welsh, Reynolds, Shaw, Melchoirre and others.

On the question,

Shall the main question be now put?

It was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 413, entitled:

An Act prohibiting the employment by the Commonwealth or any political subdivision thereof or by any authority or any institution receiving public funds of persons who hereafter advocate and actively participate in a movement proposing a change of the government of the United States by means not provided for in the Constitution of the United States providing for dismissals under existing laws and permitting appeals to courts of common pleas and appellate courts in all such cases.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is informed that the bill is on final passage.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill passed third reading be reconsidered so that I may ask unanimous consent to have the amendments read and the House will know the purpose for which I offer the amendments.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman withdraw his motion to reconsider the vote by which the bill passed third reading?

Mr. TURNER. Yes, Mr. Speaker, and if there are sufficient copies of the amendments there I would ask that a copy be sent to the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, so that he may follow them when they are read.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to the reading of the amendments? Is there objection?

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I do not feel that the amendments should be allowed. The gentleman has very naively tried to enumerate a number of organizations, all of which we are opposing, and I think the bill should be drawn in its general sense rather than its special sense. I think that is the way legislation ought to be passed. I am opposed to the draftsmanship of this type of legislation and ask that the House do not give its unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objection and consent is not granted.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I endeavored to meet the objections of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, that we have specific legislation. The bill as it stands says that you must advocate and actively participate by an overt act or acts in a movement proposing a change in the form of government of the United States by means not provided for in the Constitution of the United States. I think this places squarely before us that which I tried to say in the remarks I made with reference to House Bill 448, to advocate and openly participate or actively participate in overt acts, open acts with a criminal intent, to change the form of government by force, that can be the only meaning; therefore it would seem to me that if the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, is sincere in what he has said just now, that they are opposed to Communism, Fascism or Naziism, he should admit these amendments rather than ask that they be refused.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Cambria will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, are we not now considering House Bill 413, Printer's No. 1100?

The SPEAKER. That is correct.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, I cannot follow the amendments offered by the gentleman from Delaware in my bill. Are they drawn to this bill?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, they are drawn to House Bill No. 413, Printer's No. 1100.

The SPEAKER. House Bill No. 413, Printer's No. 1100.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. May I ask, Mr. Speaker, whether they begin at line 10, page 2, section 1?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, the first amendment is to the title on page one, line four. The second amendment is to the title, page one, line 7; the third amendment is to amend section one, page 1 line 7 by inserting after the word "who"—

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, there is no word "who" in my copy.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, in order to clarify the matter, I do not believe that the amendments as proposed by Mr. Turner are in the Printer's No. given to us by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, the other day.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, in order to straighten this matter out I ask that the bill be temporarily passed over.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to have this bill passed over? Is there objection? The Chair hears objections and consent is not granted.

On the question recurring.

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. STOCKHAM. Mr. Speaker, this bill has been discussed quite at length with the bill that was just passed. Permit me just one or two reflections. May I suggest that we must look to the soul of this nation. I have gotten to those years when I possibly can reflect upon the years gone by in school and in early business and industrial pursuits, something of what this nation stood for. I remember in my school days there were no such questions occurring within the schools as had to do with those things that would tear down our constitution. We were taught all that it stood for, all that is right. I observed the growth and the advance of the organization of labor, that they might have their rights and defend their place in the industrial world. I observed the privileges of business under the laws and under the Constitution. And then too through those years I have observed those people who came into this country from foreign lands, glad to get here, glad to become citizens of the United States.

First they came from the northern tier and then after years of privilege, after years of opportunity they began to come from central and southern Europe, and they have added much to the growth of this country.

I have observed what happened with labor busily at work and industry planning big things, in the growth of the nation. I observed the increased respect of foreign nations for the United States of America and I have observed through it all that the United States was willing to live with monarchies, both absolute and constitutional, and I observed that those monarchies in their place under the sun were willing that the United States might grow and thrive, or at least not try to tear down our tradition. With all this, gentlemen of the House, those people became subjects of the United States through naturalization, —and many of us were the children of those aliens,— those people from foreign lands who came here, and when we remember that all through the early years, all the difficulties and all the trouble in Europe, this country when it was a weakling was able to keep out of the mess that was created there, we have a right to think of the soul of the nation, the soul of the people, the soul of a great Christian philosophy.

I know that there are millions of people abroad today who would give anything to become citizens of this country. I know that there are millions of children in Europe who would give anything to be taught in the American schools and the American way of living. It may be that corruption abroad, down through the centuries, tolerated by the governing heads, even when there was some semblance of representation in government, is the cause of the difficulties that are happening today.

However, I believe down in the hearts of the European citizens themselves there is that great fear of God, that desire to worship God, that desire to worship under that religion and those tenets which those of us who call ourselves Christians have developed as no other people have developed them in the world before,—and we are face to face with leaderships in Europe today that are pagan and are godless.

Now, if this be true, is there any reason under heaven why this paganism and this godlessness should be allowed to crop up in the teachings of our youth? There has been a real recognition and there was cited here on the floor of this House today and for the last few days, the recognition of our inalienable rights. It has been manifested through the years how jealous various Christian groups have been of their rights in schools; how jealous we have been of the rights of business to transact its affairs under the laws and under the Constitution. We have learned to know and to be jealous of the rights of laborer to his pursuit of his place in industry. When I was a boy I can remember there was nothing done to tear down industry. All that labor unions did was to see that the laborer had a right to some recognition and a decent living, and in every other way and every other fashion he worked with the employer.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Westmoreland will state his point of order.

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, is the gentleman speaking on House Bill No. 413?

Mr. STOCKHAM. He is, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will confine himself to the bill before the House. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. BAKER. Mr. Speaker, I believe both of these bills have been debated backwards and frontwards and every other way, and I move the previous question.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman withdraw his motion until the gentleman from Bucks has completed his remarks?

Mr. BAKER. I will do that, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman from Allegheny. The gentleman from Bucks will proceed.

Mr. STOCKHAM. Mr. Speaker, continuing my thoughts on these measures, I believe it is rather audacious for those of Communistic leanings or teachings in Naziism to take the stand that is taken in Legislative halls today when we get up to defend the rights of our citizenry, our citizenship.

It was Patrick Henry, you will remember, in those famous words after he finished when he said: "Give me liberty or give me death," there was a murmur over the House and someone said "He speaks treason." Patrick Henry answered "if that be treason make the most of it."

I hold that it is almost treasonable, I hold that the words we have used today as subversive are almost of themselves treasonable in the sense that we do not have the right to put on the statute books laws that may defend our liberty.

I am not of the legal fraternity; I bow in great respect to those members of this House who are, to the position taken by the member from Allegheny and to the discourses as I have heard them from the various lawyers of this House on these subjects in the past few days, but I do want to remind you men, every one of you, if you please, that the law is predicated upon the soul of the nation, and I do think that it is the soul that is in you, that is in me, that makes man willing to give up everything of his substance and of his blood to defend those rights, and that he has a right too to stop those things that creep in and that undermine and destroy.

I challenge every man here to those great rights because this country has grown because of this privilege that has been ours under these inalienable rights, and upon that premise I hold that we should look, within our own souls and our own beings and that we should defend everything. I hold too that we have the right of opinion as to those in high place, be they Federal or be they state, who would undermine our government; we have a right to know these things. So please, gentlemen, in considering these bills as they may be amended, let us not forget those rights and those privileges.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE

Mr. STOCKHAM. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote which House Bill No. 413, Printer's No. 1100 passed third reading be reconsidered.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The SPEAKER. How did the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Stockham, vote on the bill on third reading?

Mr. STOCKHAM. Mr. Speaker, I voted in the majority.

The SPEAKER. How did the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, vote on the passage of this bill on third reading?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I voted in the majority.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. MODEL. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his point of order.

Mr. MODEL. Mr. Speaker, is anything in order except the calling of the roll at this time?

The SPEAKER. A motion to reconsider is in order.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Cambria will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, before considering the motion, or before deciding the question of the reconsideration of the vote by which this bill passed third reading, I would like to inquire if the bill is in proper position for final passage, inasmuch as the amendments offered by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, are not shown on this bill as amended? It is difficult to tell what was in the bill and what is in it now, both in the title and in section one.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Rose, state his point of order again? I am sorry I did not hear it.

The SPEAKER. It is a question of parliamentary inquiry to the effect that the amendments of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, do not show in Printer's No. 1100.

Mr. BROWN. In what part, may I ask, Mr. Speaker?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Cambria please explain?

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, in the title in line two, the last word and beginning line three, the word "institutions." Then in section one, page one, line two the words "by an overt act or acts"; as I recall those were the amendments offered by the gentleman from Allegheny, and they are not shown as such here, to show what the bill is in its present form.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, Printer's No. 1100, House Bill No. 413 will show those amendments. I wonder if the gentleman has the correct Printer's No.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, I have Printer's No. 1100. There is nothing there about "overt act" in an amendment.

Mr. Speaker, for the information of the gentleman I might say for the record, it seems to indicate that the original Printer's No. 1034 shows in section one, "No person whose philosophy doctrine or object or who is a member of any organization or group whose philosophy, doctrine or object proposes the change of the present democratic form of government—" as reprinted after the amendment and shown in Printer's No. 1080.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I call the gentleman's attention to the fact that the bill was amended twice. In Printer's No. 1030 the gentleman will see that those amendments were inserted. In Printer's No. 1100 we have the amendments in but not shown. We only show on Printer's No. 1100 the amendments inserted on third reading. If the gentleman will turn over to page two he will see the amendments that were inserted on third reading, beginning on page two, line twenty and ending on line twenty-four.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Cambria will state his question of information.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, should not the bill as we vote on it finally show each step in the amendments or deletion of any part of the bill, in order that we may consider the bill as compared with the previous form?

The SPEAKER. Apparently the gentleman does not understand the system of amending.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. I beg to differ, Mr. Speaker. I think I understand.

The SPEAKER. In amended bills in the last stage previous amendments are not indicated.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Are there no italics, Mr. Speaker, to indicate the amendments?

The SPEAKER. There are not.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BROWN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, whether he has a copy of House Bill 413 in front of him, Printer's No. 1100.

Mr. BROWN. Yes, I do, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, is the gentleman looking at the title? Line 4 of the title, the words "overt act" do not appear. Does that mean that the title is defective?

Mr. BROWN. It does not, Mr. Speaker. I rely on the famous case decided by our Supreme Court—I do not recall the direct citation. The Supreme Court said the title does not necessarily have to be an index, if it gives fair notice of what is contained in the bill.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I quite agree that that is the literal construction of the act, but inasmuch as he has inserted "by an overt act," does not that become a very important and necessary part of the notice as required.

Mr. BROWN. I believe not, Mr. Speaker. I believe that the title is perfect here. I do not think it is necessary in the title under the decision of the Supreme Court to do more than give fair notice of what the bill contains.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware will state his question of information.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I have now in my possession a set of the amendments which have been properly fitted to Printer's No. 1100. Unfortunately, they were made to Printer's No. 1080, and I sent them back to be fitted to Printer's No. 1100. I did not look at them after they came back to me. Apparently the only thing they did was to change Printer's No. 1080 to Printer's No. 1100.

The gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Stockham, has now made a motion to reconsider the vote. I wonder whether the majority will permit us to read the amendments now for the purpose of information so that if the vote is reconsidered we may introduce these amendments.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent for the reading of these amendments. Is there objection?

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, while I cannot speak for the majority, I would ask the members on this side of the House to give the courtesy to the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, that he might have the amendments read.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears no objections. The amendments will be read for the information of the House.

Will the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Stockham, withdraw his motion to reconsider the vote by which this bill passed third reading?

Mr. STOCKHAM. Yes, I will, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman from Bucks.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend title, page 1, line 3, by inserting after the word "who" and before the word "hereafter" the following: "heretofore or."

Amend title, page 1, line 6, by inserting after the word "United States" and before "providing" the following:

"or are members of any organization promoting or advocating Communism, Facism, or Naziism or as a teacher in schools supported by public funds advocated or hereafter advocates Communism, Facism, or Naziism."

Amend Sec. 1, page 1, line 1, by inserting after the word "who" and before the word "hereafter" the following:

"heretofore has advocated or actively participated or".

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 2, by inserting after the words "United States" and before "by" the following: "or who is a member of any kind of organization of individuals promoting or advocating Communism, Facism or Naziism or who being a teacher in any school supported by public funds has advocated or continues to advocate Communism, Facism, or Naziism."

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I call your particular attention to the fact that in the amendments to the act, page 1, line 6, should be line 7 instead of line 6. In the counting the lines an error was made and they undoubtedly got the wrong line. It should be line 7.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill, House Bill 413, Printer's No. 1100, passed third reading be reconsidered.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I urge upon the Members to vote down this motion. I think the amendments have been covered in our discussion during the last several days.

The amendments should be divided into three parts, first of all naming Communism, Facism, and Naziism in the bill. My answer to that is simply this, that if these organizations propose the overthrow of the government by a means not provided for by the Constitution, they are sufficiently taken care of in the bill, and this amendment is so much surplusage.

So far as the question of striking out the conjunction, "and" and putting in the word "or" the gentleman from Dauphin and myself debated that some few days ago at length. I will not go over that discussion, but I will direct your attention to that discussion.

The third and last thing to be accomplished by this amendment is something having to do with the teachers and making a separate provision for teachers aside from the general bill. I would say that is bad legislation; this is a general bill. If the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner desires to amend the Teacher's Tenure Act, he should do it in that bill and not in this. I, therefore, ask the members to vote down this motion.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BROWN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, if House Bill No. 396, which was introduced by me some time in January, amending the Teacher's Tenure Act, is amended to provide for Communism, Naziism and Facism as provided in this act, will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown support them?

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I will not commit myself on any bill that I have not read or been familiar with. I will be glad to talk with the gentleman personally and give him my opinion. I think it is bad policy for any Member of this House who is not familiar with a bill to give any opinion as to what he will do on a bill before he has studied it. I do not say that facetiously to the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, but I think the question is wholly unfair. Whether or not the particular designation of the organizations should be put into the bill, I am not able to say. I would, however, say to the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner in my personal opinion it has nothing to do with it, and I hope we will not fall into the error of trying to bind anybody as to what he will do on a particular bill. I will be glad to give the bill the utmost consideration, and if I feel that in amending the Teacher's Tenure Act these designations should go in, I would be the first man on the floor to say so, but I do not care to bind myself on any piece of legislation before I have read it.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I do not intend to protract the debate. I understood the gentleman from Allegheny Mr. Brown to say that this is a general bill and should not have these specific provisions inserted in it.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I said special.

Mr. TURNER. That if the Teachers Tenure Act were to be amended, that would be something else. I agree with the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, and I would not ask him for a minute to talk on a bill which he did not know anything about or the provisions of which he had not seen, but I assumed from his statements that he was saying if the Teachers Tenure Act was so amended he would be in favor of it. If I am wrong in that then I am very sorry.

It seems to me we are facing the fact and the very question that was raised all along; we know there is no use debating it any further. We believe on this side as was demonstrated by the things we have said, and I believe that the great majority of the men on the other side also believe that there is a line of demarcation between saying that you advocate the overthrow of the government openly by overt acts, to participate in that,—of course we are against that; that is the reason why we voted for the bill that was before you,—we couldn't argue against that, but it doesn't go far enough, and it does not meet the problem.

I could go on here and pile up arguments why I do not think it meets the problem and why you should agree to these amendments in order that we might in some degree, if not entirely, try to meet it, but the hour is late and the debate has been going on now for a considerable length of time. Mr. Speaker, I therefore ask the Members of the House to support these amendments when offered.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to add a few words on the motion to reconsider. This bill in its present form is not printed in conformity with our rule 49. I think we should go back and reconsider this, even if the amendments be defeated, at least have it printed in proper form. Our responsibility here is too great deliberately to pass legislation in violation of one of the rules of the House that prescribes our procedure.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman yield? For the information of the gentleman from Cambria the Chair would inform him that we have been operating under a revised system of amending bills with the consent of the House, both the majority and the minority floor leaders.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Even so, Mr. Speaker, the rules prescribe that amendments must be printed in italics and indicated in the succeeding Printer's No., which has not been done in Printer's No. 1100.

The SPEAKER. By consent that rule has been suspended for this session.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. My, point, Mr. Speaker, is that we have indicated insertions in italics as in previous years. This bill does not have the amendments in italics and I know of no bill in this session which was allowed to pass in this form.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is in error. When the amendments were inserted in the previous Printer's Nos. they appeared in italics and in brackets in succeeding reprints. The Chair is of the opinion that the gentleman from Cambria is in error, and would request the gentleman to come to the desk with a copy of the bill.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, the members could vote yes on this motion to reconsider so that we would have it in proper form when we vote finally on it.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would inform the gentleman that the bill is in proper form. With the consent of both the majority and the minority floor leaders the rule was suspended for this session.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I just want to say that my understanding of the practice in the handling of amendments is in accordance with that of the Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman from Dauphin.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

So the question was determined in the affirmative and the motion was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. ELWOOD J. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk for information.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend title, page 1, line 3, by inserting after the word "who" and before the word "hereafter" the following: "heretofore or."

Amend title, page 1, line 7, by inserting after the word "United States" and before "providing" the following: "or are members of any organization promoting or advocating Communism, Fascism, or Naziism or as a teacher in schools supported by public funds advocated or hereafter advocates Communism, Fascism, or Naziism."

Amend Sect. 1, page 1, line 1, by inserting after the word "who" and before the word "hereafter" the following: "heretofore has advocated or actively participated or."

Amend Sect. 1, page 2, line 2, by inserting after the words "United States" and before "by" the following: "or who is a member of any kind of organization of individuals promoting or advocating Communism, Fascism or Naziism or who being a teacher in any school supported by public funds has advocated or continues to advocate Communism, Fascism, or Naziism."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection?

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his point of order.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, is it not necessary for the gentleman from Delaware to obtain unanimous consent on the part of the House to ask for consideration of the amendments?

The SPEAKER. The point of order is well taken.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Delaware has asked for unanimous consent.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent? Is there objection? The Chair hears objection and consent is not granted.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Dauphin will state his point of order.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, the point of order is that the cry of "no" from the floor of the House is not a legitimate objection. Any one making objection should rise to his feet, be recognized by the Chair, and then make his objections.

The SPEAKER. The method followed by the Chair in recognizing objections to requests for unanimous consent has been sanctioned by long usage. The Chair hears objections.

MOTION TO RECONSIDER VOTE

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, in view of the objections to unanimous consent made on the other side of the House, I now move that the vote by which this bill was ordered to be transcribed for third reading be reconsidered.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The SPEAKER. How did the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, vote on the final passage of this bill?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I voted in the majority.

The SPEAKER. How did the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside, vote on the final passage of this bill?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I voted in the majority.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I am somewhat confused and I feel that many of the Members are confused. Am I correct in assuming that we are voting now on whether or not the vote by which this bill was ordered to be transcribed for third reading be reconsidered?

The SPEAKER. That is correct.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, it is useless to put any extended remarks into the record, but I do feel that this play now is just a play to accomplish delay. The bill is satisfactory to everybody with the exception of a few on the other side of the House. However, if they feel that they must gain their purpose, certainly I would be the last man to stand up here and take the time of the House on this hot day to get into a parliamentary wrangle over this bill. I think we ought to defeat this motion and the bill ought to go on to final passage as it was originally drafted and amended. Therefore, I ask the Members of the House to vote down this motion to reconsider.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would certainly be the last one on this hot day to prolong this debate. I am possibly suffering more than anyone else in this House except the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Leydic. However, this is too important a matter, far too important, and I feel that the Members of the House ought to have an opportunity to vote on the amendments themselves.

I do not want to take up the time of the House. If unanimous consent had been granted the amendments would have been before the House and the Members would have had the opportunity to pass upon them, but some Members on the other side did not want to give unanimous consent. Therefore, I am forced, Mr. Speaker, to make the motion and to ask for a roll call, much as I dislike to do so and take up the time of the Members of the House.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I simply want to call the Member's attention to the absurd situation we will be in with House Bill 413 passing in one form and House Bill 448 in another. If we are perfectly sincere in this, why not pass House Bill 413, which is a companion bill to House Bill 448 and let both of them go to the Senate in the same way? It seems to me the height of inconsistency to say that if House Bill 413 is amended in one way then House Bill 448 should be amended in another way.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, during this entire session the majority and the minority have cooperated to the fullest extent to permit the Members of the House to have full expression on all these important issues. The situation now is that this House by a majority vote has indicated its desire to take up these amendments by their agreeing to the motion to reconsider the vote by which it passed third reading. I think this situation is very similar to many instances during the session where once the vote is taken and the opinion of the House is determined, the majority of the Members of the House determine that thereafter the House be permitted by unanimous consent to proceed to the matter at issue. The House by a majority vote has indicated its willingness and its desire to have the bill reconsidered, and I think that is an indication that the House wants these amendments presented and voted upon. If we are compelled to move the bill back to second reading, and the amendments adopted, the bill will be back on the calendar third reading, it is true. If they are defeated the bill will be back on second reading. We have consumed a lot of the time of the House in debating this matter, and I think in fairness the gentlemen on the other side should withdraw their objections to unanimous consent and permit a vote on the amendments.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, if this motion prevails, and the bill is moved back to second reading, will it not require another legislative day to pass the bill?

The SPEAKER. It will if the amendments are agreed to. The bill will then be placed on the third reading calendar.

Mr. SHEPARD. But even, Mr. Speaker, if they are not agreed to, if the bill is moved back to second reading, will it not require another legislative day to pass the bill?

The SPEAKER. If the bill goes back to second reading it will then be on second reading.

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, and it cannot be passed on finally today?

The SPEAKER. The bill could not be passed on finally today. It would require another legislative day.

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to the reconsideration of this vote. We have been on these bills long enough. I am opposed, Mr. Speaker, to teachers teaching any kind of "isms" in the schools, Naziism, Fascism, or Communism or even Republicanism. I think the teachers ought to teach what they are supposed to teach. I am informed that we have had teachers teaching all kinds of politics in the schools. The Teacher's Tenure Act decided on these points, and this bill will be an opening gap for the teachers that were teaching a lot of "isms," Communism, Fascism and Naziism or any other "ism" in this Commonwealth.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I note from the calendar that this bill was introduced on February 18. Certainly another day will not hurt it.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Turner and Mr. Woodside.

Messrs. Maxwell, Petrosky and Tarr asked for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, is the next procedure on House Bill 413 the question of whether or not the House will agree to the amendments offered by the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner?

The SPEAKER. The next step in the procedure will be to reconsider the vote by which the bill passed second reading; that would be the next question for the Chair to receive.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I know we all want to abide by the rule of the majority, and if the will of the majority prevails I will voice no sentiment against it. However, I will ask the Members whether or not, with all of the high sounding language of the amendments,—I just had a chance to go through them carefully,—there is one amendment by which the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, takes out the word "hereafter" and puts in the word "heretofore." I believe that is the heart of all the amendments. What would happen? It would create one of the greatest witch hunts that has ever been had in the state.

In other words, the Department heads could go back ten or fifteen years. If there is any merit in the other amendments offered by the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, I will be glad to sit down with him and go over them, but I am sure the Members of the House do not want to open the flood gates of such a cruel abuse of power as is contained in this bill, by striking out the word "hereafter" and inserting instead the word "heretofore" without limitation of time for these amendments.

BILL AND AMENDMENTS LAID ON TABLE

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the bill and the amendments be laid on the table.

The motion was agreed to.

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. LEVY asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Workmen's Compensation to meet during the session of the House for the purpose of considering House Bill 1768.

which was dropped under the rules of the House from the third reading postponed calendar at the end of five days be reinstated on the third reading postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

CONGRATULATORY RESOLUTION

Mr. TURNER offered the following resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

In the House of Representatives, July 1st, 1941.

Whereas, On July 1st, 1900, there entered into this vale of tears one, Louis Wilgarde, who now retains very little resemblance to that small child then crying in his mother's arms; and

Whereas, The figure forty-one does not refer to Mr. Wilgarde's waist, but to his chronological age; and

Whereas, On July 1st, 1900, we have been reliably informed, there was no mustache present, where now there flourishes one of the best; and

Whereas, This baby grew up to be a newspaper man of considerable skill, a soldier who distinguished himself in the service of his country during the World War, and an adept publicist for the Philadelphia Democratic delegation in the Legislature; and

Whereas, During the past years, he has made innumerable friends by whom he is held in the highest esteem in both the House and Senate; be it therefore

Resolved, That the House of Representatives congratulates the Honorable Louis Wilgarde on this his forty-first birthday and wishes him continued success throughout life, but pauses to warn that some effort should be made to keep his waist beneath his chronological age.

Be it Further Resolved that the Chief Clerk forward a copy of this Resolution to Mr. Wilgarde.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I have had during this session on a number of occasions a lot of sympathy for you in your position, especially when I know a little, as I do, about a large number of the members of your party in the House and the difficulties thereby engendered. I know that you have had a lot of sorrows during the session; I know you have had a lot of headaches, but it seems to me that those headaches would have been greater, and I know mine would have been far less if I had in my term as Speaker as good a right arm as you have had in Louie Wilgarde. I want to say Mr. Speaker as a member of this minority party and as one who has frequently been in and out of the Speaker's office, contacting members on matters of legislation, that I have always received the finest, the most courteous and the most understanding treatment from your able assistant Louie Wilgarde. I envy you because I did not have Louie Wilgarde during my term of office.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman from Delaware.

On the question recurring.

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

CONGRATULATORY RESOLUTION

Messrs. MOLLAND and McINTOSH offered the following resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, July 1, 1941.

For the past six months during which the General Assembly of Pennsylvania has been building up to an all time record for the length of a legislative session, the page boys of the House of Representatives have served its members diligently and well. This is especially true of William C. Walker, who has been called into military service in defense of his country, to commence on next Monday, July the seventh.

Walker is a resident of Carlisle and a graduate of the Carlisle High School, where he distinguished himself in track and football. His preliminary training in school athletics and in serving the members of the House should make him an outstanding soldier; and the eloquence of the Assemblymen in which he has steeped for the past half year should inspire him to great deeds of patriotic valor; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the members of the House of Representatives, while regretting the loss of his services to themselves, congratulate William C. Walker on the opportunity for serving his country and gaining for himself training and experience of inestimable value in later life, as well as the opportunity for advancement in the military service, to, per chance, the rank of General by the time this House meets again in general session; and be it further Resolved, That a certified copy of this resolution be transmitted by the Chief Clerk to our soldier page at his home, 213 West North Street, Carlisle, Pennsylvania.

CONGRATULATORY RESOLUTION

Messrs. PRESLEY N. JONES and POLASKI offered a privileged resolution which was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, July 1, 1941.

So many whose birthdays would not have been reached at an ordinary legislative session now come in for their full share of birthday greetings by official resolution. Thus we have on the third of July, some forty-two years ago, the day when Delbert William Dalrymple increased the population of the world by one. Born a Republican in Pierpont, Ohio—we fear he has been a bit "teched in the head" ever since.

We realize now why he is always so cheerful and breezy, for he peddles breezy air-conditioned Nash automobiles.

He takes his legislative duties with much seriousness—but is so far committed to the principles of drug store cowboyism, as to devour with great relish vast quantities of sundaes topped with huge gobs of whipped cream; therefore, be it

Resolved, That if the House of Representatives could sing one-half as well as two Western Union boys, we would sing to you, Mr. Dalrymple: "Happy birthday, to you! Happy birthday to you! Happy birthday, dear Delbie! Happy birthday to you." But at any rate, we wish it to you; and instruct our Chief Clerk to certify to you a copy of this resolution as a token of our extreme affection.

CONDOLENCE RESOLUTION

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker I arise at this time with a great deal of grief and sorrow to offer the Assembly on behalf of myself and my colleagues the following privileged resolution. I had intended to make a few remarks on it, but due to the prolonged discussion that ensued in the House this afternoon, and knowing that you, Mr. Speaker and Members of the House want to finish the business of the House, I will refrain from making any extended remarks on the characteristics and the greatness of the personality of the one to whom the members wish to pay their respects. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, this gentleman who is in my mind will remain with us as a model in the art of music and in the category of statesman, one of the greatest of statesmen that ever lived.

Mr. PETROSKY offered the following resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, July 1, 1941.

Ignace Jan Paderewski died in New York after a life time devoted to the expression of the highest ideals towards which any human being can aim.

His achievements as a statesman are only surpassed by his greatest of all gifts to the cultural life of the civilized world in the field of music. His fame as a musician was world renowned and to those of us who have been fortunate enough to attend his concerts, he will always remain as a symbol of all that is great in the art of interpretation of music through the medium of the piano.

Just as he was preeminent in the field of musical achievement, so was he outstanding in playing a leading role in the re-establishment of the Polish Republic. He spent his entire life in support of Polish independence and was honored by the Polish Republic for his great patriotic efforts by becoming its first Premier and will be remembered as the counselor and liberator of free Poland. He was probably the world's first famous musician in history to abandon his art at the height of his success in order to devote himself to liberating and unifying his country, finally solidifying the Polish Government after it had been recognized by the United States. The world recognition that he attained as a statesman came at the Versailles Peace Conference and received the highest respect from the leaders of the Democratic nations. In our memories will remain many other traits of this great personality in behalf of disabled army veterans and those who suffered under this tyrannical rule of aggressives.

He confided to a friend that the greatest joy he ever experienced in life came when Poland was recreated as an independent nation. This is readily understood and we, his admirers, hold him in highest esteem for his everlasting patriotism to his country and his tireless efforts on behalf of a free people.

As throughout his entire life, his activities to the last breath in an endeavor to restore the ideals that are today being destroyed, Paderewski was engaged in fostering and encouraging the sale of defense bonds, so that all our efforts to preserve Democracy should succeed; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives notes with sorrow of the passing of this great musician and even greater patriot and desires this opportunity to pay its great respect to one of the world's immortals, be it further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted by the Chief Clerk of the House to the sister of Ignace Jan Paderewski, Mme. Antonina Wilwonska, Hotel Buckingham, New York City, N. Y.

Due to the fact that the Governor is and was away and the final date to act on the bills here or about here, and in order that the Governor might have full opportunity to act and pass upon them, the Democratic Members of the House agreed to cooperate to the end of giving him the opportunity he desires to examine the bills, and therefore, recalled them for that purpose.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. BURLEIGH A. PETERS offered the following prayer:

O God, Our Heavenly Father, Thou hast been our help in ages past and we trust Thee as our Hope now when the true lights of our old world seem to be going out.

We are truly thankful that we are Americans, and living under a representative government. May Thy Presence inspire us and Thy Wisdom guide us in these days of gigantic struggle among other nations that we may not suffer a blackout of liberty in our own beloved land. May it be clearly discernible to the nations of the earth they can not long survive if their best blood is shed upon the field of battle.

Earnestly do we seek Thy helpful Presence in these closing days of this General Assembly. Are we able to say as it closes that we have labored for the very best interests of all the people of our Commonwealth? So may it have been as we humbly pray in Thy Holy Name. Amen.
